Dear Greenwood

I shall certainly accept with many thanks your kind offer to let the Ambassador here that time as I am convinced that nothing will do me so much good as staying a few days in perfect quiet and perhaps solitary

As yet I can not fix the exact day to go there as it must depend upon Sir Henry Melford's feet the at present will not bear of my leaving the house.

The first day I can go out I shall pay my duty to the Very few hours at the Royal Academy following I may perhaps be able to go to Antwerp but I may depend on my going you kindly believe.

Dear Greenwood

Yours most sincerely,

Richard
