My Dear friend

When I came home yesterday, I found that Lady Lendon had had an alarming attack of illness, literally brought on by her anxiety lest the Prince might have found me to accept the Garter.

I judge, therefore, how deep & general the sentiment must be relative to the Coronation
- the circumstances in which we are placed.
You will not wonder, from this knowledge of her way of thinking, at the vigour with which I expressed myself to you after we came down from the Prince. Pray take care that he shall see Adams tomorrow as he promised. Yours Maria
