No. 1 -

The communication that the honor, through you of receiving from his R. H. the Prince of Wales, (Reflecting upon the consequences likely to ensue from it) has left me under considerable anxiety & embarrassment.
My behaviour in two points, which you informed me had come to the Prince's hearing, words, if true, infallibly have drawn down upon me disgrace & pain.
If not true, I have little hope of justifying myself unless I can obtain a fair & impartial investigation of my conduct - You told me, "it had been represented to his R. H., that I, as Paymaster, have in many instances interfered with the military duty of the Regiment, that I am the chief cause of the present disputes which unhappily subsist in it & that I foment them as much as possible" - These complaints Sir, being general I can only deny generally, but I beg to assure you, for his R. H.'s information, that they are as false as they are serious - and that I require to know in what particular point I am marked out to be offensive to the welfare of the service, & general harmony of the Regiment, in

~~I found the letter to Col. M. Mahon as above.~~

Two days after the receipt of the above letter, I waited on Col. M. Mahon with a desire to see the Prince; I stated my reasons for this, which he told me he would communicate to His R.H. I met me in half an hour at Mr. Greenwood's (this being Friday July 27th) and on my entering the room ^{at Mr. Greenwood's} he told me that he was sorry to be the bearer of a message like the one he was charged with; which was that he had H.R.H.'s directions to say that "he had the moment before seen a letter written "by S^r Quintin to Baron then, wherein it was "stated that S^r had had a conversation with M^r G^o - "offering to lend Baron then money to pay "him attention if he would give up the party "of Col. Leigh" - on hearing this, without a moment's hesitation I declared it to be a wicked & abominable falsehood & that I would prove it so. H.B. sent the narration short as possible to avoid the pain of tediousness. I proceed therefore to copy the two sheets of paper were produced by Col^l W^m M^ontgomery each containing questions to be put to Baron Eben, & Mr^r Quinten; That Baron Eben was first asked whether he had received any letter from Mr^r Quinten, & if he had, whether he remembered when he had received it; to which he replied, that he had received a letter from Mr^r Quinten about the 26th July: Baron Eben was then asked whether that letter contained any account of a conversation between Mr^r Haubey & Mr^r Quinten; & if it did, what the nature of that conversation was; his answer was that it contained an expression of Mr^r Quinten "that if it was their wish to go on from the party of Col^l Leigh, attentions and civilities would be shown to them from the opposite party". Baron Eben was asked what he meant by the opposite party, to which question no definitive answer was given; he was asked whether Mr^r Haubey was mentioned as being one of the opposite party; he answered, No.

He was asked whether the expression contained in Mr^r Quinten's letter, implied that civilities would be shown to him Baron Eben or that any proposal through Mr^r Quinten directly or indirectly was made by Mr^r Haubey of leaving him (Baron Eben) money to induce him to give up the party of Col Ligon - he answered No. - You have Baron Ben in your note denied having received any such letter (as your now describe) at any time from Cap. Duntin how do you reconcile such denial with the account you have just given? and under what impression did you give such denial? I did not sufficiently understand the English language to comprehend the note, I meant to deny that anything in the letter reflected upon Mr Merby's conduct, I signed it at the instance of Mr Duntin for the purpose of being shown by Mr Merby to Mr Greenwood, trusting that nothing more would have been said upon the subject. What Baron Ben is become of the letter which you received from Mr Duntin? I gave it to Mr D. when he went to Brighton; Did he return it you? No, he did not. Upon which answer Mr Duntin said "Gently, you go too far."

Mr Duntin did you write any letter to Baron Ben?
 I did on the 24th July. Did that letter contain any thing relative to a conversation between you and Mr Merby as you have been heard stated? No it did not.

he required in strong terms that his conduct might be referred to a Court of enquiry where he could answer that Baron Eben did positively deny it. — Mr Quintan was here desired to state what the contents of his letter of 24th July to Baron Eben were. He said it contained familiar subjects relative to a variety of friendly matters, & money. Mr Mauby asked Mr Quintan if he was now in possession of that letter he answered

NB 40283 - I was promised a copy of the questions I answered which were afterwards refused.
The answers to the questions, which were all leading questions & partially put rather obscured than developed the transaction of which I was not so sensible ~~as I was afterwards~~ ^{then} for being mostly concerned for my individual reputation; I lost sight against my own senses, of the palpable contradiction that appeared on the investigation - and M^r McMahon representing to me, that H.P.H. satisfied with my conduct. ^{with my} The letter, except in that part where it stated, "that the letter was fabricated for the sake of "misrepresentation & mischief," which seemed to bear a reflection on Col^l Leigh. From some circumstances carefully concealed from my knowledge, no positive fact appearing in proof of it, ^{being a fabrication} I was induced to write the following letter to M^r McMahon for H.P.H.'s satisfaction, and as stated to me to be at ^{his} H.P.H.'s express

To Col^l M^r McMahon. N^o 10 Carlton House Aug 26th
Sir

Upon the investigation that has this day taken place, I am made sensible that a letter 16. from Mr Duntzen to Baron Eben has been presented to H R H the Prince of Wales, which letter has been misrepresented, What the letter does not appear to be a fabrication; I thought it necessary to state ^{to} you, as I have made some allusion of that kind in my letter to H R H.

 I have the honor to be

Signed Rich^d Manby

But upon maturely considering the whole affair & as I respect again the contradiction the investi-gation contained ^{in a copy of which, I was not permitted to have,} I cannot but say that the circumstances are more perplexed than ever, & the real truth, now considered more difficult to be got at, I was not informed of all I am now aware of, & which lead me to be of my first opinion That Mr Duntzen's letter presented by Baron Eben to H R H - was a fabricated letter; & of that opinion I shall remain till the letter be produced, or until the transactions are more fully & impartially, investigated. -

Reasons for signing the letter B 10 to Col^l M^r Mahon When I wrote the letter B 10 to Col^l M^r Mahon, I was impressed with a notion that Mr Duntzen

 (Who in direct opposition to what he said) might have expressed in his letter something of a wish to the effect mentioned by Baron Eben, I thought so, because, Mr. Quintin has previously said that when he had taken the letter from Baron Eben to carry to H.P.H. that he had shewn it to the Prince, and in his answer before Col^l M^r Nelson and Baron Eben he said, he had been a friend of Baron Eben, that he owed him some obligations & that he did not shew the letter to the Prince, from a desire to screen him in the business as much as he could - This I myself may believe, there could ^{be} only be one letter, & Mr. Quintin, by giving up the identical letter to Baron Eben on his return ^{from Brighton} I cannot help but think (having exonerated myself from any such conversation as far as the Prince's conviction went) To have left off in my letter at the word misinterpreted, felt that I was casting (not obliging) a censure on H.P.H., which I ascribe to God was the furthest from my thoughts, - and not being able to reconcile Mr. Quintin's conduct altogether during the examination, nor Baron Eben's; I was then inclined not to think the letter a fabricated one.

It however appears from ^{deliberating upon} the evidence of Mr Quinton who protests he never wrote such a letter, whereas such a conversation was mentioned, nor that any such conversation took place which Mr Manby himself positively denies. It moreover that when Mr Manby charged Mr Quinton on the night of the 27th July in Baron Eben's presence. He mentioned to him the contents of the Prince's message, that Baron Eben without hesitation positively denied receiving such a letter, in consequence of which that denial from both of these gentlemen on the same evening Mr Manby wrote the letter N^o 3 - and the next morning also both Baron Eben & Mr Quinton with earnestness declared it must be a mistake, that nothing of the kind had been ever expressed in the letter; thereby rendering the Prince's message as sent by Mr McMahon without any foundation. Yet for what reason Mr Quinton did not show the letter which he did write, & which he took from Baron Eben for the purpose of delivering to the Prince I cannot guess; nor for what reason it was he delivered it to Baron Eben on his return, when the person or sight of it by any other person was of so much consequence to his character & mine is beyond my powers of conjecture. He says he did not present it out of friendship to Baron then to whom he was under obligations & of course to whom the delusion of such a falsehood & forgery would be ruin; But what is still more extraordinary, Baron then says that he did receive such a letter from M^r Luntin mentioning such a conversation, that he signed the paper contradicting it, out of consideration for M^r Luntin's conduct & character & that he should not be injured when by each charges the other with absolute falsehood. But Baron then has protested just as he may have been pressed & at every answer confounds ^{equivocates and} himself, but w^hat is still worse, he perseveres & gives out that he did receive such a letter, of which Lord William Somerset, M^r Goddard & M^r P. Johnson are witnesses. ~~and have been misinformed;~~ ~~on Sunday of Aug^r - when he asserted any name never~~ ~~appeared.~~ But why does he not produce the letter which he still has in his custody or knows what is become of it. I recollect also another circumstance not easily to be reconciled that M^r M^r M^r told me when he delivered the message which not only mentioned pecuniary assistance, but that I would invite Baron then to dinner as usual, if he would give up the party of Col^l Ligh, & that when M^r M^r M^r received the message from the Prince; Col^l Leigh himself & Baron then were present that Baron then took his pocket book from out of which he took a letter I delivered it to the Prince who read it in English & Mr^o M^o Mahon said, "the Prince understands German as well as we do English" & I delivered the message to you exactly as he ordered me. — It "is a wicked & abominable falsehood" I replied, "who does the letter?" The Prince has got it Mr^o M^o Mahon answered and I am not paying too much if I report that Mr^o Greenwood ^{is collected this} ^{replied} "This some gentlemen told Mr^o Seymour that the Prince, addressing himself to Baron then after giving the message to Mr^o M^o Mahon, ^{asked} "Is that the true interpretation of the letter" when Baron then bowed & said Yes. Therefore taking all circumstances together, & above all, the former message relative to my conduct in the Reg^t, independent of the conversation reported of me; I am not disposed to blinke a thorough investigation of my general behaviour — added to which Col^l M^o Mahon told me it was the Prince's intention to send a General Officer to inquire & report to him the cause & state of the disputes which must subsist where animosities are so attended to, & supported — It has an indecent message - that I have spoke improperly to a Sergeant about an orderly book; I therefore do require an accurate & impartial inquiry not for the purpose of discovering the letter only, but to substantiate & fix my character as it may appear good or bad - I do not any wrong by making such a requisition, I desire to bring no charges or complaints against other people, but literally to establish & protect my own reputation. Col Leigh has said he would visit me, & ^{see} ~~write~~ to it more than once, the now may have a full opportunity. My application by letter to the Prince may be only an attempt to induce an inquiry; but I shall pertinaciously insist on it.

 Had the investigation on Sunday last produced any one satisfactory answer from either of the gentlemen, I had been content, but all was contradiction & nothing was proved but that each criminated the other. - Col M^r Nelson said he could not suffer any name to be mentioned, or any questions asked but such as led to do away the suspicion of fabrication, but not the truth of the conversation for that in part was ascertained to be true, by Baron Eben; this was positively denied by Mr Lurston; Questions that were proper before a Court of inquiry, were not convenient & proper before such an investigation: I required to know under what impression it was Baron then could be prevailed on to lay before H. R. H. a confidential & friendly epistle of his Countryman ^{that too in the presence of three other people} & friend, for it related by M^r Quintin's testimony, only to familiar subjects, I could get no answer, What also could Baron then mean by saying that M^r Quintin talked of Party, in the Reg^t the party of Col^l Sleigh, & the opposite party; he was asked to name one belonging to any party, but he was silent - He should be made to specify & declare what, & to whom he means - In the end unless I get a proper investigation, I will take upon me to do myself that justice which is immediately in my own power, I will ~~publish~~ ^{make public} every word which is here stated with such comments on the nature of the transactions may furnish me; for having written to M^r M^r Mahon a second letter I received the answer following, I am apprehensive of obtaining any regular means of expounding & bringing to light the truth of a fact where two people are so much at variance, but it is life for that end then for my behaviour in other respects, & what I do at now, is no more than what I solicited in my first letter.

To Col. M^{rs} Mabron.

Sir

You will recollect my having before the Carlton House on Sunday last, mentioned to you the necessity it appeared to me, there would probably be of my troubling you again upon the subject which was then discussed; & tho' I did not hesitate to state according to the wishes of the Prince; that upon the investigation, which then took place, it did not appear to me that a fabrication had been resorted to; still from the length of time that has elapsed since the rumors of the supposed letter first found its way into circulation; and reflecting upon the various insinuations so highly injurious to my Character, which have been propagated in the and in the Works, as well as upon the contradictions that manifestly appeared upon the investigation, I feel it a duty I owe to myself to require a much more full & satisfactory explanation of the business before some Military Characters of Rank and Responsibility; in order that the Works, & the Regt in particular, may be in possession of positive proofs of the Rectitude of my conduct.

I have now only therefore to request you will have the goodness to lay this letter before HRH the Prince of Wales who will I trust allow me the means of justifying myself in the manner here proposed. - I have the honor to be Sir your

Carlton House Aug^r 29th 1802

Sir

I have had the honor to receive your favor of yesterday and as the Prince returned to Brighton yesterday after giving me his final commands upon my setting out for Cheltenham tomorrow under an arrangement I have long solicited on account of my health, the King no occasion to address his Royal Highness until my return in Oct^r, I must beg to decline transmitting your letter to him, for as the Prince was pleased to permit my closing all business with him during that time, I cannot possibly enter into any fresh matter at this period, but Mr Greenwood has directed me to say that before you convey the wish you express through any other channel, he is anxious you should see him, for master as he is of the entire subject, he cannot but see the matter in a different light. It coincides with me that the inno--cigation which took place on Sunday is a complete exculpation of your conduct in that transaction & therefore the application might appear to the Prince at best as unnecessary. Hence the honor to be

Sir

Yours very obedient Servant

Signed J. M. Mahon.

P.S. I have left your letter to me with Mr Greenwood that you may use your own judgment upon it.

Before I conclude I beg to make one remark on Mr M^cMahon's answer of the 29th - Mr Greenwood may see the matter in a different light by the representation of Mr M^cMahon; it is to be remembered that he & Baron Eben & Mr Sinderman are all of H.P. H's household, that a partiality to each other is natural tho' it has ever so hard on an individual, they don't like to interfere with each other's conduct where they can avoid it, & where they cannot, they like to give it as favorable a turn as possible. -

Mr M^cMahon is not an unfit person to be a judge in such an investigation, divested of his partiality, but wherefore is Mr Lindemann to be fixed on as the other investigator. It is Mr Lindemann who be the interpreter for Baron Eben who pretended to be at a loss for the interpretation ~~of his own~~ confession, but not as my judge, but Baron Eben does understand English as well as any foreigner nor is it any exculpation of my conduct to have ^{Mr Lindemann's} ~~his~~ acknowledgement of my innocence; It is also the Prince's opinion, the opinion of the Duke & the Pr. [B. G.] that I ~~was~~ ^{seemed to have} at present I have not the satisfaction offered me by H. R. H's orders, that the conversation stated by me, should be denied by Col. Singh before Mr Greenwood who was present when Col. M. Mahon delivered the Prince's message to me. and at best when this is done Mr Greenwood can only be satisfied of my conduct in that transaction - whereas it is not to that, only that I attack the injury done to me by the calumnies that have been so industriously spread about to effect the purpose of my ruin; & considering the great sanction the authority of the person before whom I have been tried need bears in the public mind the more it behoves me to be my own protector against the ^{artifices} ~~intrigues~~ of my oppressors. There ^{gross} ~~has been~~ ^{behaviors} ~~been~~ ^{some where} ~~and~~ ^{I require} ~~my~~ ~~conduct~~ ^{to be} ~~properly~~ ^{improved} ~~into~~; I expect once more to risk on account of the Letter I am so solicitous; tho I don't mean to lose sight of that very extraordinary Circumstance, but from all other false imputations which His Royal Highness has ~~been told~~ ^{listened to} respecting me previous to my knowledge of the Letter — Mr. M^r Graham as well as Mr. Greenwood may remember I made such an application on the 20th July, — & my ^{1st} Letter of the 23^d ^{expresses} ~~expressed~~ an earnest desire to defend myself against any such Complaint as my ~~adversary~~ ^{adversary} / wherever he is I may think proper to alledge against me
