

E. of Egmort
 Parkham Green July 1st
 1765

There is some Reason to expect that the present Ministers either jointly, or severally, or by the Mouth of one deputed from the rest, may enter into Discourse soon with your Majesty upon the Situation in which they now stand. It may be therefore very Important for your Majesty to be prepared against such an Event — To consider how to improve it, if it should be attended with any Marks of Duty and Respect — or how to meet it with the most Prudence if your Majesty should be addressed on that Occasion in a different Stile.
