Tuesday night

My dear Papa I am most happy in being able to say that Amelia likes her change of room very much finds the bed most comfortable and it was all very quietly done without any noise or hurry - She has passed a very tolerable day all things considered languid and depressed at times but inclined to be cheerful when the pain in the side & head allowed her to enjoy herself for a moment - She was up for an hour in the middle of the day & again this evening for half an hour - She was full the great change of weather today very much as much as as to desire to have a fire in her room which really was necessary for it felt quite cold this evening -

Very grateful & affectionate Wednesday morning
Amelia has had about two hours sleep in all & appeared a good deal better

There is the hole & protrusion and complaints of a gradual of heat on the inside, but is much as usual this morning —
