

H. R. H. to the Queen

May 31 1796

39196 -7

My dear brother,

There is not a step in life that we can be taken by me, without my wishing that you should be acquainted with it. It is therefore that I trouble you with these few lines to tell you that I have written to the King, to inform him of the step I have at last been obliged to determine upon, owing to the impracticable temper of the Prince. You have known too well the manner I have suffered for this year past, to be surpris'd at any thing I am driven to, but it is not in pretence to bear the weight of any anger. You, my Sister, & the whole of the ~~are~~ so run at, by these practices, that it becomes indispensably necessary for the truth to be known.

4, 8
38108

It adds to the poignant grief which tears me to pieces ^{to apply} to be obliged to the dear King upon any subject that can agitate or vex him. You know how I have sacrificed myself for him once, & I can not do it further, but at the expense of what he never would forgive himself for allowing, the total loss of tranquillity & happiness for the rest of my Days. Pray explain to the King my reasons for leaving Town.
but I am really quite unable to bear seeing any

H. R. H. to the Queen

May 31 1796

39197

body, till things are finally arranged, & my mind gets a little repose. God Bless You, my ever dearst Brother, I can say no more, & I suppose the King will of course shew you the contents of my Letter,

Your ever affectionate

Brother

George B.

Carlton House.
at.
May 31.
1796.

38103

[Faint, mostly illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the paper.]

Mr. Paine of Water

to

Mr. Queen

May 31. 1796

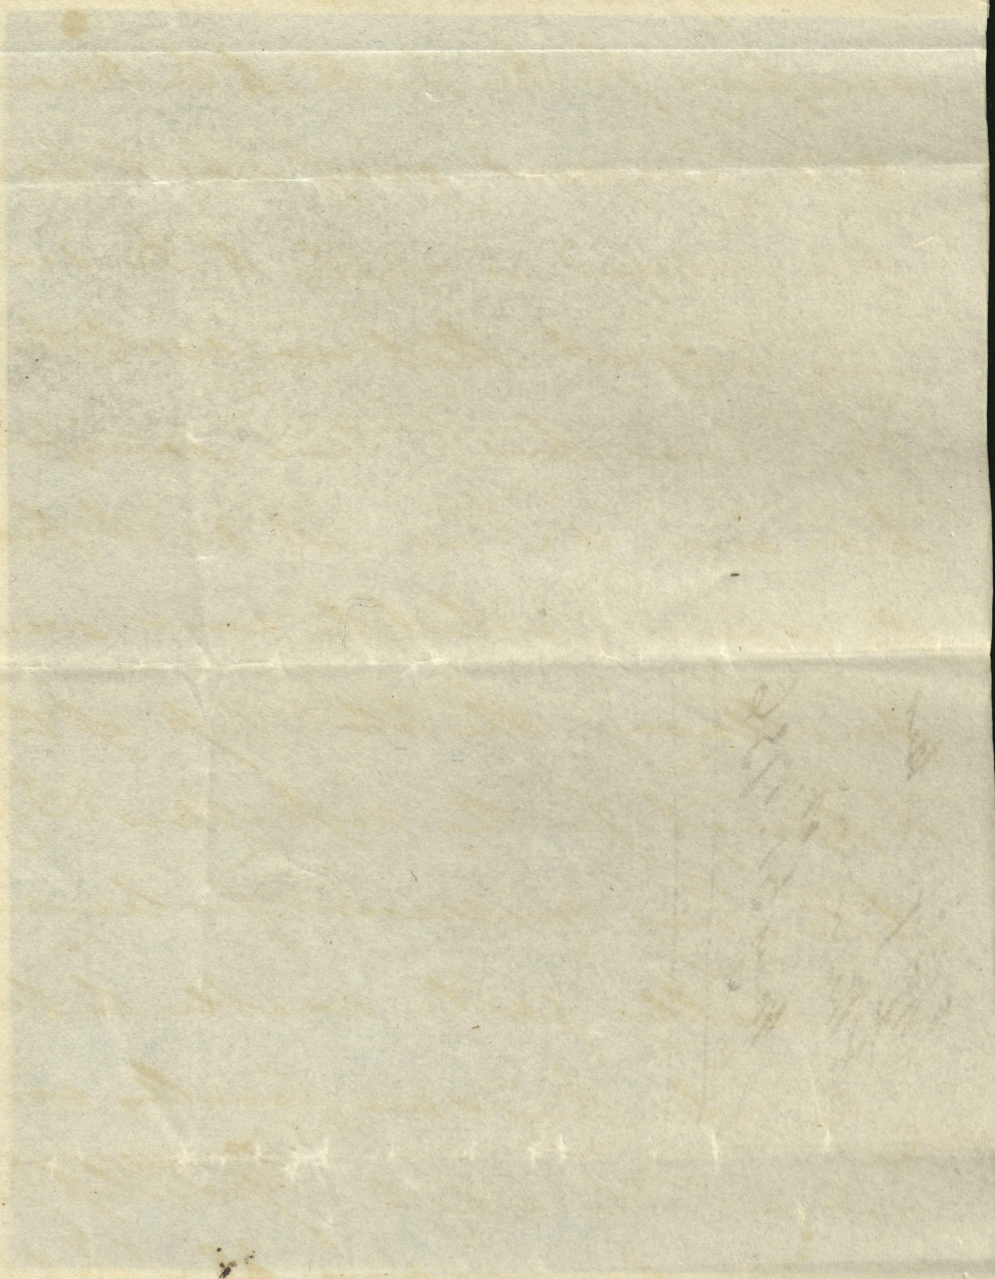

My dear sister,

There is no step in life that ever can be taken by me, without my wishing that you should be acquainted with it. It is therefore that I trouble you with these few lines to let you that I have written to the King, & in pursuance of the step I have at last been obliged to determine upon, owing to the insupportable temper of the Princess. You have known too well the reason, I have I assure you this year past, & be surprised at any thing I am driven to, but it is not a pleasure to bear the wretched company long.
You, my sisters, & the whole of us are so much in 20103

by their practices, that it becomes indispensably necessary for the truth to be known. It adds to the poignant grief which tears me to pieces to be obliged to apply to the dear King when any subject that excites or vex him, You know how I have sacrificed myself for him once, & I can not do it further, but at the expense of what he never would forgive himself for alluring, the total loss of tranquillity & happiness for the suppressing Days. Pray explain to the King my reasons for leaving Paris, but I am really quite unable to bear seeing any body till they are finally removed, & my mind gets a little repose. God bless You my ever dear Mother I say no more as I suppose the King will of course shew You the contents of my Letter.
 Your ever affectionate & obedient
 George B

28
by 21
in
in
for
at being
to d explain
but I
any
y mind
dear
by
per.
Edward

Copy of order
to the Queen

May 31. 1786