How can I ever express to you my devoted Paper my gratitude for the kind & affe letter I received yesterday and for your entering so completely into my feelings concerning me from America I trust I can shall describe the Affair I can have experienced from your letter and it is my first object in view to study to act as well as to with your opportunities and it has been a great relief to my mind to explain things in such a way that you now understand

my situation in regard to Amelia - I have begged Dr. Smith to tell you one or two things if he has a good opportunity to know not worth troubling you with in a letter, but which will give you a still stronger idea of what my unpleasant situation We may be drawn into if I am not ever troubled in any part Amelia was with all day for having been dead. Beason made her keep in bed till yesterday evening when she had her bed made she had some degree of fever again.

towards night but the Pulse was full & strong in the morning the blood was very much inflamed ^{much} more so than when I first had her the last time he was at Weymouth but her mind was so much relieved by your kind letter that she got quite composed and in comfortable spirits after the Post came in she has not had a good night any little sleep & that much distressed with the disease in her side —

Amelia Bevan finds her letter today but desires her not to get up — Mrs Good will receive this on the sorrow at being deprived the pleasure & happiness of seeing you on the Anniversary of a day so dear to this country as well as to all your family & to assure you that every the family that will humbly offer up their Prayers for your preservation we all will do it with most fervent thanks your dutiful
