

Placed here in chronological order

Lord Ellenborough

1st June

1812.

12^m

(19780)

I beg your Royal Highness to believe that I feel the greatest reluctance to trespass for a single moment upon the valuable time of your Royal Highness at this interesting & important Juncture. I presume merely to trouble your Royal Highness by inclosing a letter of Lord Liverpool to me which received last night, by which my hopes of my brother's advancement to the See of Chester are ^{greatly} ~~near~~ terminated.

My sensations upon this disappointment I have expressed in my answer ^{to his lordship} to which I most humbly request to draw your Royal

Highnesses attention for a short moment —

Whatever hopes I may yet indulge on the behalf of my brother are rested wholly on the gracious condescension & goodness of your Royal Highness.

I beg leave with all humility to express the strong & grateful sense I feel & shall ever entertain of your Royal Highness's great kindness ^{shewn} to me upon all occasions. I have the honour to subscribe myself with the most dutiful attachment & devotion

Your Royal Highnesses most obliged & faithful servant, Henborough