Colonel St Leger

Sunday morning 11 o'clock on board the Jupiter

Sir

As Payne has had a violent attack of the gout in his right wrist, and is unable to hold a pen, I have the honor to inform your Royal Highness that he received your letter this morning, — He has desired me to inform you that he has received no orders to stop the Yachts, but has been ordered by the Admiralty to remain at the post. —

We have none of us been yet on shore at Sheerness, and the weather still continues very foggy. - Fresh instructions are expected from the Admiralty to day, and as it will not be, I am afraid, in my power to inform your Royal Highness what they are, it shall be my business to acquaint you with them. - - -

I hope the weather will get clearer to morrow, that I may have it in my power to pay my duty to you in person. -

I have the honor to be

Sir

Of Royal Highness's
most faithful, affectionate servant

A. S. Leveson
