

(copy)

His Majesty passed the last day cheer-fully and contentedly, and with every appearance of good bodily health. Last night His Majesty slept seven hours and an half, and He is very composed this morning -

(signed) W. Aberdeen
J. Willis

Windsor Castle
9 Dec. 1828

To Her late Majesty's Council

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper]

To the late Majesty's Council - Dec: 10. 1800.

The King is in calm good spirits this morning - but full of mental disease.
 His Majesty did not sleep more than three quarters of an hour in the night, being incessantly occupied in arranging his bed - but His Majesty had slept two hours and a half in the latter part of yesterday evening. The day was a good one.

Henry Hafford
 J. Miller

(a copy)

Windsor Castle

To Her late Majesty's Council - Dec: 11. 1714

The King has slept five hours since our last report - but only two of them, however, in bed. His Majesty's countenance is clear and open - and he seems contented, and as happy as the misfortune of his mental health admits him to be.

Henry Hatfield
J. W. M.

London Castle

(a copy)

(Copy)

— To Her late Majesty's Council —

His Majesty slept three hours in the course of yesterday, and rather more than two hours last night. His Majesty employed His time in cheerful conversation upon the usual topics, and ate His meals with satisfaction. This morning His Majesty looks well, and is dispos'd at present to sleep in His Chair —

(sign'd) M Baillie
J. Willis

Windsor Castle

Decr 12 — 1818

(copy)

— To Her late Majesty's Council —

His Majesty pass'd yesterday in tranquillity, and amus'd Himself with the usual Conversation — His Majesty ate His meals with satisfaction, and slept about two hours and an half in the course of the day — His Majesty slept the same length of time last night, and appears very well this morning —

(sign'd) M^r Baillie
J. Willis

Windsor Castle
Decr 13 — 1818

Sir David Dundas has the honor to inform His Royal Highness The Prince Regent that His Majesty continues to enjoy a state of great tranquillity.

His Majesty slept four hours last night without interruption.

This Morning His Majesty appears to be in His usual health.

Windsor Castle

14. December 1810.

(Copy)

To Her late Majesty's Council

His Majesty was occasionally cheerful yesterday, and never otherwise than in a mild and comfortable state, and His manner of amusing Himself, as usual, influenced by His Disorder. His Majesty slept one hour before He went to bed last night, and four hours uninterruptedly after He was in bed. His Majesty is in a placid state this morning.

Windsor Castle

Dec. 14. 1818.

J. Willis

David Dundas,

(Copy)

His Majesty passed an exceedingly quiet day yesterday in his usual manner, but got no sleep in the day time; at night
 His Majesty slept five hours and an half without interruption.

Windsor Castle
 15 Dec. 1848

(Signed) W Keble
 J Willis

To Her late Majesty's Council

(Copy)

His Majesty continues in a very comfortable state, betraying by his discourse a disorder'd, but a cheerful and contented condition of mind. His Majesty slept two hours in the afternoon yesterday, and four hours and an half in his bed last night.

(signed) W Herndon
J Willis

Windoor Castle
16 Dec. 1818

To Her late Majesty's Council

MED/16/12/412

To the late Majesty's Council. Dec. 17. 1611.

The King did not sleep yesterday - but passed a quiet contented good day.
His Majesty slept three hours last night, and is cheerful and well this morning - but fully possessed by this distemper.

Henry Walford
Rob. Willis

Bladen Castle

(a copy)

MED/16/12/413

To the late Queen's Council. Dec: 10. 1710.

The King slept three hours and a half last night on first going to bed - and His Majesty is now asleep in His chair.

His Majesty's state continues a very quiet contented one. - He talk'd with spirit yesterday - but without excitement - and slept almost an hour before dinner.

Army halford Robt Willis

Windsor Castle

(a copy)

(copy)

- To Her late Majesty's Council -

His Majesty passed yesterday in tranquillity, and amused Himself with the usual conversation - His Majesty ate His meals with satisfaction, and slept about an hour and an half in the course of the day - His Majesty slept five hours and an half last night, and appears very well this morning -

(signed) M Baillie
R. Willis

Windsor Castle

Dec 19 - 1818

(Copy)

— To Her late Majesty's Council —

His Majesty was very quiet throughout yesterday, and amused Himself in the usual manner — His Majesty slept about three hours in the course of yesterday, and rather more than four hours last night — His Majesty is in good humour this morning, and looks very well in the countenance —

(signed) W. Baillie
R. Willis

Windsor Castle
Decr 20 — 1810

MED/16/12/416

(Copy)

To Her late Majesty's Council

The King passed a very quiet day yesterday, but without any sleep. In the night His Majesty slept only one hour. His Majesty is goodhumoured and cheerful, and looking extremely well, this morning.

(signed)

Windsor Castle

Dec. 21. 1818

Robt. Willis
David Dundas

Sir David Dundas has the honor to inform His Royal Highness The Prince Regent that although His Majesty slept none yesterday, & only one hour in the night, He is this Morning in His usual tranquil state amusing Himself in His ordinary way.
His Majesty's Lady Health appears to be good.

Windsor Castle

21. December 1807.

MED/16/12/418

(copy)

His Majesty pass'd a very quiet day yesterday, but got no sleep till he went to bed. His Majesty very soon fell asleep for nearly four hours. His Majesty is looking well, and has fallen asleep again since his breakfast this morning -

(signed) W Aberdeen
J Willis

Windsor Castle

22 Dec. 1848

To Her late Majesty's Council

(copy)

His Majesty slept four hours yesterday morning, and passed the day cheerfully and well. Last night His Majesty slept from a little after nine till three without waking. His Majesty continues in good bodily health, and in a tranquil state of mind -

(signed) W Keble
J Willis

Windsor Castle

23 Dec. 1848

To Her late Majesty's Council

MED/16/12/420

To the late Majesty's Council. Dec: 24. 1810. ²

The King's general health is good, and His Majesty makes no complaint whatever - His spirits were excellent yesterday - but His conversation manifested His alienated mind. His Majesty slept four hours and a half in the course of the day - and more than three hours last night.

Henry Hallford
J. Willis.

Windsor Castle

(A Copy)

To the late Majesty's Council. Dec: 25. 1710.

The King pass'd a very quiet day yesterday, but without sleep. In the evening His Majesty spoke in a louder tone of voice, and gave way to a momentary burst of passion - but when he retired to bed he soon fell asleep, and slept uninterrupted for four hours and a half. His Majesty is very tranquil this morning.

Henry Hafford

J. Willis

Windsor Castle

(a copy)

