

H. R. H.

The Prince of Wales

to

Mr. Perceval

Nov. 6. 1810

(Copy.)

of Wales has to return to Mr. Perceval for the the Proceedings of the respecting the Introduction of Mr. Robert Willis.
Perceval must be sensible

(Copy)

of the very delicate Predicament in which the Prince stands, which entirely precludes him from expressing any opinion whatever, upon the Topic of Mr. Perceval's Communication; more especially, as the very little the Prince has ever learnt of the Circumstances, previous to the receipt of Mr. Perceval's Letter this Day, has been entirely derived from some observations, which he has heard made by certain of

(Copy.)

The Prince of Wales has to return his thanks to Mr. Perceval for the detail of the Proceedings of the Cabinet, respecting the Introduction to His Majesty of Mr. Robert Wilkes.
 Mr. Perceval must be sensible of the very delicate Predicament
 in which the Prince stands, which
 entirely precludes him from expressing any opinion whatever, upon the Subject of Mr. Perceval's Communication; more especially, as the very little the Prince has ever learnt of the Circumstances, previous to the
 receipt of Mr. Perceval's Letter this Day, has been entirely deriv'd from some observations, which he
 has heard made by certain of the Younger Branches of his Family, and not from any personal knowledge of his own.

It only remains for the Prince of Wales, to express his most anxious hope, that whatever His Majesty's confidential servants, may have thought it their duty to direct, respecting His Majesty's medical Attendance, under his present Affliction, may be productive of the happiest result.

Windsor.
Tuesday Evening.
Nov: 6. 1810.

a true copy.

Thos. Dyott.