My dear lady Eliza I am sorry never answer your kind letter of the 10th, not being quite well & I trust you to trust you will understand it. I can well understand your anxious solicitude
 about Mrs. Cap. Rogers
 state of health, & I am well your faithful
 attachment to all the family. She has been very unwell, but is better

again, I hope by all the means I have received within the last few days. There is no longer any date apprehension of Draper, thank God, but she is still in a precarious state. She has suffered much, but her strength is waning & her pains seem to have subsided now. What is a great blessing, however, I have been in great anxiety of my own health, but she has made now that we have the no quite ill. I am in anxious that I should have a short time as I had proposed to pay some visits & to make a little tour round the lakes, I shall undertake it as soon as I can possibly leave home on my present. As long as there was any danger of her I could not think to leave her with even in a moment, but I have been in great anxiety of my own health, but she has made now that we have the

again, I hope by all the

 within the last few days.
 There is no longer in date apprehension of Draper, thank God, but she is still in a very precarious state. She has suffered much, but
 her strength is waning & her pains seem
 to have subsided now
 that is a great blessing I have been in great anxiety of my own
 health & it has made me quite ill. I wish anxious that I should live for a short time
 as I had proposed to visit a little but would do this, I shall undertake it as soon as I can possibly leave home on my account. At least as there was any chance I could not think to leave her
 even in a moment
 but I am sure that we have the

precept of a pulvise
illness without danger
in any way useful to
my dear sister in law.
do nothing further - what I report so much.
The disease of G. is now
on my own part of G. I think is quite well.

I should have been delighted to have met you at Stone and feel even grateful to the Duke for having thought of you selecting you to meet me, but I think you were quite right to decline
coming so far merely
for a visit of a few Days.

My sister returns her
kind compliments to you and thanks for your letter
and best wishes in return with love to you &

your family. I hope
you all. I shall
believe me ever, my
Dear Lady G

Yours most affectionately
Arthur
