My Dear General

Upon consultation, it has been judged best that I should see Sir John Douglas without delay. I will, therefore, be in town to meet him when he is to have the interview with Mr. Leten at his town house. The Prince is charming, & corresponds perfectly to every wish I could have as to the line to be pursued. Indeed, my notions were justified entirely with the view of their affording his reg--nancy. He has promised the fullest patience and I am sure he has exhibited a generosity of temper such as can be found in any very few. All is well understood too about the little Prince, so that the business of my journey is already accomplished.

Faithfully yours

Prince

Charles Fitzherbert
