begs leave again to trouble him to procure His Royal Highness's signature to the enclosed Bill for M<sup>r</sup>.
Aspinwall's Patent - as soon as he possibly can -

Col<sup>l</sup> McManis will have the goodness to observe that there is an order on the back of the Instrument for its being passed by immediate warrant, which will also require His Royal Highness's signature

Yours truly 23 March 1812
