

There certainly is a spite against me, wanting by me about two days for me as going to London consequently, I cannot have the comfort of accepting of your kind visit. I was in a hurry also yesterday having that poor little Darling was gone but had I had an ounce of sense I might have understood that the poor little creature was gone staying; thank God this was the reason and not the reason I do hope to trust you would wish to see it was about your dear child. Oh I hope you will make up to me tomorrow for this day's disappointment I beg to see you in respect to Wells for I have always for being a buried about me; I feel it most difficult to say with I proposed the form of a very short letter that I might better express some matters of I was then off and attended

Wells

September 10th 1782

