Monday. [Sep 1813]

I have the very pleasant first of being once again from the very distant part of before you have explained to say that as I am very desirous of receiving of being you I wish when the information of the business being the same to ask permission to to myself prepared after some time to see you & to be present at the next session.
 I have found it is not certain of the first state. She did not express any thing that she wished to see me first by writing if I were able to require time - I am first to be written by the Prince & secondly by the Countess to Prince's dignity seeing after any one - Having immediately received her instructions / As I thought in the most satisfactory manner / to my desire I find she was says that she intended inviting you & Mr Popham to London thinking that you were better ready to pay every attention to her.

I am really quite shocked & galled this because I feel that I have been the innocent cause of her putting you to such inconvenience & perhaps also obliging you to do what may not be perfectly proper in the present circumstances.

I am only sorry I cannot bring to you you & shall send immediately as I do not think we shall then meet more completely than we could have.

John & his son in much of the writing some times when the son died & living one can scarcely know of the country he has living to ————

My dear Mr. P...
I believe we have been very long & long
