

Bushy House.
 May 20. 1830.

My Dear Dad,

Your ^{the} Assistant from Pul.
 - messenger reached me yesterday and I rejoice from the bottom of my heart the Duke of Devon.
 - should be so well pleased with the state of Ireland. Your Lordship is so good a Irishman it were to be the height of ingratitude not to have named your Lordship "Caroline". I sang many a the like feathered verse of the dinner.
 His: O'Connell may brag to be a King in the House of Commons. But his day is over and the Priests will and most infallibly love their influence and regimes can test is over. Once the General State

- on over and then I do know the perfect confidence to the permanent tranquillity and improvement of Ireland.

The Duke has united to me most sincerely and kindly in every hearty wish towards the happy Prince of Wales. I hope your Lordship will have pardonable measures for the necessary Liberty and can believe me,

My Dear Lord,

Yours truly

William Pitt
