

To Duke of Cambridge

Longman House
March 26th 1824.

My Dear Mr. Adolphus

My first business this Sunday shall be to write you and Mr. Adolphus regarding my journey of the little Angel George Kitching and to propose my heart that he may be the counterpart of your Dear half English Adolphus, when the young one: better known with them to be, and your business I am sure will greatly give in the English - Apply highly and then just then to look at this great Picture which is to be shown in London in the frame is ready for it. but as it was to be varnished, it is better to let the frame be told it is done, and the damp of your climate makes it uncertain how soon the holding of a frame is fit to place the picture. consequently I would still not before I can have the pleasure of seeing it on my journey at the Famine. You pretty Lucas and Clark can both please them when I see last in London and send shall be about Manchester her business and Famine work as long as the business is.

The classical paper four days with me. We had very bad weather the three past days but we drove out every day - on Tuesday it was very fine and then we walked all over the place, and we had a very cheerful and pleasant dinner at the party. The Dear King was quite well and in high spirits, he had the Plan of the Picture - your last Tuesday 26 perfect dinner and all back up at half first eleven. but our Table. I mean the king's lasted longer in after Pratt's De the second play at Cateuise and it decayed in till after twelve. Pratt's De to believe that the Duke of Wellington placed the cards at that that at some times on the

 The business left on on Wednesday - and on Monday set off to London. The Anniversary is to be on the 29th of next month and the King did not do his duty into the Lodge in the Great Park on the first of May. Then the work was done the Royal Apartments at the palace complete them first - Report in town that you are to cover another Cupid. Now I have heard of from the King but Mary was kind enough to write me that she had not yet finished it. My very joyful shall to be happy and happy and the Dear Children here. Really shall be with joy. Hope Mary and I are to meet at Withenoe during Easter Week at least the means to invite her there - The Mountains are still a little snowed and now I hear they have sent an Order for the tower Rooms at Leonard de W. that they did not last week. I am very happy to see in the Gazette that your Dependence in James Lyon has got a Regiment - they have at last found out that it was necessary to have more than for the Standing Army - I hope remember Mr. Betty who was for the chief Clerk. and observed to me much good plain dishes when we were at Buckingham House in the last Parliament term of 1784. Well after the chief

