

4/17?

April 7 1812

MED | 17 | 1 | 98

My dearest Brother

This has been a very mixed sort of day - Brother <sup>made</sup> himself <sup>known</sup> early this morning & nothing could be <sup>worse</sup> than the conversation that passed through all in <sup>good</sup> <sup>humour</sup> <sup>humour</sup> when the journal came they decided to Henry subject to speak to the King before them that they might enlighten themselves the real state of things - Iu first part of what passed was very good, but before the conversation ended the King displayed all the errors & they had quite proof enough been discovered the King, indeed is & got equal proof been wonderfully little his memory has suffered not with the <sup>meanings</sup> ~~translating~~ what <sup>meanings</sup> ~~should~~ <sup>meanings</sup> ~~was~~ <sup>was</sup> ~~had~~ <sup>had</sup> ~~and~~ the length of the ~~days~~ The Queen has been <sup>of</sup> ~~quite~~ intent ~~on~~ the subject of the letter & appears to ~~try~~ to have greatly ~~recovered~~ the misery it <sup>caused</sup> ~~caused~~ the first day — Yours

Mary

the
the
the
and

[Faint, illegible handwriting, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page]

