

M. Tynwhitt to HRH.

March 10. 1799

39561

Sir,

The debate is just over, & the division
upon ~~against~~ the £12,000, per ann: was 83 for, &
5. against. (Mr. Sweeny, Mr. G. Schuckborough, Mr.
Martin, Mr. Willerforce Bird, & Mr. Hobhouse.)

Col. Lowther adverted to an expression of Mr. Sweeny respecting the Prince of Charlotte & remarked, "that it would be highly satisfactory
if any Person in the situation about A. R. &c.
"that could say A. R. &c. had incurred no
"new difficulties — well aware that by my silence, Malevolence might have fancied
a debt of £100,000, I got up & stated things as they are, to the House — I am not vain enough to say I did it well, but they much I can assure your A. S. that the House expressed uncommon satisfaction

when I sat down. & I have since been told that it has pleased as much I was in hopes it would.

I shall not fail to see your A. S.
early in the morning, & say how much
I am your Affec. Servant,

Thos. Newton

Brooks.

7 o'clock.

March 8. 1755.