

Doctor Majestie
London d. 1703

16424

Wotton near Bath

Sept: 8th 1703.

Sir!

Once more to pass on Your Majesty's leave to pour forth the sentiments of a heart overflowing with Gratitude, to lay at Your Majesty's feet that tribute of essential Affection, with which my deceased Father inspired me from my Youth, but which now glows more strongly in my breast, & is only to be expressed by my tears.

On communicating Your Majesty's gracious determination to my Mother, Fear'd her emotions would have entirely overpowered her. She held her hands lifted to Heaven, & for a long time, continued, in the most earnest manner, to call down Blessings on Your Majesty.

As she was entirely ignorant of the Step I had taken, her surprise was also very great.

Your Majesty has, in an eminent manner, made the heart of the Widow to leap for joy; And it is the fervent Prayers of our Family that it may be amply repayed by the choicest & most abundant Blessings on Your Majesty Sacred Person, that of the Queen, & Their Royal Highnesses
I am, with the most profound humility,

Sir!

Your Majesty's most attached
& dutiful Subject & Servant
J. Majors.