Sunday night

My dear Brother
 As Sir Henry Delford
 said he would call at Carlton House yesterday I did not write thinking you would know all particulars from him & he would explain the real state of our dear Annet's mind both as to his hopes & fears — I now write by her express desire to say it would be a great comfort & satisfaction to her feeling if you could ever spare for half an hour & see her Tuesday about 12 o'clock ^{or at two} she does not wish you to stay at Windsor because she is not equal to receiving you for more than a quarter of an hour on the day The reason why she does not wish you to come to dinner is because the conversation takes place to dinner night & that always is a great fatiguing business

 & though she is well & I see in a most precocious state yet

in a
 at they I
 come
 that top
 I
 you
 her
 you
 but

in no commercial danger at this present time therefore the delay of 24 hours can not be of any consequence - I am worrying to say I think this day has been a loss suffering me in some respects than yesterday as the sickness at the St. James's has been less the Board quarantine & the loss has but one shipping fit
I beg you to believe me Yours truly
