My dear Sir

From not seeing my name included in the first list of new Barons, according to the previous promise of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent communicated to me by you, I should fear that I have been so unfortunate as to have lost His Royal Highness's favor, did I not feel proudly conscious that in no one act of my life have I ever been prompted by any thing but the most dutiful & affectionate

Loyalty to His Royal Highness

Having learnt from the Herald's College that my name was sent in there with others now created Baronets, the necessary arrangements of Pedigree & were actually made by Mr Rayer the Genealogist & feeling as firm persuasion that the promise (tho' you) of my being one of the first creation so graciously given by His Royal Highness cannot be intentionally withdrawn without cause, I am anxious to learn from what the omission of my name has originated.

However it may be I have submitted to His Royal Highness, Will & Charne & am proud to repeat, the strong personal Attachment & firm Loyalty I have ever felt towards His Royal Highness, which cannot be suspected by any one however honour, & I trust that nothing has deprived me of His Royal Highness, being rather false, to me - far more estimable than the most exalted title.

Pray pardon my giving you so much trouble & believe me my dear Sir

Very sincerely yours
