I wish my Mother had a better secretary than me to give you her words on sending you the enclosed therein Whosoever proper you will accept as a pupil from her & think when you see & look at the proper may recall one whose feelings in regard to her are those of high esteem & affection it is difficult when when one wishes not to subject oneself heavily to find words that in my case at present for have I draw from G. Voltaire must even be looked upon as someone of true friends — I cannot say with what pleasure I received my order to write this and know one so desirous of the success of your as your self I have many notes & letters to write so have only time to subscribe myself

I have promised to let you know that the — has said they were just to saddle about the child, half manner they would not come into now my Brother is over my Brother will never give up the child quite there you would it not be better to advise the Child being in winter in one Place & so on.
Whether I mean
London & W. &. then I am advised to say beyond this vately she thought you would like to know this, she says her mind is not as yet at ease but that on the other hand she thinks it sounded well that she had expressed her anxiety that if she did not receive into some measure the fear of her loss. Mrs D. & that would be desirable to them

you did me but justice when you thought that you would hear for both yesterday today I have been anxious to hear it on my power to take up my pen but had to do two things here I think it was with me I wrote then you had angler but was satisfied I had not strength to go on & today has been a busy day from half past six this morning until the moment seven o'clock in the evening I have been in company I now steal away to bed I am sorry this tomorrow I wish to give fairly I agreed with you but as I really love my friends better than myself I thought it would be infamous to say so to you for I am sure it is necessary to keep well with with the _____ to be totally unacquainted with the Commission for to tell you true the more they were here the more she hated them not those who bore & eyes at every moment but those who tell truth you've been to the Soul but how soon I trust she in a very little way I hope I have done a little bit of good to Mrs. P. on Sunday the God me you don't know what harm they have done me - the only people I can bear are the D. & D. Hawks & my own are worried to death I and you at present I should think work you much for I hear of this from J. to such a degree that he is quite believed & all really? well I am not surprised it is enough to distract one of between Public & private worries I am at most exhausted but require all my strength of mind to bear out ~~against this however~~ upon the whole it went off all but pretty well but I think that he chiefly depends on the Chap ter of accidents for all he says is of some thing hapless When Gov. J. thinks it may alter things God grant some thing may happen say I my brother did wonder for she told Mr. D. C. I was here and push on Gov. J. to speak to the D. C. — He has — I should think not for his Mr. Delane that you thought Gov. J. wrong in not being from his plans. & the D. C. — As for what I should be doing for Monday morning I believe he had a talk out on horseback & the says Mr J promised to do no thing without the utmost resistance — now I believe you have there the old written and will tell you of it in the greatest part I own I think some words of the worst of which for two miles after you quitted us you have in a high fidget but that I believe is removed since the last conversation with Mr J. it gives me to say to you that Mr J. manner is not congenial to the U.S. the same not to do it under the seal of secrecy I wish to know circumstances which have occurred and may I then not a little I wish such I wish by means Mr J. asked that my former income might be increased with all my heart of my own I am may be some hand at this time to which in the coldest measure he answered it was a very improper moment & it would not be done now the person that told me said it was these things that you I trust to be made with the G. I often wished so much that great Beauty was here that I would have given a fine now necessary to her own interest was the talking to the G's feelings & after a conversation with her on the walk Sunday evening I know how I feel for her that her strength & College education would not allow it to come out He said he believed it —

The accounts from Persia & Arabia are good as well as our could work but Persia is plunging the put in the word I don't see that worse than — to death the way you low & out of spirits. Perhaps has again applied to the best of them his case which I have done them Andly most would sayfully and I am pleased to see so much drawn away. He don't think the eyes worse of anything a degree better for the bad eye than best one of the best which you know & much more caring now good of you to write I can not thank you enough — You will see by all I said you had not been forgotten how can you, such a friend I believe is rarely to be found — I did write volumes on their head but I have a horror of being out of of station therefore Prison man of my name has moved — I will add more tomorrow

I have only time to say to day my father while very low but of many things between Brock & my friends was a number here but in getting with have to see of the children I believe

I fully intended writing but I have such a heavy my head is turned & you must forgive me the sight of your kind writing did me good for I felt a drive for some days to write feeling love you more than most people forgive you never feeling shock & I know that not today I would not get to talk to you & I would for I have many little things I wish to talk to you about but too nervous to write with the pen - but I would but you I never saw any for them so well, so ought upon all the necessary points at least so I understand I hear all are pleased with them & their success.

The books he has talked down today with a degree of cool ness which is most striking necessary every point in a manner which would have pleased you — You have heard of Catherine so the price as to the papers & I trust they will be abroad that came the winning of the papers having allowed the they seem to come through their transactions will be as useful in every sense as our anxiety is great for those poor devils who are young — all appear to bear a better aspect than was looked & I trust in good measure I may have seen the promoted person I have been really well with them surely about my sister but that heard tonight that B. is not at all I think is certainly in great favor. I don't particularly by advice from I own they are so seductive but the I feel for D. from the bottom of my heart I hear the young man far from safe — but I think of D. the whole story to me. I am D. the same as I did not with that unimportant shake an important point but a political one which is so far from death I read

We wanted much but I trustin' God my Father woud suffer that is all I can for now -

Believe me had I had any Money or a horse or had had time I would have written thee a letter written off hand after bedtime at night with my eyes nearly closed

I have seen my Brothers letter today which the Ed. Martin written by Lord John — is so proudful but in some parts rather laughable I certainly wish to see that he wishes not to have any fun then quarrel for It strongly marks his reason for wishing to be go through it In — that it may not be open to any further misunder standing & that he wishes all be fairly honourably & steadily settled I think this are his words but then in your own I am just now most hap py with the good news The Emperor of Russia in my view how fine has been his conduct three horses killed under him & rally my his troops with Victory on death was announced by his army we were never for such a Emperor' as make me feel happy & glad to see I am glad that there is still such a man in the

I have only time for a few lines yet they shall go, in writing to you I wrote especially to Genl. Vollen but this day cannot help but put a few words from one who feels themselves very much your friend not to congratulate you on the return of a new Year may it is very sure know a number one to you both in my sincere & earnest prayer. & that every day may bring forth some new issue of thankfulness.

I trust your way to the happy health & many many thanks my return of the day with every enjoyment that may prove your mutual felicity I am a kind remembrance my wishes ever flow from my heart & I trust when ever I have professed friend ship that I have ever proved true. God knows I feel this purgation to I often wish it were in my power by actions to prove the truth of my words — news from you all these men are so well brought up that it is for a person the union is a little rickety yet I must flatter myself that it cannot be to the patient and you may suppose that the very best Politician I live in knows you Mr Pitt but He has so often been ~~there~~ mercifully saved by the goodship of God that I must suppose many may be when you are that he has very good wishes & prayers My beloved Father look at with an anxious eye there is a severe look of suspicion that beats my heart - all is well about every year while I was but once a month the evening the winter I employed it as I thought may prove of service to him when I ever look at it as the person that still with the with great difficulty got the children through the assistance of Providence of his wife (Caroline) who saw me such a several times ten of her for fear of your thinking me an ungrateful brute remember me to your children particularly

I know you will be glad to hear from me The God knows my letter will be an affecting one for alas our hearts are broken on the Subject of Mr Pitt, I should have written to you from myself but I now do it by order. You may suppose My going of mind was not what my Father who appears I thank God is well but worried to death till came to my Mother this morning & told her how deeply I felt this of Mr Pitt & saw with horror the troubled state of things the indelicate conduct of the position half killed him I wish it was Lord Chatham he would be be firm & steady friend, then repeat Opposition I had a horror, ^{for} I went so far as to say that if they got in they would when any thing occurred leave him in the lurch (& added I should thank my God safe with them) (This of course you will burn but my Mother thinks of they want him ^{with} that you had better give that or a hint of how he feels - I that it might be important to my Pa then to feel that they thought he would propose to them reconcile themselves willingly offer to settle at Leam rather than that he should go either way every other day from home - Their all former private ear - but they of she can propose to the - by letting you know privately what occurs she thinks their acting unhonourable past & wishes if it were in your power that you could have it told my Brother how wrong he will be to drive opposition on instead of turning the present present into a more gentle course He has been so affected with my Father's visit she's quite low & herin. tears worse, for she told me I am now well, & feel to have spirit enough to go on but alas alas an not attack me elsewhere when I must input of them if I am in those hands I am lost forever - in short my dear Sir the whole of this course is so unparaleled my mind I cannot yet form a moment from it & I beseech you to try with those who you can & think to comfort mind & soothe for I never saw any thing like my Father's compassionate designations what ever as the wife of his servant submit too but alas it is striking & I must not imphorbidly say that such a man should be thus tried, look at the difference of the firm character & that wretch who gives every thing however one feels with comfort that he who in flesh such trials can stay there when he sees yet many that beseech, so my earnest & ardent prayer, Taylor (whom I believe one of the best of God's beings) has taken his house & gone to Putney for my Father - agreement takes their by my Mother's order of a very short more over in the day I will written by Mr. Hart, but their successors that you would have this that she has desired (constitution) to take it & leave it for you - He is a very confidential person & it is to be sent the morning the managers to town I have been with these foolish details that you may not think I act as my own foolish opinion -

I see my brother moved as if struck beyond belief & I plainly see the wisdom that is right & stand by my father at least so it appears. You may see by

I have just received your friendly & confidential answer - I am on the greatest stretch of mind & flesh we have sustained in my mind not to be repaired. The disease has occurred here in most full, but it has pleased the singularity to give me - a degree of strength that I thank God for & pray Heaven may last for ever we - better but affected to the quick. He feels his loss quite as you who loved I could wish but it has caused him to say of necessity to take up his abode in Town - but that I will try to turn on I am? He seemed to you

I that his character shall not if he can help it be tarnished with taking in Opposition whose principles he abhors, & whose measures he hates — that he was never raised intending to keep bad people out — that he is determined to tell what he can to prove to this Nation that he has both courage & spirit to support it if it will support him — I write this my great heart beat the — desire wrote to you that there is no thing she will not do. but she is sure that Mr. H. never was better in health as he is now and to death at being of it may most rationally that ^{of} reflection may be shared with for he perhaps if he gets into the hands of abandonment he is lost if I have more time you shall hear more but alas this death is a blow I did not expect I trust he is at peace Mrs B. of 2 letters you Friday was one of the few I received I hope forgotten names there God knows are dreadful - if the R. is shown to us we have still a good support Yours very truly

I must write to you again for I am sure your good heart will feel for us all, as you must individually for the loss we have sustained in in both senses dreadful Public & private & now my Father's is deeply and truly. Thank God he is well but broken hearted & appears so heart at the mere idea of opposition remaining that he says his character is gone if they do, having ever been so violent against them without all he says is enough to work us all to death for his sufferings & patience was great & striking but he has said in my Father's ear "Heavens! what have I done to see these "tried? my heart has received its death blow if I had not a family I would go through it with much good sense I must say, my Father answers if you meet the decrees of Heaven with that firmness you are so admired for, I am witness the Almighty witness for me you, & as long as your own conscience is clear of having done your duty why do you make yourself wretched - Oh but I have hated all these people - so thoroughly I feel I am sold to them if they do get their interest it is all said. The Lord have many witnesses as all I can say - There was nothing in Town as the intended Lord is proof to me that he is determined to do what is right & the fear of ill success makes me flatter myself that he may be spared that misery he is not gone out as he wishes to be quiet & keep us still as he can he is complac'd of his hands & great heart which he had but that I trust he had is nearly unready he expects a letter today to say whether or no he goes to Town to morrow or Monday they say he has left London the common thread news of Mr. P.'s death reached him & they say he has taken it to heart I am glad to get report say that there is a cabal amongst the party now D. S. & D. B. wanting both to have the Admiral by that is the news the D. of C. is brought he is gone out to Weymouth when here main to Wednesday — I shall long to hear from you I trust you forgive me but where have we such affairs I think the D. Co. no quarter has been a balm to my father I have heard much talk but very little news —

Yours I fear be scarcely able to read what I write but my heart is as heavy & my head so bad I hardly know what I am about I believe no one has left the house — the way to father appears one he left from Sweden to be a quarter before four since then not at all —

My kind love to Mrs G. & the children.

I make no excuse to you about writing and arranging will be glad to hear that my Father is well - but really he is plagued that I wonder how he bears it this new Government believe me is a dreadful necessity & it afflicts him to a degree that would move a stone He finds by a paper delivered yesterday day that there is a sad plan at my dear Brother who they want to push out at least 1000 & every body thinks I & C. on that has behaved very remarkably unbecomingly I understand from my Mother but this is owed to herself & her own when read - I told my Father not to think of him I begged him to look to what was most advantageous to the country but my Father's feelings however he has no friend whatsoever - they talk of a broad bottom Government must be sweeter to a ray of Mr P. friends what do you say that that is the Doctor? if you can write many comfort's for I was even one who am ever looking for the bright side of every thing see nothing but gloom & darkness & so many things have been said that I fear the world is contented my Father when he gets into such wicked & bad hands - They say they are all quarrelling among themselves thank Heaven for that & by all accounts I G. has acted foolishly & let Mrs G & I have too many votes in the Cabinet which it is very dreadful in did my Father is worried & troubled at the thought of being all that has been as calm as possible but has seen they will make it as difficult as possible to them - Mrs I G. lost all feeling however had much but now it makes me mad - I have heard no throughout horrors some I cannot I am poor & I shall have feel for them that are to have the deal of such a dreadful misfortune my head is ready to but only must not be thought poor & by has one of these every one & just that I I am ashamed to read such a small but I am sure you had rather have these burned lines than none from some woman because most likely to read Mr. William Shakespeare my dear George is well Yours truly

I found your kind obliging note just before we went into the room I made haste to find my Mother I read it to her She commended me to say that it would really give her pleasure to see the person you name for any reason in the world just for the sake of them for that of the invaluable Person who is no more but a circumstance to every particular in regard to some of those friends which she thinks you should personally know but not by letter you must then decide what would probably be agreeable to us all however the writer must add that if you could continue the meeting the — on the side it would be a good thing. I wish Mr dea. Mr Widmore were there when I see her — there has been some business at so a thing I should have liked to get I must say that my brother hardly knew what she said — she hopes in that you will understand the business with which she has acted —

How much I thank how happy I was to see your hand writing I must again tell you how rejoiced I am that dear Mr. G. Vernon was with I even expected two instead of one child but I thank God for both. How I wish that it is as it is & hope that the little new comers will be as amiable & delightful as your other children - I wish you saw my Brother & when then he had much had seen you? I did not for some time but for a very short time during which time he was very pleasant & good natured spoke of the wants of the Continent as heard & appears violently a gainst a Peace - as perfectly a war that the march of the North

A mighty Duke had done proceeded from himself & not from my Father As spoke kindly of the latter in relation against the former & with reason I can have & we shall think that the I. has been informed by word by that person were more so than I will own - but this last success has little opened my Father's eyes - about him - & if Ministers would act wisely they would send him away any way for believe me it is often not so much the thing but the manner of telling it which is so gratifying I could tell you things I could make you have heard of - I'm certain if I had not had it before had taught me prudence - I made one anything & really think that the mischief done here is doubly wicked for what women can open the eyes of people who never go out & if one take a prejudice never give it up whether in argument or argument any one - A person spoke in shape concerning this great little person many eyes I would not enter much into talk for they said she was clever (probably I never found out but so would she if I got - Mr. Sheridan become I read me what I ought to say & what to leave out - Dr. Clarke has done his work well & because of great use to the Duke - so would the

I remember a story of Lady A. when she visited that ever struck me when she was in Italy attended by a certain Lord not then a Peer that she was rehearsed the dearest creature living when she quitted her. Her behaviour was so good she was not winded at this sudden change not at all said an old Italian, but woud to send her in about a letter was worth rehearsing in short called the best part the best she remains & I see sometimes that path I be the probable reason take no notice but there was (will say unintentionally) something made between the J. & me but I soon had it rectified he was told that I was against the present Government when I was told it that is the best thing I ever heard I had predicted about the whole business of them & never have by any chance talked of them of the J. so well as is now in different what treaty or people was of the is but not to suffer that was something you had said in the room to the J. during your stay in Town — what did I say? that it was abominable — I luckily recollected that one night when I saw my Father much plagued that I did say well "this is abominable really" speaking aloud without an idea of its being handled & I told the person who heard it I should have said the same of you or any body who I might think convinced but that has some beams of thought

I am ashamed with howling you with so much of my the case when I write to you News hole party Mrs. Brown of Devonshire death, what a kind to her family what a lesson to the world, I was told the other day that her joy at poor Mrs. Pitts death was something wonderful she thought she had the whole world before her, what a change just as she had gained the crown mit of England there are kind of events that strike such with them for I do think it hard to see a person perfectly well a week before & to know them dead she had many friends those advised her, great assistance those helped her - Great talents & good nature errors, naturally but she was proud to make up her faults

I wish to hear of her & may have good qualities. I have Patience provision Advocate at the Shrine of Grace —

You will think that I am writing a sermon but I write from my heart for I know some things of her which I wish to tell you would move a stone — what will become of Lady & Gordon with her husband as a friend or as what? I hear Mr Fox was so affected that must the foreign minister however obliged to be made an excuse to forbear on our dreadful spirits but he had lost such a friend that it never could be replaced to him — God bless her full belonging to you then in a distinct clear letter, if I have anything that I think can answer you you shall hear again from me

Yours Affly

I have ever the greatest desire to see you & Mrs G. & wish very earnestly that I could see you at present. You may be sure I wish that my mother would be delighted to be with them at home. Little Hercules I know Sophia will be equally so for she has often said she would like to see them. I am at home at present. I will tell Mrs G.
I have written to you on this subject & I am sure of what I do you now know. I am to be at the heart of you

This horrid weather which is so dreadfully cold with Amelia returning to Town & many very good naturally has proposed to stay with her which knowing how much she likes going to London is most amiable — probably I never saw my father so low as so out of spirits & public & private business quite withdrawn — & he sets over his face the necessary & often soon sighing when he saw them, news I hear now & I find that the necessary one would be any body — how one grows to see one so amiable & sad then appeared so dreadful

Some say I am other say more but every thing whereas so to go more by contraries that what even is said as a fact I should suppose with true not done by contrary — God knows that there is no honour more in being great. a private Good Man of good family is much greater many eyes more than Dennis & Cromwell & of all things out as my Father thinks I believe some of us must go out Guernsey if so I rely on you whose taking me in I will be blame & proceed God however taking about the comes are shocking -

Don't let me know what I hear that the Beckleys have written a most comfortable letter to the Duke of York that was even read concerning some walk London has not told me but many say by G's to London is a masterpiece in that way & saying she is sure it would have the King that she & Mrs B - should have been disappointed of what they wanted

My kind love to George - may take care of himself & don't catch cold but don't follow Mr Falcock's advice

My dear Mrs Williams

I immediately delivered your letter to the Surgeon which you was quite right in writing for the Surgeon much pleased with your attention & intends writing to you himself but knowing you would be desirous to have an answer I trouble you with a few lines saying I am most happy that you have chosen my two Brothers Edward & Robert for both as different sometimes have said the same thing to me all that they were anxious to be Godfathers to one of your children so that I feel quite happy about it as you have pleased all parties — I hope that you are getting well & strong the weather is much against your interest, & much like the Times - I am or near I even think of how I love you dearly & so see your kind & hearty sincerity If you by chance should hear any thing either for or against this trial do have the charity of letting me know I promise faithfully not to say to any one you have told me & I really am in such a state of anxiety that it is impossible for me to suppress it for where I love, I love to my heart's core & as I now am grown prudent enough never to shut to others of what I have at heart I feel at times such a weight that it is at moments nearly too much - but I am determined to bear every thing for I will remember that there is to be another & a better world

I must quit this subject not to be thought a writer of sermons, which I am not but sometimes a passing thought will not reason that is the case now - I have the comfort of seeing all those I love well; but alas, I cannot say but a mid compromise which moves me to the quick & one cannot help draw ing a comparison how strange that such a man should be thus affected & that that promotion of inequity should go on as he does - that again only makes one hope that what ever is in right & that the hand of God may stay the torrent. & wonder it when He thinks fit therefore one must bear with it once but God bless you & remember me most kindly to George & all the rest of Mrs Auden Mr G. Vickers & I have some that both of you have a son April 21st 1806 - I am friend in Christ

I am sure you will be glad to hear that my Father's spirits are much better than they were going to Bed

I will not let another day pass without thank you kindly for your kind note believe me that my sincere regard & affection for you both are built upon so sound a basis (whether that of love or friendship) that no distance will ever make a change in my sentiments concerning you. No letters have been more deeply felt than Yours & I trust as long as I have life you will ever find me the same steady unaffected friend, I must write a line also to my dear Mrs G. V. & her therefore I write only a few you, that tho' the style of these letters may not be elegant as the language

Our answer was to have gone to you yesterday but as soon as I had finished my note to you which I enclose to you I never was able to move as I & was out in the short carriage which was pleased my being obliged to be in bed with one of my bad headaches - I never was not loose one minute in the morning but again & again for your kind recollection of Monday you are ever with the same to me ever so distant your kind words always reach me & believe me the receipt will be gratefully stamped on my heart

This must go by to morrow unless you — I have again seen Lady Westmoreland more strange & eccentric than ever

How happy I am you are easier about your dear little child — write me to my dear George, particularly also to Hyde — I tell them how happy I am that they have not forgot one who loves you all

I was delighted to see your kind writing but entreat my dear love, that you will not write to me so often for I well know you have many & more interesting calls on your pen than me, & believe me the very idea of your thinking it necessary makes me miserable, for your not writing will not abate my affection but keeps me in agonies the idea of how often you know than you ought, only send me a message now & then by Mary. for I am sure it is very bad for you to write so much & I shall look upon it as real affection rather than not doing it, I must be quite now I hardly otherwise now may understand me as I mean it my anxiety is not to be told, but I feel all your pains, aches & plagues at my heart & wish so bad I could alleviate them in every sense of the word.

What manner of power does not attend its name many may have seen as yet & am sure that your angelic patience will be rewarded in many better ways by an all wise Power who has the blessing of relieving pain & granting happiness in a manner which no other being can & He certainly has granted you a degree of patience, which is not only a great blessing to you from dear old God to all that surround you.

Wednesday I had the pleasure of seeing Grandmother & her lovely little God who is beyond every child I ever saw the most agreeable, she looked so pretty & so content saying that I had never seen her had been with an hour with me & she delighted me by saying she looked at the picture every bell she "Oh Mamma I saw such a nice one I. Amelia's room, I told her it was the same & that I had it told her called for it she appeared quite pleased her shoes she showed me so much you had made but her feet are so grown she won't hardly get them on; yesterday I saw

Dear Father two fine Boy the second is very handsome more like the Bentinck than the eldest is a sensible good Boy I am sure the 2d is more that I am sure I should not like for he is naturally very shy I delight in my Brother and with you. I wish I knew is all that is amiable & affectionate, & has ever been so to you & having been ill myself I can perfectly understand all you feel for particularly at such a time but weather is shocking here today, I wish it may be better but I will say whole heartily I would not at any rate & I am sure all here feel alike, may the Almighty soon restore you of rest to perfect health at least to a degree of ease, that you may enjoy yourself more, with I am your affectionate Son

You will be astonished to receive a few lines from after my having seen You so recently but I have promised to entreat of you to speak to Mrs. V. that my Brother may manage to get at Ed before Wednesday The day on which he is to be brought I have heard some time ago that the D. of C. m. would at two dinner made a great fun of his Effusion for the Lady & desired all the party presumptuous to be through that & then — there is all I know my Brother is a good deal nearer that we all knew was known, that it was not told where it ought to be, but of it is told by the P. in that quarter so a week that it should be told it must I send this by the Post which must give you some, for the with them so so uncertain I cannot build upon anything you — I hope when the papers are given that I S. & D. G. will speak strong by that believe me is very
