

Sir/

It is with extreme regret ~~that~~ I again address you on the subject of my Personal Account, which was to have been settled for, last month; ~~that~~ Mr Smith, has been endeavouring to get as many of the dividends given ~~to~~ to me as possible, most part of the £¹⁰⁰ - which the things were valued at; he thinks I may safely receive ~~it~~ upwards of £30=, therefore so the last favour I will ever ask of your kindness, is, (if possible) to get me the remaining sum that I may feel secure in the possession of my things.

I think Lord Cuninghame would be inclined to serve me if you Sir William would be kind enough to speak to him in my behalf as his Lordship expressly wish to assist me in any way he could at the time of my husband's death in proof of which ~~he~~ sent me the first L^o. I received in my affliction.

Trusting you will be pleased to pardon me for your writing to you on the subject of my difficulties, and thanking you with every feeling of the most sincere gratitude for getting my pension settled & beg to subscribe myself

Sir William

your most ob^d & hum^l serv^t

11 Duke St. James. L. A. Holmes.
