

Draft to the Earl of Holderness
Queens House March 11th 1771.

15903

Queens House March 11th 1771.

Lord Holderness, The very judicious remarks on the outlines of an Education suitable to my Sons, which you made on Thursday, have if possible strengthened me in the opinion, that I cannot find one in every particular so well qualified for the superintendance of such a plan as yourself; I therefore in the strongest manner press you again on this subject, the duty I owe to my Country, as well as that of a Parent prompt me to it. I am desirous you should consult the Archbishop of York, whose zeal for my family, as well as his friendship for you, will make him heartily concur with me on this occasion; besides he can ~~be very assisting in communicating his ideas concerning~~ ^{assist. in pointing out} proper executive instruments. I wish you could see him before Thursday, as that evening at seven I hope personally to leave from you that all difficulties shall be set aside, and that you will cheerfully begin to put your ideas on paper.

George J.
