

H. L.

235

S<sup>r</sup>. Edw. Hawke to L<sup>td</sup>. Anson Lieut. Genl. 1757.
Transmitting further observations with regard to Belle Isle &c.
His opinion of the French Masters of the Chapelle, & a pilot of Lieberon, who has found all roads practicable if boats may land at point du Capron under cover of frigates,
a sandy beach, defended by great guns, & the
& of Country too high for conveying Cannons.
if no ships can come near enough to hurt
of Capade City Palais.
if Anson is a tolerable road, Ardmull Vesper
extremely hot & dry

[Faint, illegible handwritten text on lined paper, possibly a letter or document fragment. The text is mirrored across the page, suggesting bleed-through from the reverse side. A small dark ink blot is visible near the top center of the page.]