

Sir

8th March 1822

I take the liberty of addressing you in behalf of Earl Fitzwilliam and the Executors of Lord Dardas, touching the loan of £2500. by each to the late Duke of Kent: both these Sums were advanced & understood without any Security being given for the same - the Executors of Lord Dardas are presumed to know little or any thing of the Transaction and as there is a Statute instituted in France by a Creditor for the benefit of the Creditors - and it is necessary in such case for Creditors to bring in their claim

before a Master in Chancery - and verify such Claim by Affidavit, I am desir'd to ask you if you could, in Support of the Claim to be made by the Earl Fitzwilliam and the Executors of Lord Dardas, make and would be willing to make the necessary Affidavit if required.

Have the Honor to be

Sir Your most obedient humble Servant

Thos Cochrane

My Lord

Having, on my return yesterday evening from Windsor found on my table Your Lordship's note of the 22nd Instant, written by command of the House of Lords, by which my presence is desired, at the trial of Henry Vincent Melville, at the Bar of that House, on Tuesday the 29th instant, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, I now do myself the honor to acknowledge the same, and to inform Your Lordship that I shall not fail punctually to comply with the summons I have received from you to that effect.

Unsigned letter from the Duke of Kent to Lord Eschere.

My Dear Henry

Having just written to your Brother George, I cannot think of losing the post, without addressing a short remembrance to you, just to say that I sincerely regretted being deprived of the pleasure of seeing you, when he last called to take his leave, but I conclude it was unavoidable, and therefore I avail myself of this opportunity to repeat my anxious
