The White House

Sept. 12th 1877

3 o'clock P.M.

Mr.

I have been with Abolition in a rage at the Diabolical Morning Chronicle of this day, & I am proceeding in quest of Dudley, & for some thing must be done ere night to silence this miscreant, & to counteract him on Monday. I have reason to think Ld. Byron employs himself in this way, & from his having given a seal in his Box at the Cheltenham Theatre on the evening before I left it, to Mrs Mary Anne Clarke, it is not improbable he may make her an Auxilliary. I shall however, do, lose no time in trying everything that can possibly be done.

Ever Your Royal Highness's
Affectionate Servant,
J. M. Norton

The Prince Regent.
