The King learns with great Satisfaction that the Prince of Wales is disposed to give such Explanations respecting his Expenses and Debts as His Majesty has judged necessary to enable Him to take any Steps for relieving the Prince from the Embarrassment of his present Situation. His Majesty wishes an Examination into Particulars to be entered upon immediately, as the Nature and Mode of Relief as well as the Measures necessary to prevent Debt in future, must in a great Degree depend upon the Result of such an Examination.

But His Majesty thinks proper to add that while the Prince of Wales continues unmarried, He does not conceive any
