

17342 B March 24th continued of the entrance of the person, I went home, dressed, & returned immediately to Cambridge Street H. N. H. in person in that it had been necessary to change the concealment so far, that we should have had time to visit ~~at last~~ ^{at last} in ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~house~~ ^{house} ~~of~~ ^{of} the ~~house~~ ^{house}, the which all arrangements were the bed room is to take place;

March 26th about half past 12 that night 12^h 30. A. M. March 26th
The letter James began; His R. H. came to be in Missi Jones's room to summon me to seal up the letter of the dressing room on the outside; His R. H. looked at the me the key, & placed a paper with a seal for each end of the annual card end so as to make it impossible that the letter should be opened without my knowing it. When the letter was over I

His R. H. informed me that whether the R. H. had remained in a study in another room, but that she had on the letter James coming in some into the bed room.

found the paper & the seals unbroken. The Duchess just the anti-room, but in hearing the particular cries which that James drew from the R. H. H. & judging the letter to be King's room I rushed in to the R. H. H. room & remained there till the child was born. The Duchess D. C. & B. were open the whole time.
Soon after His R. H. the Duke of Venice & the Earl of Mansfield joined me. The Duke of Cambridge, who superior to the anti-room went into the bed room & remained there till the child was born. The Duchess cries became tender & shriller, 17342-3

all immediately perceived the cries he made to be those of a new born child;
~~...~~

and at 10 minutes past 2 O'Clock of that morning a male child was born of Mrs R. W. J. & seen after Mrs R. W. J. & Mr of the Chapel, wife to Mr R. W. J. The G. of Cambridge elder brother came from the bed room into the sitting Room with the child, whom we ascertained by actual inspection to be a boy; its screams were entirely heard, ~~...~~ it was born & it appeared to be a well sized, well favoured Child.
Dr. Hiepley Physician to His Royal Highness of Hannover went into the room about half past twelve in the sitting room some time before the birth; Mr. Keene, the accoucheur, came out of the bed room soon after the birth. ~~...~~ I had hastily sketched out a short declaration of facts relating to the birth of the child in the morning of the 25th. - We immediately after the birth retired to my private room, where I drew up the declaration sent by me to Mr Castles of / dated March 26th Weymouth bridge House in the City of Wexmore, respecting the different women went into part of the bed room at times; and I must have seen the care of the child went into it after the birth, having been sent for.

the writ of the said ^{deputy} ^{sheriff} H. H. to the D. of Clarence I. D. Mery I may ^{after} having been shew'd by H. H.
& His H. - after it was ^{signed} H. H. the D. of Cambridge came to the ~~room~~ ^{where} ~~there~~ ^{was} here, & approved the collation. I therefore giving a duplicate of it to
H. H.

N. B. I left Hamme on the 29th March 1719, having been detained there & attend the arrivment of His H. the D. of Clarence, pursuant to His H. order I sent the above duplicate, marked as such to His H. the Duke of Cambridge.

2
Male
1719
Mun
r
His
the ing our Section
re with be Child. his b now
Mun
the m m
H
A
to
to
the After
m
the 28th
July

17342-3

Memoranda
respecting the H. A.
The Bishop of Cambridge's Confinement.

March 1779

was become under a shillings

