Parl. Street Dec 9th 1779

I have reviewed this Instant the Note with which your Majesty has been graciously pleased to honour me; In my poor Judgement all your Majesty said to the Chancellor was perfectly wise & proper. It appears to me to be right to let the Chancellor go on upon the Plan which your Majesty has laid down, till he says he can do nothing, & not to give him any further or specific Instructions.
The gaining of Time is of some Consequence; I pay but little Attention to what Lord North says in his Note concerning himself; he was last night very much fatigued & ill.

it; When Health returns, He will,
as usual, alter His Language.

I am obliged to attend the House of Commons today early, when the Army Resolutions are to be reported, & we are to have another Debate; so that it is not in my power to pay my Duty to your Majesty today, but I will not fail to do it to-morrow.

From your Majesty's Dutyful Subject
C. Robinson
