

A. R. 10. The Duke presumed that all the late Queens Jewells, either purchased by herself, or given to her Majesty, cannot be deemed Crown, or Family Jewells, & therefore belong to her. Tho' several of them are set down as his present Majesties in the last distribution.

N<sup>o</sup> 17. A Pair of three Drift Earrings all given to the King, tho' six of the Diamonds were given to her late Majesty, upon her Marriage, the two largest were Queen Annes.

N<sup>o</sup> 18. A Pair of Pearl Earrings, the two large ones purchased, the rest given to her late Majesty by the Duke of York, valued at £600, 400 of which sum is given to the King.

N<sup>o</sup> 19. 210 A Pair, & the Queens Pearl necklace brought in Black, valued at £3500. given to the King.

No. 23. <sup>Purple colour'd</sup> not accounted for, it is imagined a valuable Rose diamond is in that lot.

No. 24. the 1000 that is given to his Majesty for his Pearls out of the Stroncher, were Pearls given to her late Majesty
by the Duchess of Zell upon her Marriage.

to Remarks upon the begetter.

No. 7. a George valued at £2300, a single Brillant of which cost £400.

No. 21. a pair of Diamond Earrings, valued £600
cost £700

No. 22. another pair of Diamonds, valued £4000.
cost £2600.

No. 3. the great Brillant, is now valued at £11,000
at cost. 14000. £ was

at that time thought a very cheap purchase.

No. 5. the Prices of the above Jewels, were taken out of the German Specifick given to H. R. H. the Duke by his Majesty.

Remarks upon the Belcher,
a Division of the Journals.
No. 8.

No. 14.
Two Strings of Pearls given to the late King George, now
in his Majesty's collection.