London

Though I wrote to you yesterday I must write again to day to send you a question I forgot yesterday — a Mrs Powell from Bedford Square who is now at London — she is a very fine beautiful woman beautifully dressed in the two pound gowns she comes to me as often & only of the foreign when we go out & two days ago stopped in after & told me she was a near relation of yours — & was sister of the late Col. Boleyn of the 101th Reg<sup>t</sup> & she is anxious in consequence of her being a connection of yours that I should lecture her - whether any person told her she could not venture to receive her to me but felt certain if you wished me to show me her you would write to me on the subject - Since this conversation he sent her aggravation & she told him her daughter had printed something for the L & wanted to see me to present it to the Queen - Pray send your address till we

I am sorry to hear you feel in need on the subject
 You know on what point of our way to make these arrangements & I should suppose of your best here assuming what has been your usual been written to me that she told another her daughter Jane heartily & added that she
 as well as her sister is endeavoring to be together before of - They would be
 was my usual do I state to appear unkind to

My dear Mother
I have just received your letter of the 11th and was glad to hear from you. I am well and hope these few lines will find you the same. I have not much news to write at present. I am still in the same place and doing the same work. I have not yet had time to write to you more fully. I will do so as soon as I have a chance. I am ever your affectionate daughter
Elizabeth
