

It is with the greatest Deference and Submission that Lord Londale gives his Opinion — nor should he presume to do it, but under His Royal Highness's Commands —

Lord Londale does not see what it will avail, or what Advantage His Royal Highness can receive from the Motion of the Address being renewed as he conceives that the Members who have voted upon the former Motion will think themselves pledg'd to vote the same Way upon this Occasion — besides Motions which have been once brought forward, being again repeated, retards Matters agreeable to the supposed Wish of the present Administration —

But if the Time that such Motions take up is not thought by His Royal Highness to cause too much Delay, he would beg Leave again to offer for His Royal Highness's Consideration whether this would not be a proper Moment for a Message from his Royal Highness to the two houses in Manner & Form as before suggested by Lord Lonsdale.

It would prevent all disagreeable Debates - and Lord Lonsdale trusts and thinks, that it would be the Means & Cause of producing a happy Effect -
