My Dear Sir

I have just arrived here, so that my expedition is terminated. People could scarcely suppose themselves in doubt that the business had been really carried through in the manner they witnessed. In the evening had been so loud before my arrival that the sudden subsiding of the storm was quite astonishing. It has been a delicate experiment. But I may well be satisfied at having tried it. Believe me faithfully yours Moira

Handwritten text on a piece of aged, yellowed paper. The text is written in a cursive script and is mostly illegible due to fading and the age of the document. The paper shows signs of wear, including creases and discoloration. The text appears to be a letter or a document fragment, possibly containing names and dates, but the specific words are difficult to discern.
