

A. H. b. Pce. Augustus

16666

Lucien's House March 28th 1791.

My Dear Augustus, I have received very regularly letters from you and am most thankful to the Almighty that the mild climate of the South of France seems so thoroughly to agree with you, and I trust that the passing the succeeding Winter in the same fine climate with spending the summer months in some mild air will completely restore your health. I am happy you are able to resume part of your studies which employment will make you with more pleasure enjoy those of relaxation; there is no greater wisdom than so to economise amusements that they shall continue such during life, which if too long continued ~~ought~~ ^{ought} after ~~it~~ ^{it} must sooner or later become irksome; besides if the mind be not constantly in the habit of serious employment it will lose its energy and those powers a man may have been blessed with will entirely vanish. Believe me ever

My Dear Augustus
Your most affectionate Father
George J.

A. H. 6

[Faint, illegible handwriting on a large sheet of paper, possibly a letter or document, with visible fold lines.]

A. H. bPce. August 1882

Received of
George the Third
April 2^d
1791

George the Third