My Dear General

Since I last wrote, I have made out a good deal more of Pitt's Pitt & his friends are aware of Addington's insincerity, & by him in his own time. He will be flung by them: but you may depend upon it that they are truly sensible of that generous Minion of the Past which

The Prince has so generously professed, & their success will not be injurious to His Royal Highness's interests, or be attended with any preclusion of her.

You had singularly forgotten of having ap-
-prized you that the goods were lodged for Thomas before I quitted town. All the others will be settled thro' James.

If this finds you at Brighton with

Ed. Koura to Col. Mc Mahon.

ed. The Prince, I am to him for all that t most respectful affection which my did Heart over to him & does not truly reg.

Faithfully yours
Ed.

Col. Mc Mahon.
