London May 12th 1771.

Sir

The Prince of Wales is perfectly recovered of the slight indisposition of yesterday and is now in High spirits & good health.

I have the honour to enclose a letter I received last night from Mons<sup>r</sup> de Salgas which gives me great pleasure; I should suppose he may get here the end of the week, at all events M<sup>r</sup> Smelt determines not to set out for

Yorkshire

Yorkshire till after his arrival.

I have the Honour to be with the most profound respect

Sir

Your Majesty's

most Loyal Subject
most faithfully devoted Servant
