My dear Mrs Pittier

At last I send you by Blose the Alabaster Lark I have so long promised you I am really ashamed of sending it after such a time but it is not my fault for I never id ~~undertake it without~~ him — perhaps of breaking it if you wish now accept it as a very affectionate remembrance of one who sincerely loves you both with real and cordial

Whichever the favour will be on my side
I shall thank you
sincerely

Believe me ever with the truest regard & as soon as possible

Could You have seen me this morning when I received Your very kind note & beautiful & elegant present You would have been pleas'd for I was & am now delighted than words can express. just Your thinking of me, for where one really has a most sincere & unchangeable regard & esteem as I have for You it is most agreeable to once feel myself to be thought of, & believe me I am most grateful for thro' fate I have seen very little of You (which I have greatly regretted) I am most truly attached to You & Dear Mrs G. Villiers —

The day is so bad that I was wrought half a pleasure to put off all my contrivances & to tell you honestly the truth I was not so sorry as neither if you could be there I believe I have learned to perfection & could as a Virtue I am glad to propose it - ^{when} your little note & my beautiful boat arrived - I felt I could move eager & said how equally every thing was detailed I had had a great disappointment, & was immediately after cheered by the kind remembrance of a friend, (for as such you allow me to call you) that was my sunshine, for there is a wormhole in that feeling which makes one bear up with the blast, of ^{the} wrongs in the world I hope we may soon meet when I shall by words of mouth thank both you & dear Mrs G. & tell you your very kind remembrance of a sincere & affectionate friend

Last night I received your very beautiful present which I really think no pretty as any thing I ever saw & only wishing to go with my pretty little Boat to which shall travel to the cottage to stay for they both are the most perfect things I ever saw & I am more pleased than I can tell you, your note also would not have remained for that was so exceedingly embodied that I felt very strongly most kind in friends help towards you & pray. I believe you know what my feelings are regarding you both. for I firmly believe you are of la vieille Roche which has never in not easily to be found now - I would I would say but I have such a horror of appearing to be a flatterer that I must be silent & content often rather see more than words

I am going to church so have only time to say that I thank God from my heart, when all your & Mrs. V's name is engraven & never to be effaced from the tablet left

You have made me too happy by your letter my dearest friend Mrs Villiers I am sure would you see my heart you would find real concern that is affection for one who I have loved from infancy & now think myself an object of the tender-care that there is nothing I would not do but every hour I feel more alarmed

That some how or other they will ruin her peace her health is surely gone her Mourning dreadful & a degree of indifference that works one to death yet she means I am fully persuaded are the only ones & I have been washed on my Mother's very anonymous letters come not to open them for that is the wickedest way of all — I have spoke so strongly that she has promised me solemnly not to be taken in by them

I wish write you a long letter to tell you how much I thank you for his kind note but my head is so much I can hardly find my pen - I guess you have been so much, I wish my business would end so we have present pleasures & torments - main things at our feet pass by heaven - I know you patience that must be my motto to world without end

My dear Mrs Pittman
I had fully intended to write to you from myself but the business has commenced here so early that I must be so exceedingly full of my present duties that there is very an other. I hear how great your brother is upon my word I believe our people living here

felt thro' some shock to some family which thence have for from the things I would not have step from the
of the money & which it will occur I do not think I was more deeply affected & feel for you beyond words, - & knowing your heart & your horror of deception you must be hurt disturbed with that - I do hope you will not suffer in your health & am anxiously waiting

My dear Mrs Villiers

I fully intended writing yesterday but was prevented & tho I feel it is troubling you I cannot resist sending a few lines from myself to enquire after Mr Villiers who no one has a sincerer friendship or regard for than myself Amelia gives me account of you yet I wished you to be assured that no one can more sensibly feel for your anxiety than I do, & I was most exceedingly vexed to find you was summoned away from Mr Villiers upon so very painful & unpleasant a business I cannot conceive a more unpleasant occurrence & can easily imagine your dis-trip; I have just seen your letter to Amelia & can assure you all pity you here seriously — more than I can give any woman for considering that those who most deserved being called into public words it — it is hard You should have been obliged to appear — I am only surprised that You would go through it at all & nothing but your own good sense could have made You do it; I hope now it will soon be all over & that You will daily have the comfort of seeing Mr Villiers restored to health & strength

I will add no more at present but that I am ever with the greatest truth

Copy of my answer

Madam - My leave humbly offers our grateful acknowledgements for the letter w^{ch} I had this day the honor of receiving from y^r. M^{rs}. A. for y^r. consideration in enquiring after W^t. He has indeed been, & I am sorry Gray still is, extremely unwell & I do not think he improves at all - I am rejoic'd to think that dearest M^{rs}. Am: is now a little better, & begin to allow my self to indulge a hope, since I find that most able & excellent man Dr. Pitanguine as to A. M.'s ultimate recovery, but the misery I have endur'd on her account I never can describe, as from the sincere & unattainable affection w^{ch} I feel towards A. M. I have naturally been under the greatest apprehensions for her safety, & in addition to that I have had the unspeakable mortification of feeling that (however innocently) I have been the cause of still greater suffering & misery to her, as A. M. assures me she found her illness materially increased by the unexpected order w^{ch} I rec'd from A. M. communicated thro' Dr. P. I do not visit her; it was indeed a blow I did not reckon upon for I am persuaded that nothing but an entire conviction on the part of A. M. that I was not a proper person for A.

To honor with her friendship, I have induc'd G M to prohibit my approaching her, as A R A tells me that not only Sir J. M. did not consider'd the measure necessary, but that on the same day it was propos'd to A R A to receive a visit from St Pauls field -

From what cause this unfortunate impression can have arisen I am totally ignorant. My conscience acquits me - but I presume not to complain, I am not presumptuous enough ever to ask an explanation I submit with resignation to A M's orders, & whatever I have suffer'd I may tell suffer myself, I most earnestly hope A R A will not allow her spirits to continue depress'd on this subject - I humbly beg G R A's pardon for the liberty I have taken in thus ^{presuming to} ~~presume~~ on y^r. time & to subscribe myself with the greatest respect

Sir

You will pardon I trust the trouble I give you in reading the enclosed, before you give ^{it} to Mrs G. Vellier from whom I received a letter yesterday which has really hurt me so much that I would not rest, till I had written my answer — I most solemnly declare that I never had an idea that Mrs G. Vellier could have taken ill my Mother's mis-sage, as I am fully persuaded she acted from a principle of Duty & affection for her feeling that in begging Mr.

of which is not to come for a few days (which she particularly found) she prevented any other person working it. I never heard my mother express herself but in the most kind & friendly terms concerning both of you, & has never failed in saying in the warmest manner how sensible she had ever felt your upright conduct towards this family.

After the conversation I had the pleasure of having with you the day we parted at Clifton I think I am justified in saying thus to you.

My dear Mrs Dolman

It is impossible for me to express my surprise & resentment at the letter I received from you to day, so different from any I have had from you since I had the pleasure of knowing you, feeling strongly as I do on all subjects it is impossible for me to go to rest without answering you, as I feel by the coldness & distance of your expressions you are thinking me the person to blame & of how think so? I am glad you either did not come, or write to me before, for I think nothing so stupid as when you love a person as not being open & sincere with them & I do not feel that I have deserved this, however I am glad it has happened to me, as I shall not be so much wou'd as to show on mention your letter to the Queen — after the Queen's message went through Lady J. Thynne, she told me of it saying "Oh "say so much of Amelia's being quiet "that I have begged Mr. Villiers for a few days "not to come, which I do not think she can "take ill, & that Amelia may not think "that any of you have spoken to me about "it I have desired Isabella to write that no "intercession may be made & have promised "the first person she does see shall be "Mr. Villiers (if she is here), thro' with me "and others wishing it" — I soon should not shite me in the manner it would me, that there was the last possibility in the case. & I never in my life heard the Queen mention either you or Mr.

Villiers but with the greatest kindness — & I am positive that my father had no idea of doing any thing untoward (tho' my sister may have felt the want of you) either by you or her — but as you so strongly mention America. I have only told you that Lady Innesfield, or it was proposed to her on the same day, I think it fair by my self to state, that America must have mis taken my words, for I sawed the message from Lady Innesfield saying she hoped that my sister would be well enough to see her before she quitted London (having no idea of her doing it), that I distinctly said but never proposed it, I have that as I have done nothing, from others since, but I am obliged to her for having named it as I shall take great care to carry out more, when, as I am sorry to find that a mere mispage of civility should have been turned into a feelings, have been so long severely wounded by misrepresentation, that I must entreat of You not to believe things concerning me said in any gen & which I never dreamt of

I shall not mention to Harriet having heard from You but when ever it pleases God to restore Her to health & You bring any thing, that you wish to trace explained you are perfectly welcome to speak before Her, & You will have my united wishes — I should be wonderful to see You returned & that You will see me of how welcome You are to me I will not doubtfully receive You — & whatever You may think I receive no idea of doing any thing unkind

April 1809

469

I have this instant received your kind letter my dear Mrs Philips & set down to thank you from my heart & tho not the least angry I was most truly most ~~pleas'd~~ pleas'd as you must have thought me the most ungrate ful & unfeeling being had I not entered fully into your sentiments which I did from the first & tho I regret that it might have been as well to have sent the message through one of us, knowing how very sensible Amelia is of every thing I must in justice say no thing of you again that her only motive in doing it as she did was to save us from Amelia's displeasure, & that since I own

I felt grateful, for often when I have been acting the most affectionate & friendly part by Her, she has certainly by not done me justice, tho I can say with truth she never has been known it nor never shall — & I can assure that she never has been named unkindly & has never in her life but approved of your being with us — & the reason I did not write was as I told you, Amelia's desiring me not to do it, besides Mary told me she wrote to you by Amelia's desire, — & I answered her when she told it me how old she is — & that was all.
Thank God her medicines have yesterday done wonders, & I understand have given a degree of insight into her complaints which have greatly satisfied both J. H. Bulman, & Pope - & what has pleased Amiea much is that Emil man told Mary in her room word for word what Pope told Amiea in hers & this happened before they had seen one another which you may believe is a very great comfort to us, in short poor thing she little knows how truly my heart bleeds for her poor mind must be in such a fret that of course her stomach & nerves must be the sufferers & her various complaints make her a most difficult person to treat for what is good for one thing, is bad for another & to see her suffering patiently & bearing up as she does is most wonderful; & all that we can do is to keep her mind at ease, which we do not only from inclination & affection but from all v. P. Mil. man has said constantly to the Queen & Co.

I am more quite happy since I have heard from ^{you}, & cannot thank you enough for your good humour in answering me so immediately.

Yours very affly

Your many enquiries convince how truly I participate in Your present doubts of the I don't wrote to please you & cannot resist writing alone to assure you of my steady affection for you both & only hope your dear Mother will not be ill for when I saw her sometime—back I know enough to know that I am really all a mass of abominations, I know your goodness & fortitude so perfectly that I am sure I can with ease to support Her.

It is at such a moment that I feel the weight of my situation for was a private person I would with pleasure fly to you & so have done by my actions the sincerity of my words — so far your poor little Angel his sufferings by all accounts were such that to himself the change was a blessed one & the dreadful toll both still you must feel that it has pleased the Almighty to put him out of pain God bless you to the believe me & sincerely

I trouble You with this for fear of any pleasure of my negligence, but being at Church when Your servant was here yesterday my note was too late which I did not know till this minute it is not that I wanted an answer but I really would break my heart if I thought that I had appeared unkind & ungrateful to You both for God know if I was but my own steps I would have flown to You for the well know Your strength of mind & that of dear Mrs G. Villiers yet the loss of a child is really of such a nature that it is enough to enervate the strongest person & knowing You have been unwell I fear with your affection ate heart that you must be quite overpowered but I trust that your strong Religious Principles will support you & that looking at the beautiful & promising family you have may in some measure alleviate in ^{some} your present heavy affliction & also the comfort of knowing that your little Dwelling is out of pain. May God bless you both in every form & sincere prayer for you - I will take up no more of your time but think dear Mrs G. will understand that my not writing is to avoid her being plagued by one who Heaven knows would do any thing on earth for you both your very sincere friend

My dear Mrs Villiers

I must write a few lines to know how you both do I do assure you that abroad or present have been ever dear to me — very likely it may be as well for you to know that a person only attached to the family spoke to me privately last Sunday saying that they hoped I would forgive them speaking to to me on a subject that might be unpleasant, but having been for some time in the country they found the sense of the people so violent ly for my sister in law that they feared it in passing not only the face of this family but the whole, & that it was not believed that any enquiries had been made after the lady the whole were sure when she had had such severe blows of course with truth I could say that they had - & they continued believe me was the whole made public it would be better for you all - they spoke so strongly I said so much that I determined to write you word of it - I see plainly my Mother is uneasy but no one can be more fair or just than both She & my Father are upon this subject what do you think about it?

I am sorry to plague you with such matters but I thought it were to give you about of it — my drawing is framed for you so when you return home will have it sent to Mr or V. Jackson and with every thing of the children

I promised you a full letter today therefore take up my pen early to commence write all I know, I trust my Mother wishes you to be in possession of your remembrance I told you my poor uncle had sent a message to my father which was not then delivered I made him very uneasy that upon what he made Lord Alford write to the Commission who made provisions yesterday it was when the subject of the settlement upon his children & the Ed but that as no settlement whatever was made on his own Daughters he did not think to bring it to the Eding upon which the Ed sent word that was reason for on the contrary it was a noble reason for his coming it made him very low & thoughtful & I believe he felt that this was truly false Delicacy however don't think I am so narrow as to think that for I know the Chancellor has a feeling heart & that having settled much with my father & my dear mother he might have feared having spent upwards - yet I find my father & mother quite ready to know this & such the Chancellor is willing as my father & mother think that I ought to be able to write at a better feeling You know my father & mother have been found - I do not believe at Windsor, that I understand gloried in a good deal which I do not wonder at then two or three things unnecessary the funeral which could not be that of the woman coming to be buried whether they married or not for the Sovereign was not at Court from Frederick, much for he was obliged to be placed to my Father with these things that as a Court secret you may like to hear that Frederick with his the 1st Regiment & 1st Division the Colobium but not to be mentioned after the burial the other things I know nothing of — we have to be ready been proposed since however have been looked up and were the gentleman of an evening — to me it is so Monday for I can assure myself but my dear friends & your good ness of course you had to look I don't wonder at I hope course had the result for they said one for speaking upon the subject to Angela however at least I have done & have had a weak even my bristles but all that I am used to I shall live it as long as I can — the same times at terrace me to write a few lines to us you rather me) long years — wondering me to that time I don't know how much more enjoy I am far enough to own I believe whether it is necessary to understand you to say nothing & has a perfect good business when we most wish him I several times have made the remark how much he shows attention to his work it — I do enjoy the thoughts of seeing you both more than I can possibly tell you I believe many may profess but you feel as sincerely as I do I with more gratitude for your fatherly kindness than I can say. I am always a respectful friend that the extent of these
