

28th Sept 1813

Happy indeed have I been since this morn: by the arrival from your Mother & Priscilla, & whom I have long wished for & counted each day till I should see them & be able to be of being able to see you - I was in the hopes of your having been detained by your wounds but that you had sailed, in the hopes at least I find some comfort as they told me of you & I was full looking at them daily for that reason - Every night to me two days ago I mentioned your being detained at Exmouth & I found that which is all to the good chance as I feared of being able to write to you with all importance to do to that you put your best efforts to in person as I thought would be impossible to be done till you were landed the other side of the water. I think I must have written to you long ago before I knew what to do about — but various accidents have hindered the same much. Besides I will be glad now with the other I have, as I live in London Hobbs & Co. I will be glad How very much I am must you be sure of I will be sure to take with her I am sure of any more they be there obtained without the possibility of being any of your friends, which I believe is now in your mind that it is over — I think you then to the Colonel that the of Cumberland is being rendered of this is likely to offend you confer, and I think you will to the best of your power of the which is to say perhaps of the the in your hands & I believe under the most inconsiderable in the kindest manner & I have never written to him since to take within 4 weeks as to the time the last of you can be the blame & I should not do I should not intend to bring him into your it to his people together occasions (but you to write have mentioned) that I think believe to the air as to me I have thought ever lately & rather than of being very anxious to be there you come, when you might be, & then you have old you for them & because you are a difficult man.

You think if you should ever get to be a land settler you would not be to the best of of timing me with your land to the best. You always too long I should not of me much more to by the shape you land the top of the land
I very few times to me easily knows them; perhaps you are still thinking of getting that advice would not be well for you & perhaps of the best occurs but at outset but

[The page contains approximately 25 lines of extremely dense, cursive handwriting in brown ink. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher, appearing as a continuous flow of loops and flourishes. The paper is aged and shows some staining, particularly on the left side.]

Oct 18/13

Intad
Oct 18/13
1813

The Dr. Brough's

I think this letter is that which is sent & in answer to my former letter which I have being too late to this book under my hand in answer again again but please you