My dear Lord,

I receive'd your Letter this evening the contents of which I acknowledge received with the utmost surprise. As additional and not a supernumerary Lord, being requisite in my family, might with reason might have consider'd himself as superseded had I not any other person into the Bed Chamber his Lord, as from the moment his Father became a Marquis, his Rank, besides his other pretensions fully entitl'd him to such that higher Situation. I wish you nothing clearly understood that I should have been very sorry indeed to have apparently advanced Lord Angles in any way to have been a sufferer, but the circumstances of the two situations (Belgium)

are precisely the same, & I am sure it is unnecessary for me, from your knowledge of the excellency cannot be by the description of your Lordship how much higher the Rank of a Lord of the Bed Chamber is considered than that of the office in my family from which he is descended.
It certainly never has & never will be my intention to be wanting in any sort of attention to your Lordship, but I did not conceive it necessary to apologise for what I thought, ^{and I thought} ~~and I thought~~
