The BRIGHTON HERALD (established upwards of 15 years) is circulated, every Saturday morning, throughout SUSSEX; in parts of SURREY, KENT, HAMPSHIRE, and other Counties in England; also in various districts of SCOTLAND, IRELAND, and WALES.—The seat of its publication (BRIGHTON) has a population of nearly TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND, and, for a great part of the year, is the residence of the Court, and the principal centre of the RANK and OPULENCE of the British Empire;—MERCHANTS, MANUFACTURERS, and CAPITALISTS in general, oftentimes assembling there, to form, in the midst of leisure and repose, new speculations, and schemes of enterprize.

It must, therefore, be obvious, that a Newspaper, printed within a circle, so eminently distinguished for PROPERTY, and possessing, as the Brighton Herald does, an extensive circulation, offers a most desirable MEDIUM OF PUBLICITY TO THE ADVERTISING TRADER, and the PROFESSIONAL MAN.

Agents in London for receiving Advertisements.—MESSRS. NEWTON & Co. Warwick Square, Newgate Street; and M. WHITE, 33, Fleet Street.

 Orders, transmitted direct to the Office, punctually attended to.

The Commissioners for his Majesty's Stamp Duties requiring prompt payment of the heavy impost on Newspapers and Advertisements, places me under the necessity (with the Printers of all other papers of extensive circulation) of sending you this bill;—trusting it will meet with your most convenient attention.

Your obliged humble Servant,

W. FLEET.
