I got your kind note last night & would have answered you directly but had not a minute I fear I shall not be able to get the — to have the Myrtle as she has settled at Mr & Barks all I rec'd & the tooth man we have got an apartment for you & Mrs G. Villiers at a house in the town which was offered to my Mother & she has consented to say she has had you down for an apartment & I flatter myself there will be room enough if you like it to have your Brother & my Mother down — we go to the 10 to morrow now & from thence to Woodrow which I am not sorry for & thank God it has pleased when I could with satisfaction to befall but there has been a little request thereabout for it has been a most difficult business I have a great deal to say & so soon it is very late & I am so sleepy I can scarcely see but always happy of another minute of seeing yourself your very sincere friend You know who

I should very much wish you to know that the D^r had mentioned the Child to the K^{ing} yesterday - you must have it just as I was told it but it was singular at least it was so to me that an answer had be given next week but that in a few days. He should hear that we got it had not been put before the Judges, but that they asked when they gave their opinion to the J^{udge} he would be the cause of their then doing so - I think that is word for word what I was told, & would have written to you the instant I came into my room but my head as it broke - & my head such a weight it was with all I have gone through about my poor & much beloved friend that I give you my honest

& further, & your own words be
own way statement of affection & feeling must be put
- aside & we must bear the appearance of being looked upon as brutes - I never in my life have been so worried tormented & teased as this year
made of Iron & Brass - The G. told me on the 10th summer last night that he had taken care to say how much he was about with this business concerning Dr. What I thought it unlike the subject.

Necessity of an English man to persuade a Roman creature as Dr. now was -

I was going off for Scotland I have only time to inform you

good & serious as yourself that the work very well satisfaction I enjoyed.

Yours truly
M. J. G. J. G.

you kindly said hearing from me would not be disagreeable therefore I take up my pen to be give you some correspondence with pleasure as is ever the case when I thank an obliging you for without comment I feel a gratitude towards you which is easier felt than expressed
 me true & steady friend
 able situation a friend is a precious gem to which ought to be coloured

me - this is from the must not dictated by your cast on the language
up & say much when you fear your heart think I had caught any of the flame flame language I will tell you that as to health my Father can not be better than some Lumpen of mixed continents that resignation to the will of God, & the He says he sees better, promptly speaking we think He sees worse the proof I will give you. The day before yester

the light blinding same & told my Mother she must be sure his shutting way strong for he could not
at the windows near shut leaving light i: rough for us to speak fast by & then He was not pleased on account of it being Dusk there for you see it must be as the state of the eye is - This morning he was again talked it over with great sincerity with my Mother who has taken this misfortune more

I can express — I must say I never saw my Father take things so well, so mildly & so reasonably as this
appear to plague him
to be on the Explanade of unweaving & so get
is delighted with Col Taylor whose coming way an acquisition to appear the picture of good nature & like all truly sensible

I have been perfectly unpersecuted only writing to what he ought in that I had I should quote in a
has spoke in the change thence now grateful respects to Frederick
any body we know the
the place is very full Mr. Quaker & by many fields are here she looks
she always the gentle man & a safe person to be with the thing - Lord Dorchester to the surprise of every body arrived here yesterday morning very much better. The King looked them to come over for today so he comes Friday when I know more of the Society I am keeping you will have an account of what I think feel & believe about them but it must be for your own ear but I cannot

larly write the following note to - I am well here since Saturday My Father I am writing to him better than he
the fatigues of the journey my my Sister & wife knowing that there

incursions times are all
member you
hearing of nothing else I have heard nothing at all therefore you do hear any news I wish let me know it I wish Thank you very kindly love to dear Mrs G. let

sincerely

I have had to remark I write that word at full length as generally it is written that she is

the false & putting the end of it serves as a by note to truth you will be in my eyes!

By the bye a man wants to dedicate something to me he says he is known to your sister I send her two letters to my pleasure if you find it is true let me have a line from
say yes —

July 17 1805

I am in a peculiar manner very sick & a weak & uneasy person.
been prevented from writing for these two days. The A. was told yesterday that upon hearing Philips letter talked a little and perhaps more as has been the case Wm in the case - I will explain to you he was angry with the good advice of not writing the eye too much - & swore the nurse would tell what she felt & that that was her principle, & in short for fear of six months unpleasant but it went off - I really think my Madri does what she can for to tell you fairly the truth!

never saw any body more miserable she says wait not for constantly keeping her feelings to herself she would not go on - for ever with skin she can scarcely refrain from tears but might be wiped her steps & stepped that is enough to frighten any body - I have scarce by an accident forayed through my bedroom I wrote a great deal
it is such relaxing weather I cannot sleep - I think maybe would I pray better but she is
things weather glass & her up & down are totally wrong to know all the rest well - Augusta when her sad days of all things & a pleasure to be quite well - I may have hoped much

The Buckley made myself Memorandum & engaged my own room at her Leam - but I employ myself all day long Drawing & writing and my mind as I love it I have scarcely a moment for - I thank you for letters of yesterday it is even a pleasure to hear from you

We have memoranda of news from D Nelson - I hear he writes to Lady the multitude menid either I

Love to Mr & Mrs & the children George in particular - I shall be in exactly a better whole day

Let by (the) fact ~~was~~ today now ~~at~~ in ~~case~~ than said ~~of~~ believe me

I have not much time to write
which you know of Goldie
thought there was the
opinion a change which
rmed of myself and even have said the
shook you to the same I wish even to see a friend quite a God send

to the last evening I felt
considerably but they decided to leave them - & as I have even made it a rule to give each find in their estimate I was surprised to find self - but I hope you
I therefore withdrew
how I must believe
some days that a considerable degree of in-

my Father's left eye with has made me very un-
would sayings he saw better which I am sure is not so I thank God they
found the inflammation
was ordered Leeches
now on the march most wisely told the Ld. the fact truth that if the inflammation sometimes I shall think it probable but that he has known cases (very rare ones) tho' when a violent inflammation has stopped a Cataract

on the break of a
of one side while of the other in such
equal chance - I mean that he says that if the Leeches do not do Cupping

every way I wish the was to be finished for I was sure he is so very heavy that he is too foul of blood, Othello's
surprise as he promised not to leave us till he is safe & his feeling & delivery quite & taking very
has been dreadful
sequence I think you men should wear present anatomy books not etc, the perfectly

nevertheless my father
too much feeling for
harmony with her by my to decimate her
is a person than ought never to be taken out of cotton for the most gentle wind blows her down -
As I am like her ready to make the best
withstanding even

drawn forth strong
quarter we had all feared so much that there had been a shell but with truth I can assure you there has
perfect good humour & a great desire to do every thing that
for there has been a hook which I think not so easily get over for

numous deafness wh is very troublesome & The relaxation she
wears her a good deal & in this room & indeed in the room of an evening before The Queen shade of the candle her tears flow in silence
pities sometimes
scarcely power to look forward when

(404) 8

I'm glad it is too much as all is in the hand of God & He can & may enable it to soothe the wounds which affliction bring
you will be a main in the labour
In just moment
I can I will write more but at this sent for fear of my

to assure my dear
affection & beg you to believe me truly

Thank God the account just sent me up is
 from is much better
 think how these have comforted me the Leeches have done wonders, & Phlebotomy has promoted the
 yesterday & just given to me as you now of the infla-mation is staked Phlebotomy today yesterday he promised not to stir if

he frankly owned
inflammation how ever got the best of him
much increased this
granted a blister
his head but the eye being better than ever before put off for the present -
yesterday evening

at home, we had seen partly as usual & he
more low but trying to keep from us all the while - Yesterday S.D. - tho lowering himself is
me let me know when you can I shall have very many for I make it my constant rule He has proved himself not that upright you said that he would own thought him
vice however he be

am perfectly sure had people been fair that Gov. P. would never have been out of favour
words said to a person in such a situation as that of a very other man - & I have now the comfort of knowing & bearing it said that Gov. P. is
quite understand the
A. K. by in this business do you for I thought they were
I. D. M. but if you wish to know my unprejudiced opinion

about these two people one has a great character to suspect - the
for his, & may be
at all it may have
of his mind but of that I cannot tell.

I have just heard that Munk's eye was a better appearance today & has improved some to be great at home all day

& he will remain till
shall hear from me again I promise you - I must now quit you & say that none loves
be more than

No time but a few lines to You - as I scribbled yes trying to say my Father is better but very low at times. I told my Mo
is quite naive & told me yesterday that she
from his pique & his subversion that if she were to allow herself she would constantly
wofull misfortune has called every feeling of affection forth again

do all to keep it up & I said strongly last night one should be praised to make any sacrifice
you know there are moments, one can
& prayerfully I learn
of reaction has been worrying the mind owing to DD & the ungrateful war about that war
goodness become to war over spirits

I keep up more even sincerely. I am determined to go through this July month can see without a man more back with every
power & I wish tell you how I do it I must in-God look up to him as the infliction of his for some wire purpose hope by bearing it to
that nothing can be it wished us even look any on the black side of things - what a

have got up with the
pleasant short ⁱⁿ y

Sir

You will be astonished at receiving this from me after our conversation this morning but since we came
been with us in a most violent
stated from going to Longmouth has abused Frederick & says she intends to give them a whole Catholic protest against America the & declare the worst things that can happen for the family is the reconciliation with my Brother & says if she is satisfied as she now is she will
saw her more violent I trust it is now over but I must own it was most terrible any but I think it was I also would by which you that it would now be a blessing of my mother was prevented at once for I am now the extracts of you. He said "I see how it will be, I have long expected it & know what I wish to do — He says the D^r has behaved very good naturedly to them to day, but that he never would forgive me being here & added his Duty was now now provided for & therefore he did not care what became of them & that the D^r Chancellor had told them all they had done was illegal

in but is determined some
trick which they will suffer for; what this means

I know not but really was so alarm ed & frightened by his manner
write you acquainted with it ————— I remain

Let me first thank You a thousand times for
valuable to me as a
early as by its com-
not but deeply know
good nature & friendship on all occasions I took an opportunity of mentioning the

who commended me to
kind attention but that she instead of by to furnish with Dinner therefore it would be unprofitable I was delighted with you it is a visit I shall

I am more happy to say about the dear Therap's eye for a second application of Leaches has subdued the infla-mation & Perhaps a puncture in the iris makes he does
sanguine still he com-
threatened with the ca-saract last year & that a violent Infla-
does make one hope as to health I never saw my father but

is sad yet he sees better
turns Sunday that has agreed not to see her after her return that he may not run the chance of getting any dust into her eye
day for perhaps weeks he may be amused
a wish that the King be amused & made happy that I give you my honour there is no thing I would not do to try & be useful to my best but alas I feel little equal to the task when I have time I must write to you a long epistle

things which you would would be very comfortable & I should not ask if I did not mean to follow it but then it must be said for one can often be of more use by appearing ignorant than knowing any thing from any one ~~person~~ as to good humanity it has shown him & the burden of the

sacrificed every father's comfort & happiness & that as for amusement
bear the thoughts of them
things that can believe
not approve married
nature more of my
time for no more

I have suffered so from headaches I have been almost blind otherwise you would have heard yesterday & I am a
great that I cannot take when I last wrote
particularly when I am at work as I have about the thing who is certainly gaining ground the Phlegm honestly says it will take some
eye owing to the use time of the Inflammation

and I have his own
has been absorbed in
gress of the cataract stopped I know that will please you & Drops says that
a considerable length of time he thinks
may recover his sight without an operation I hope is better but know more certainly that they will go on to see just now here to back flatter my self as a little to my always saying it is very wicked to make grievances &

to bear up & try & make others happy worry or perplex one self - I believe in every
to try & ease the pain
I can say with truth no one on earth can enjoy it more than I & if it were in my power I would even try to pourball people wishes - content is certainly in oneself & of things, dont go quite to ones wishes its will it is worse to be uncom-

into own feelings

I feel I am too honest to state yours that if you knew wh. you would approve of me were my eyes here & in
would more value me I am sure employment is a great essential to the enjoy-
truly enough to say not one minute of

found twenty hours has been idled away - & I have apprised my Mother
Must I take my Drawing on board You will be astonished how much I have done - Thursday sight is very good But which the 11 of them to delight in & the forenoon from before by the arrival of February tomorrow I find after all that I do you to Scotland the poor miserable creature is to be a war down - I do hope I shall not see Mr B. I have this year but very dirty world by inability to be present my

real sentiments of my heart & I am of opinion that often one does more harm than good to one's friends by resentment You do not think he will show Remembrance here when is Mr. Pitt how he talk of war

ing I am the Summable but one of the successors of his address I wish him to send as before
ponded maor stand low in the opinion of the principles
You have various parts I am not head to take down to be heard & remembered to you & Mr G. I considered me to write it is pleasant when consequence circumstances go to
the Duke of Gloucester

You are very right that I said I'd ask your advice - I think that you would approve - but my fear is certainly what I have said at least I therefore will begin but you must have a good share of patience for I must begin by telling you a story & you presume not to say to any one I have talked on the subject before don't think I fear you daring is best it is the terror in love is weaker one than
 seldom does see the terror of taking notice of one who see before I am aware of the might speak to me, certainly was my uncle & he told me that he had been told Shad said that my cousin was coming over to see my mother my sister but that I was sure it would not be Sophy for she had declared she never would settle abroad - I don't think I ever told it on that messenger said I but it can be no more than that

wish it & she would say it & I have been at some trouble to trace it & it is placed at your door & is very short of your own & hunting & things, I have God knows what I have suffered further, have been afflicted such as I wish she may ever find, & this report has been spread by some ill-intentioned & cruel person who wishes to hurt me with Sophy

I was quite understood that it was whom I was talking about I had better hold my tongue for I might wound you my words. I thought you I was wounded at Marguerite & I never I can swear consider a thing in my life of any one of my sister but from the hundred & most affectionate motives & as for saying of my heart could be seen you would find her in the most sincere part loved & cherished, & I am sure would make any sacrifice for her happiness - I thought it better to be perfectly quiet for as my feelings did not accord with those of the person I was speaking too I feared that it was false, but that I had heard my father often say so before and knew that she had promised never to marry. That she herself had often said so publicly & thought it very convenient to say those words in ear - when he was gone I had saying in a few words & in the gentle manner I had been spoke too & how much said I was because they had had told you it was not to be talked of that I belasably had not named it & that it had been named to me which I said the moment I was told & yet some that I have turned a deaf ear to every thing upon the subject but that I denied if she heard anything of my saying she would please to tell me, another day she said to me I wish if she were that it might be told her I wish not to have her see not your marriage at? certainly not for if I do they will say & say within that I want I want for myself but I certainly do not & it is perfectly out of the question for she might be well marry her Grandmother so that I want to assure you this would be hard for you know I think that without wanting thank you pleasure in any of those matters I have been guessed a faithful friend - I said to the more for you know

in measure & I am when once I am so I am I cannot recover myself at all & this is a wound I shall not easily get the better of my Father seems now so prepared for the young Gentlemen annual & its busy making that I pray God it may be so - but how can I sit back what is friendly & there would being abused - my second Brother affection for Sophy is beyond all believe & I am very far from sorry for it, I wish her happy & being friends with them may even be in her own mind which God knows I have ever been laid for I think her angelic myself & wish her never to know a cloud & it makes me miserable when I hear her disappointed with the world, myself & every body, I think she has been used unparagonably & that there must have done her mischief can never forgive themselves & I am a great deal of her money has sprung from people (I mean women) who she once thought her friends & I believe with grief I speak of that was old an always unwise of one another why I cannot tell of neither I was sense, feeling on any other good quality & what was it to have one neighbour within grains of common sense was so confounded that who takes & is taken care & for my own part the unwise case it may hurt me I do not take it ill for after all

I feel must not to make him able to do as you wish sooner but we must that some does not hang heavy upon our hands yesterday I wrote you a letter & laterally I had not got my things together after breakfast before we were sent for to go out to sea & I told men in there went to the flag at back heat so get the letter of mine that I can do nothing when I get into my room but not do day I have like a good swallow taken I wish by the fore look for it is not seven of look I am hardly awake yet that I may not disappoint you again I will go through what I mean toward the other day my father has spoken most & heavily con cerning the doctor & said he was not surprised every thing & that the thought he had said Mr P. ill & said strongly enough that he wished his own would come on again & appeared perfectly satisfied with Mr J. I have had this long while you for the conversation was with the D. of G. & the very day after your letter came to me. I don't think I have thanked you enough for yours of yesterday if I have not it is not from want of feeling your kindness for I do that as I ought & will abide by all you say, willing as I ever am to let me I will frankly say I have often been so to my own detriment but that will never make me flinch when I find I can serve a friend - you ask me about my dear Abby I firmly believe she loves you with the most sincerely & always talk of you as please me, & this is certainly flattering from her who loves so few; to return to me, & this subject which by the way for good writing she thought not to have quoted & much my Father promised with the D. C. — for her delay about that should be so much better with me as away from me as as I have her than too mean as for I fear it will ever be a source of sorrow & occasion of ill blood where one is most in need for union & harmony & it is thought with you that the sweetest would be much better paper near her Coten nal habitation, between friends the idea of the two subs had for "two of a trade can never agree" & as they are like buckets one away & one with the other it is all a chance how she may turn out she has money from friends but also in many too like the Mother were also waiting for news from Spain of joining at Calais. God grant good news the Continental Protestants appear to be brighten & that dreadful indignity of great Power is going off & a shame of Power is coming forward God grant it, my Father was wroth that when the news came of the shame of the crown soon taking place that they did the troops he says those things ought to have been thought of before, that some defence is the first thing, then the overplus need not have been prevented in bookishness - we surely live in more anxious times. He is much to be wroth at Lord B. giving the great hole but he is a man there is many perfectly well. The Duke told it to me but I think I could do it does not much good for he was in a hurry at having a card from

Q? B. What was ridiculous in my father

What perhaps he has guessed every heart here by his feelings & his sincere announcement with the King even those who were against him are rather warmly bound - His manner is certainly much quieter than that that soon goes off & his sensible mild manner.
He has certainly guessed many a point that otherwise he would never have been able to have convinced through - I hear Lord Stanwley comes today thank you very. Ad. A. L. 6. 24 Don't come

I say so far as I speak personally there appears a good deal of the shake under the semblance of perfect quietness & serenity.
The King has taken more to it Cambridge some time here he says he is a fair character & is not know him at all I suffer all I have gone through about D M - I shall never get accustomed with any great man I pray for M^{rs} G^l I believe from every thing he should I only wish he was a little more accommodating & that would most likely make him too perfect.

I told my Mother I was well my Sister told me my Father wrote to her D^d I was so very but he should be well known as a Gentleman not so perfect that sounds good but I see she don't like his writing - My Father is very much relaxed but this morning I have had a
& to his some things though would please her which has been all right I wrote to welcome more no time I am now by long you to remember me and kindly to hear from by return

with offered him to go aboard but he would not go very soon

I promised you a few lines today I wrote you say in such haste I am again pre-
name has been most kindly mentioned by me — I write fearfully to tell you that I don't think Mrs. Gwynne will be so says they are but I am sure they are not Mrs. Gwynne about the Duke yet but see the extent of the Duke's illness — I shoud wonder myself would not be yesterday for my further distress must say you have been such a friend
much he feels it — that the as of opinion now that my brother is in perfect good he never he should be left so which I am sure you will agree too — but the D^r C. does not whe the — I p^r than last year but

to death by wanting to be a perfect in his opinions that it ends in giving no opinion at all — You asked me whether there was any one here I care
up all my old manuscripts & by what I care to pass the same respectfully if not pleasantly but I find the trying to instruct even if one does not make great stride, soon to amuse — Drawing is my bottom self — Reading (when

promise me & breaks me up that I need neither become
what I think you will
when one shares society
Bishop of London, has proved a great comfort to

I should have written to you had you not done
even I hear from you for I look on you &

friends rare jewels at Court but we have none you & long long
of Gloucester & Drayton for well rendered I know as he is at has certainly about the 24 - 7 & he has a few

as I do not remember he
an hour yesterday, his chair yesterday at break fast & afterwards, was so bad he went to bed
at morning I was miserable as I he with the
as he had had a violent cold placed on his board Monday before last night
today, but still lame

warm bath - if you ask me it was so bad in hotel I think the Dr. said upon seeing your letter that as my inquiries were George is my friend & two or three times he has been pleased with
back I told us at once the forenoon he has drawn money from his father the matter
much surprised with it Dr. Hawk & his pretty little wife are here I have
a second I own I feel his
kind when I know it
all I can show - I have

found always amiable &
ly if not quite perfection
so wearily & so feelingly that I am quite proud
any thing so amiable so
his being here is quite
ful how tender he is of my Father cheerful & chearless with every
Sunday was angelic when
house a tear in his eye
good humours. I wish permanent & been anxious that the St. should be arrived & made as comfortable as possible in rest words but acknowledged & I give you my honours we have

 him. I he has not been well that is true & I privately tell you she is much increased in
 has remarked to me in private but I took
 would say nothing of
 no exercise which is a sad thing when she does
 by breathe from her

of an evening when she walks I walk with her for I have said to her it is the only moment I can show a thousand to men & women happiness having it & so far I am
whom he must tell
the eyes is not so great as I wish I fear his
better Augusta is grown remarkably fat & is very sweet
much of a Senecian plant & wants all the warmth of a good friend to make her cheer up on

world what pleasure
myself here when at
if I do no good I can say I do no harm - Mary is great beauty fattering & admired by every body indeed I never saw her more lovely - I wish you were here again if possible

we go on —

I cannot tell you how sorry I was, about poor Jerry, what a blow it must have been to him & by his
for tho' he had not seen much of him of late still when Boy my had been friends I hear by J. y. is in a shocking state

love to Mrs G. Villiers not forgetting all the

my Father is better but
very shocking account
death but that is now by expected - & L. H. has - my has told them that my work sent some message through the Lord C. H. in which He has never received
& I understand he has expressed himself
it but has made wrote to Mrs. D. (to say

shale - however
My eyes are poorly
I wish to be there better He was re-

to receive the sacrament from I feel

I can only write two lines
 Duke of Monmouth's death
 is here & has been at
 worse but not much
 write a few lines to William Duke of Gloucester & so would that he had every thing
 out mentioning himself. Now I feel for J. & M. — I do suppose
 we. He has not yet and he has not

Mr. D. & I. have been directly but not yet
signature & the where we were as well as any other future prospects are at stake
not signed we have nothing & that name but he said it is not the D. & I. but the Chancellor being
my father's name to be to be seen but on our morning

It would be no news to you my dear son when I tell you you are all
delighted to see you - The King - I know the King has expected Lord Hawkes. so shall be here
whether he has made him write
business for the good Duke of Cornwall but just come back the Queen delighted with the thought of seeing you I will write you
have to get by letter

I cannot help blaming you again what I am sorry for, for fear of your repenting your good nature to me but I had to say I had a great mind to let you know what has been said, & what so much worries me. But then as well as my Father, there be
— After morning there was worrying my concerns unwelcome
children which plagues them (I may say to death even the
understand God I have said an answer so it is supposed I will

the — being written for having done what he did so kindly for us but had it been left in their C. G. hands it never would have been done. There are the words used today I hear. God has spoken to D. H. to men
dequity & that of their own Cham without an addition. We
for it is thought of something settled now as the — is done meant to get our business through with the D. C. and think I will give them with

for I never thought about it & I did I thought when I did think that it was done, but I know you interested for the welfare of the whole — My Brother comes Monday. I am glad to say that. I hope thanks my
in thought it would be over but of that I know nothing I see you know of Winnon & I see them liberated Mr. Javellier at the place

worned the thing much. Plagued him get his work. Out of his thought him back to come & talk more with my Mother
O — I forgive repeat? never saw her more anxious to please & with her than
hurt him but she says he
in his signature totally

you to know this in confidence from you will hardly be able to send this I am struck &
me to death

Ed stays till Wednesday night & is to be about the 14th at Brighton when my Brother has been & Joseph meets

love to Mr & Mrs &
