Mr Robinson informs me this morning that there has been two Interviews betwixt Lord North & Mr Fox. Mr Fox appears to be a disposition to converse with the present administration, Lord North continuing at the Head of the Treasury; They appear to want Mr Kippis to be at the Head of the Admiralty; Lord North told them at once that this cannot be;
They are content to go on with the same.
They will agree that any future Resolution shall be depend on Courts. They talk a little of Mr Baskin's Bill, but Mr Robinson thinks they will be satisfied, if the Contractors Bill is aloud?

allowed to pass. The Chamberlain was to see Lord North on this business this morning. I thought it right to appraise your Majesty of it, as your Majesty will probably see Lord North & the other Ministers, before I shall be able to have an audience.

From your Majesty's Dutyful Subject
