Madam

I have this instant received a letter from Henry of which I think it my duty to transmit you a copy. The finding in the letter that passed between him and Me on the abominable step he has taken; that I was determined never to receive the Woman in question, has I suppose, encourage him to take her out of the Kingdom, which shews more delia-sary than I should have thought attend him. The more I reflect on his conduct the more I see it as his inevitable ruin and a disgrace to the whole Family. I now am so agitated that I cannot add more than that I shall remain

Richmond Lodge

Also enclose a copy of the letter he gave me on Friday.

Madam

Your most dutiful and affectionate

Son

George
