

The Duke of York takes the earliest opportunity in His power to acquaint General Grenville that He has examined very carefully Mr. Pitts Letter to the General, in answer to a paper which General Grenville received some time ago from the Duke of York upon the Subject of the Grant which His Majesty was so gracious as to promise Him of the supposed Mines in Nova Scotia.

The Duke of York cannot help expressing how very unsatisfactory in every respect Mr. Pitts Letter appears to Him and how very much Mr. Pitt seems to have changed his opinion upon that business since the 29th September 1788.

Mr. Pitt first says that He never conceived from anything which was said at that Time that it was His Majestys intention to make this Grant to the Duke of York for Him and His Heirs for ever. if Mr. Pitt will only consider the nature of the Grant in question as well as the great risk and the great expence which such an Undertaking must naturally bring with it, before there can be even a possibility of any advantage accruing He must see that whether in the conversation of the 29.th September 1788 it was particularly expressed or not, the other meaning whatsoever could be intended by the Duke of York especially as the Duke is confident there never was a Patent granted upon a similar occasion, of which this was not the first condition.

The Duke of York thinks it needless to repeat the other arguments which He mentioned in His first Paper to General Grenville on this condition or those He made use of upon the second concerning the different reservations which it is now intended to make upon the supposed increase of the Profits of the Mines.

There is however one argument more which is drawn from the calculation of the different Sums which would be to be paid to Government, according to the supposed increase of the Profits of the Mine, and which proves more clearly than anything how very unjust and cruel the condition is and how very barefull to the whole Undertaking.

Should the Mine produce
£	£	£
10,000	Government receives	1000 Duke of York 9000
20,000	3000	17,000
30,000	6333	23,667
40,000	11,333	28,667
50,000	18,333	31,667
60,000	26,333	33,667

it therefore appears that if after all the risks, and expence are gone through should the Mine really begin to be very profitable which as yet there is no reason whatsoever to have an Idea of it would then become hardly any more worth the Adventurers while to push it to any further extent as after a certain point the profit He can gain is infinitely too small to repay the Risks He must continue to run in working it.

Mr. Pitt seems to hint in his Letter to General Grenville as if in his conversation with the Duke of York, He had only said that a tenth part of the net Profit arising from the Mine was very reasonable in the first Instance but should the Profits increase that then the reservation should increase likewise.

The Duke of York can safely say, that in the conference He had with Mr. Pitt no such intimation was given to Him ever in the most distant manner or otherwise it would have been very easy to have answered Mr. Pitt that should that condition be kept that was first proposed Government would still materially gain by every increase of Profit of the Mine, as the tenth thereof would likewise increase.

Should these few additional Arguments not have sufficient weight

£
 9000
 17000
 23,667
 28,667
 31,107
 33,667

with Mr. Pitt, to make him give up the new conditions which he proposes to place in the Grant and to substitute in their place the former ones which had been agreed to in the conference between the Duke of York and Mr. Pitt so early as the 29th September 1788 and which Mr.
Pitt declared himself then so very reasonable The Duke of York desires General Grenville to acquaint Mr. Pitt that he wishes he would lay the whole matter before His Majesty and take His Majestys commands upon it, as the Duke cannot help repeating, that these conditions totally render abortive and negatory The Kings gracious intentions towards him.

Yours in haste
Robert

W. R. W. Mr Duke
of York

The Duke of York

to

The Prince of Wales

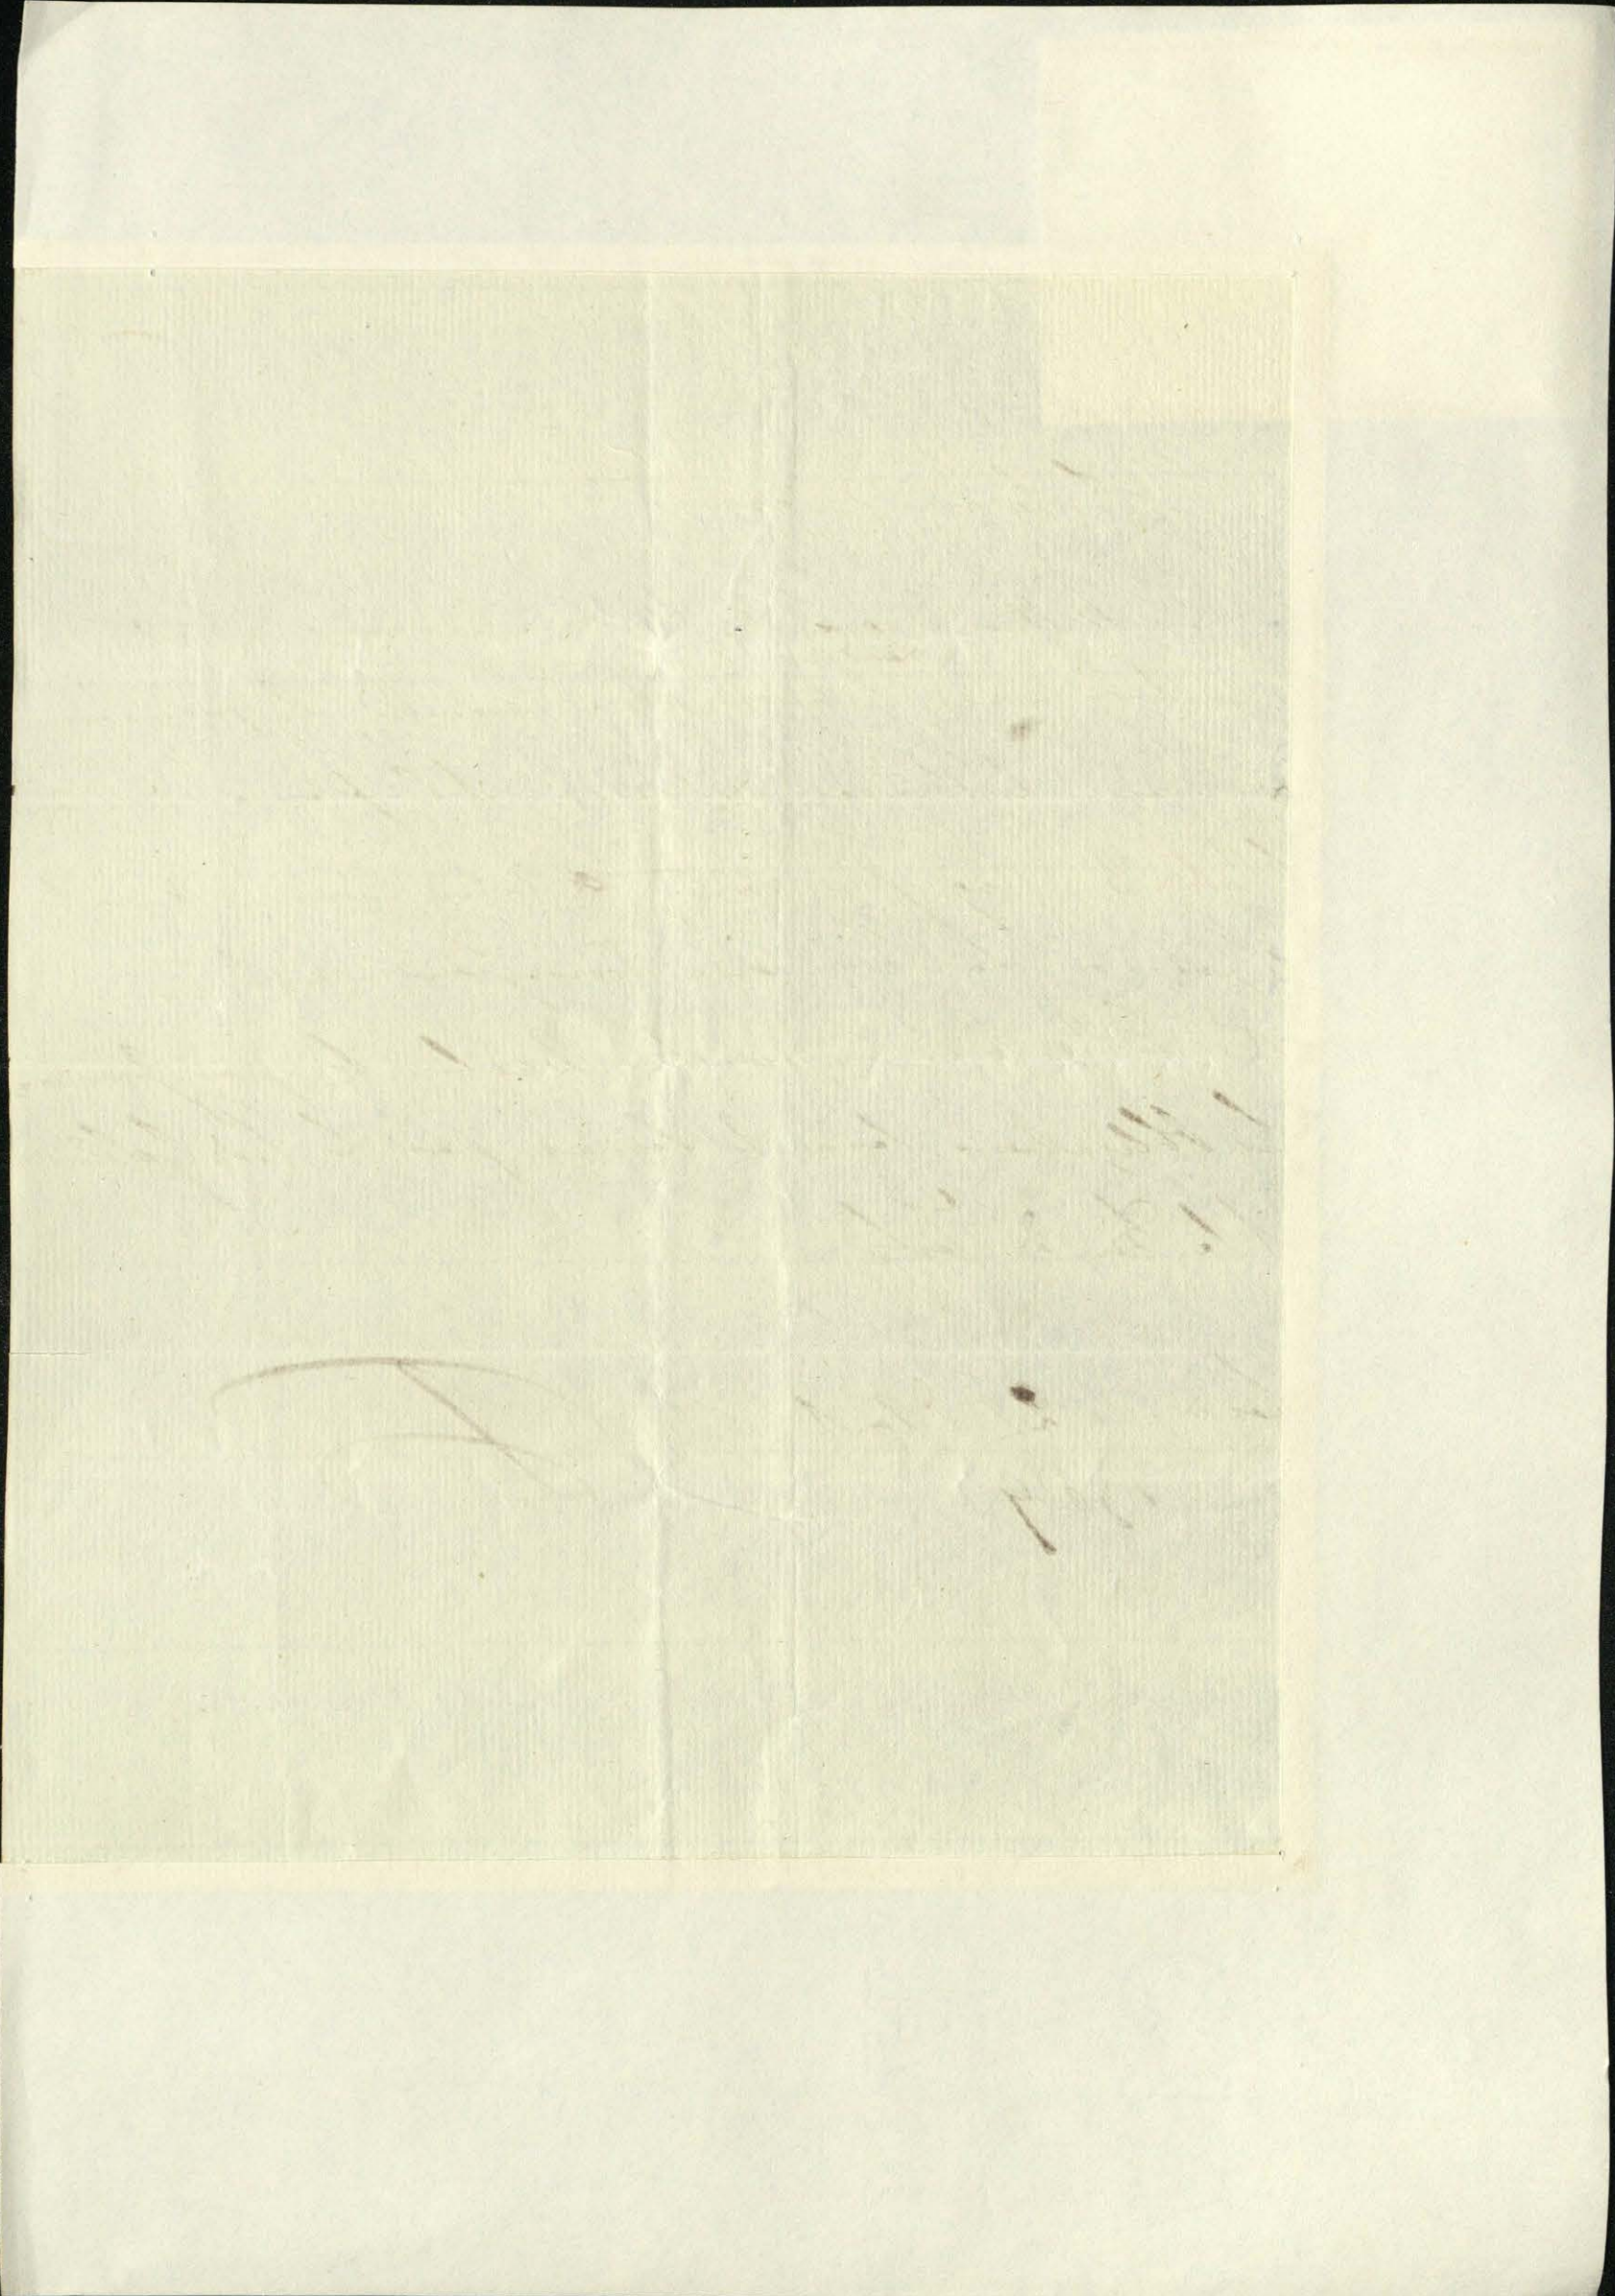

43921

22^e Aug. 1709

Les termes de l'emprunt un Million de livres la somme à long cours, à payer en quatre termes, le premier de Novembre, le premier de Janvier, le premier de Mars, et le premier de Mai L'Interest à long pour cent et d'être comme l'Ordre de payer, La Provision à trois pour cent Les Intérêts se payeront à Amsterdam par Quarters Les Obligations seront signés par le P. de Cellis et le Duc de York

Londres le 22 d'Aoust
1709

I can not let the Mail boat set off today for Weymouth without taking the opportunity of laying myself at Your Majesty's feet.

The affectionate and gracious manner with which Your Majesty and the Queen were so good as to receive me when I had the Honor to pay my Duty to You at Saltram, had made me resolve, to take the earliest opportunity after Your return to Weymouth to pay my respects to You again.
But I am very much afraid that I shall be prevented for some time from that Honor, by a very unlucky and very violent, intermitting, feaver, which I caught, during my excursion into the North, which though at present stops has reduced me so exceedingly low, that it will require a considerable time for me to recover,

Permit me to express to Your Majesty how rejoiced I am to hear that you have gone thro' the fatigues of your tour into the West, and that Your Majesty is returned in such good health to Weymouth

May I entreat you, Sir, to give my duty to the Queen, and to allow me to sign myself with the utmost sincerity

Sir

Your Majesty's

most dutiful Son
and Subject

London Sept: 4

1789

Frederick

43923

My D. joins with yourself sur complain coming her
The receipt conformable
do not ap
and cordi
I think the Prof of to enter on difference discussing suppose of Judgem conduct to respect a clue in.

43923

Weymouth Sep. 5. 1789.

My Dear Frederick, I have received your letter, the Queen joins with Me in the supposition that you have overfatigued yourself since the Measles and attribute to that the lowness you complain of; we therefore strongly advise the not thinking of coming here, where our stay will not be of long duration. The reception you met with from us both at Saltram was conformable to our constant feelings which whenever they do not appear, are clouded by not meeting with the attention and cordiality we think we deserve.

Think this ~~the~~ best method of answering the letter from the P. of Wales of which you was the bearer. I do not chuse to enter on the melancholy subject that has caused a difference of opinion; indeed I have uniformly declined discussing it with every one; and shall be willing to suppose the P. of Wales's conduct has proceeded from error of judgement, the moment his public as well as private conduct towards the Queen and myself shall mark that respect and affection, which Parents have a right to claim.

Bank of York

September 4. 1799

City of London 1799 5.

43924 - 5

My dear Brother,

I in Answer thank you for yr. kind Letter wh. I receiv'd last night. I am excessively happy yr. F. has arrang'd our business so well to yr. satisfaction for I hold yr. opinion in these kind of transactions, as infinitely beyond mine.
 We got immensely drunk at Ashwood the night you left us, to yr. degree yr. a very odd adventure was the consequence wh. ^{Justly} I think will make you laugh when you read this, after having sung for a vast while, a bawdy profane song at the same time it did Mr. Fuller the clergyman, & he being nearest the Chamber St seized hold of it first, & began to file it, but ~~was~~ for me there was but one, & as I was bursting of. was not quite so convenient, ~~the~~ however as necessity is the mother of all invention, I laid hold of a. new one & best substitute I could find for the unfortunate Stat sh. the Press was straining to fill, & this happened to be ~~Benjamin~~ Stat sh. I filled in less than a hour, next morning before he went out & ~~Benjamin~~ was much surpris'd to go into the Garden he went being perfectly ignorant of what a misfortune was going to happen to him, & took up his Stat sh. being perfectly soaked thro' into a kind

 great had unnece
 have not m with kind.
 & tot unnece
 what
 Fred.
 Auck
 Nov. 20.
 C. J.
 Michm
 & of dam

a kind of Pap, he clapp'd upon his Head when his great astonishment he found this soft, cold & much hat stick to his Toubie & hair, the expression of his countenance was so truly comick y^e. I think you w^d. have laugh'd much had you seen it; however he d^d.
 not notwithstanding all his misfortunes part with his Hat but sent it to Baring to be kept in. I beg you will give my best love to William & tell him y^e. I will call on him as soon as I come to London, as I am very anxious to know what Warren thinks of him. Adieu my dear Frederick believe me ever,

Arthur Hood.

Nov. 20th 1785.

B. J.

He has been at eleven & I hope y^e.
 I got 2 amms Fellow Keate wont prevent y^e. hunting.

Most affectionately

Yours

Wm Pitt

From the 20th 1989

43926

I empower you to receive from Hugh Watts Esq. such sums of money as may fall due to me, or share of the loan in which I bear a share.

George M.

To
His Royal Highness
The Duke of York.

Jan^y. 4. 1759.

Copy of Notes dated
Jan. 7-1-190

obl. 1. work to

[Faint, mostly illegible handwritten text, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

Duke of York
January 11. 1790

Whitehall January 11 1790

43927

Sir

As I am not sufficiently recovered from my indisposition to be able to pay my duty to Your Majesty in person, I take the liberty to lay before You, Sir, by letter, a requisition which I received this morning from Lord Spencer Hamilton, for Your leave to sell the Company at the regulated price, should Your Majesty be graciously pleased to consent to this sale, may I entreat You, Sir, to allow it to go in the Regiment and to permit Captain Morrison, the eldest Lieutenant to purchase the Company, Ensign Hengil the drummer and M^r. Armstrong, a nephew of the General's the Ensign, I am, Sir

Your Majesty's

Most Obedient Son
and Subject Frederick

[Faint, illegible handwritten text in cursive script, possibly a letter or document fragment.]

From Mr. of Wales
March 1790—
7th

43928

My dear Fredericks,

I have just written a few Lines to William relative to young Dundas offering himself a Candidate for Cambridge, who wishes much to carry with him a Letter from William to his Secretary Mr. Waddington to go & survey Trinity College & the rest of the University.
~~We have~~ the most sanguine hopes yet we shall be able to turn Coarson out, & Dr. John goes down with Dundas & we hope any thing of the matter will not get wind till after they we arriv'd at Cambridge, I wish you wd. give hint to William how much we are all of us interested in this business & therefore how necessary it is I shd. get this letter to Mr.

Waddington as soon as possible. I hope you feel yourself gain strength & that the country air agrees with you. I shall certainly be at Dattand on Tuesday & sleep there y^e. night, & hoped you have appointed Dutton to meet me.

Campton Anne.
March 7th. 1795.

Ever affectionately
my dear Frederick,

George B.

do you begin to find yourself better in this

The Duke of York
to
The Prince of Wales

1790 ?

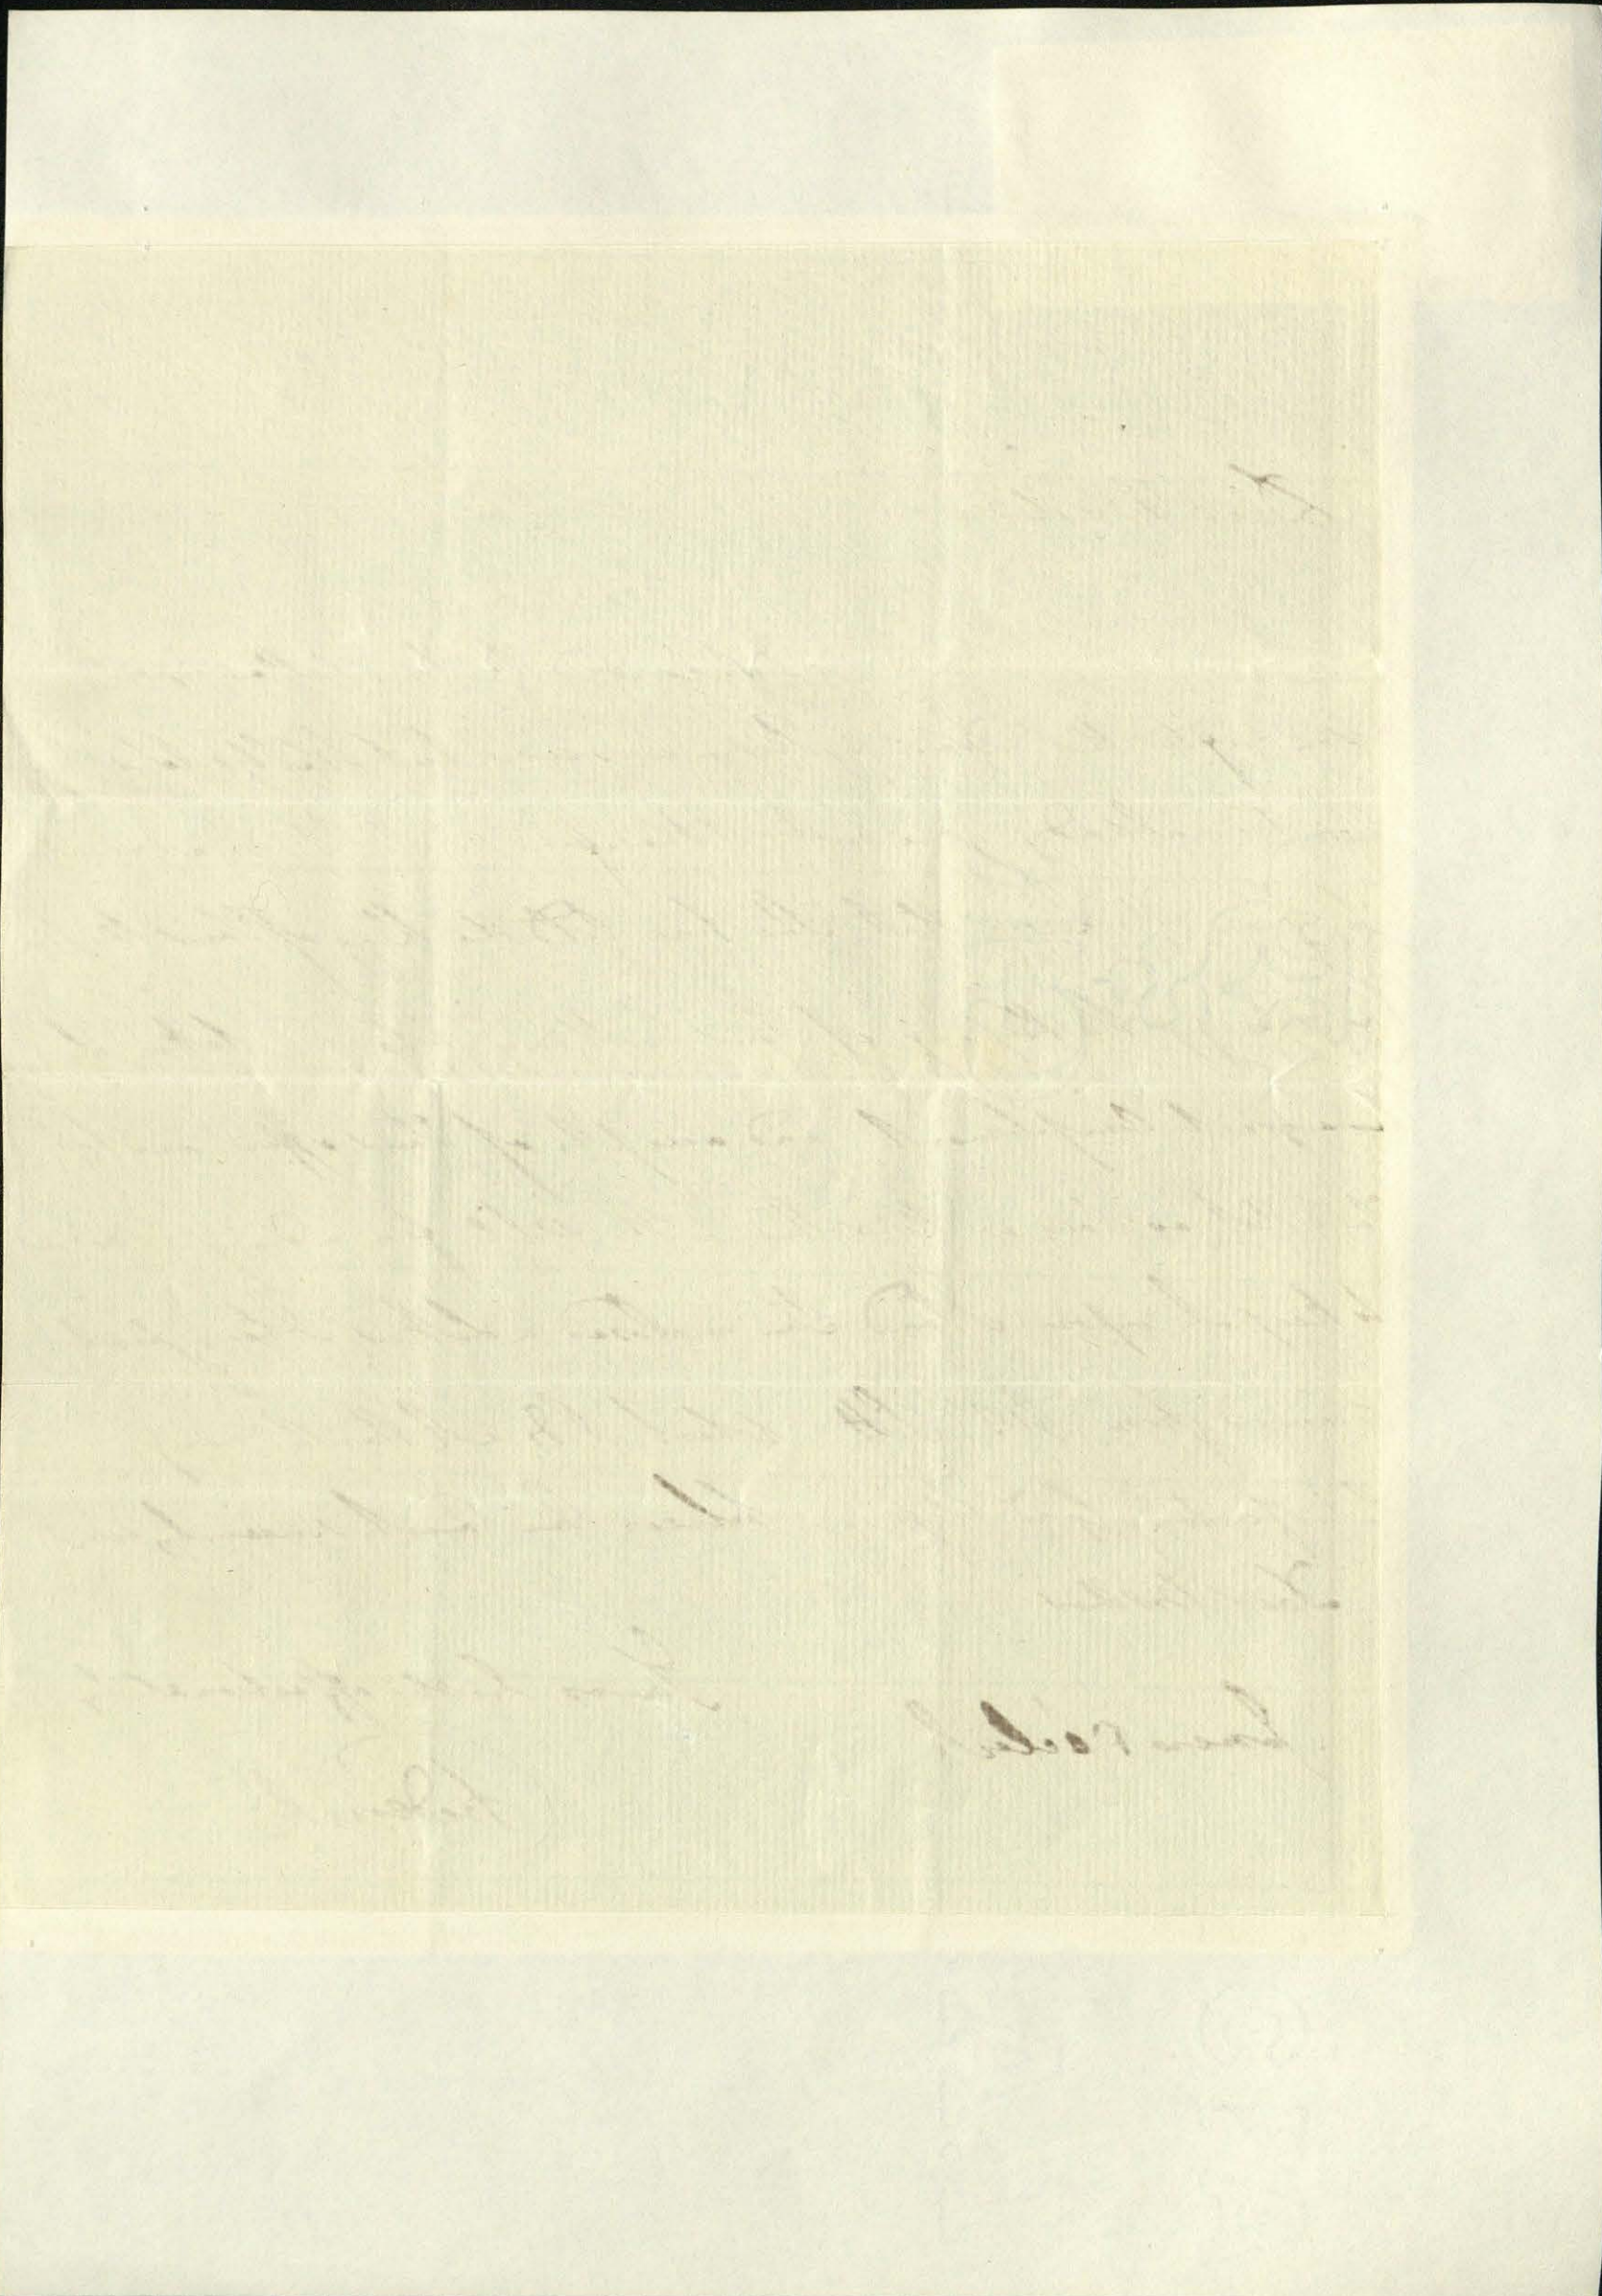

43929

Dear Brother

I intended to have called upon you after the Drawing Room was over but Willy told me you was already gone out, I therefore wish this to acquaint you from the Queen that she has told the King of your proposal concerning the keeping of your birthday, who has taken it as a great Compliment, and accepts of your offer, and has said that as soon as he returns he will for a day order to keep it upon, I send you enclosed a Letter I have just received from Mr Pitt, which I do not think very satisfactory God bless you, believe me Dear sincerely ever
Dear Brother

V. Jones & Co. L.

Yours most affectionately
Frederick

43930-1

Dear Brother,

I sit down to write in ye. greatest hurry imaginable as my Company are all arriv'd & waiting with very hungry appetites for their ~~Supper~~ Dinner. When considering the matter of Thursday over, it is not only my opinion but of all our Friends here of ye. sort of notice Badi has received shd. be a little more authenticated & rather more direct, before we absolutely determine upon going to Court on Thursday, if it is thoroughly understood of by the Drawing Room on Thursday the King means to keep ye. Day it is very well & that we can understand it directly from His Majesty's order y^e. w^d. be just what I sh^d. wish, but else I do not think y^e. we sh^d. be doing right but rather leaving ourselves sh^d. see determine to go when the more Henry's report Badi has received. I wish you w^d. send therefore Badi to Windsor & let him say y^e. he came in our names to inquire whether we were expected on Sunday & y^e. y^e. Court on y^e. Day is meant by way of celebration & y^e. ye. answer is yes I shall certainly be in town in ye. case

43931 on Wednesday night ^{but} if the snow should settle such as we like I then think myself to be perfectly wrong in going. I leave this night entirely new to you, & I hope you will be able to send me a satisfactory answer by some night or early on Wednesday morning at latest, I also wish you to advise me whether any thing is to be done on your birthday I only mean with regard to attendance at the in order of. We may fix your day for giving a joint ball to all the County in order to celebrate both our birth as well as William's jointly. Pray give this small but quite in your interest my very best wishes.

 I am, Sir, your very sincere friend
 Wm. Pitt
 August 12 1790. L.L.C.

ye. Day understand it wd. be
 I do not at but determine report
 wd. send
 of him
 to explain
 Sunday
 meant by is for
 to call

From Mr. of States
Sept 6-1790

[of date on letter]

43932 -3

My dear Father,

In consequence of the receipt of yr. Letter I shall certainly come to Town Tomorrow early in yr. afternoon, but must beg of you in yr. mean time to see the King at St. James's before or after the device & to mention to His Majesty from me yr. I intend to be in Town Tomorrow to know whether it is his pleasure yr. by yr. Drawing Room on Thursday it is to be understood as the Celebration of my Birth Day, & consequently whether our attendance wd. not be proper; my principal reason for charging You with this humble request to know his Majesty's pleasure is y^t. if You will call to mind y^t. in general every preceding Year till the last, I had always received the King's commands relative to what was to be done respecting my Birthday, y^t. not having received the smallest intimation on y^t. Head was one only reason for not paying our respects on y^t. Day, ^{last Year} & so many very unpleasant misrepresentations having arisen of a conduct wh. we consider'd & intended as most dutiful, makes me particularly anxious to be acquainted with His Majesty's sentiments on this head y^t. We may be entirely guided by y^t

 as to this come
 wd.
 his agre
 Bew
 to do other enough
 requ
 after dead bright
 bright

AA

43933 by you. I must once more entreat of you to be as home in seeing the King after you receive this letter, & of obtaining His Majesty's pleasure concerning the contents of it, wh I wish you wd. submit to his inspection, as my only wish is, to do what is most convenient & agreeable to himself. I shall not my dear Brother add any thing more, as I do not wish to detain my servant any longer, fearing th. otherwise you may not receive this time enough to see the King according to my request the earliest opportunity possible after his arrival in London. Adieu my dearest Frederick. I remain ever affectionately

 George

Brighton. p.
 August 10. 1790.

per; my with this ty's pleasure
 in general
 I had do relative
 by writing
 it intention or not flying my very y wisen ended as by anxious sentiments guided

[Faint, mostly illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is written in a cursive script.]

*From the [?]
Aug 10-1990.*

The Duke of York AA

The Prince of Wales

Aug. 31. 1790

43934

Dear Brother

I take the earliest opportunity to acquaint you that Dr Beaume in spite of every thing which has been said against him has got us the loan of one hundred thousand pounds, according to his agreement. The only difficulty which occurred was how far now, situated as we are concerning the loan proposed by the Duke of Portland, we could close with this, both having talked it well over with Assinment.
We are of opinion that we must accept it because the Bond having ^{been} signed the conditions fulfilled according to all the fair rules of trade. We have no right to retract, and in fact Mr Hammerley holds the Bond in trust for both parties, and has no right to withhold it from Dr Beaume, as soon the money is paid according to the conditions. This I must confess as an agreeable obligation on our side, but besides it is a binding one, and I have therefore commisioned Mr Hammonsley to write to Mr De Beauce from us to acquaint him that when the money was paid, the Bond would be delivered to him. I have not time to add more except to hope you amuse yourself well and that you will not forget to come to be on Sunday. Believe me

Dear Brother

Yours most affectionately

London August 31

1790

Fredrick

The Duke of York
9th October 1790

43935

Sir

As I am affraid that my unfortunate illness will hinder me for another week from paying my duty in person to Your Majesty, and having just received an order to augment the Regiment and here informed that a large Body of Troops were ordered to be in readiness for foreign Service, I hope Your Majesty will allow me to take the first moment to lay myself at Your feet, and to entreat You Sir, to employ me in any part of the War or in any way that You may think fit. The promise which Your Majesty has repeatedly made me, that if there was an opportunity, I should certainly see Service and that I never anxiety which Your Majesty has always shew that Your Sons should leave their Study the professions which they have chosen, and by that means become usefull to their country, make me

Trusts that Your Majesty will not allow my application to be in vain, I have the Honor to be

And
Your Majesty's

Whitehall October 8
1790

Dear Sir, I am
and subject

Frederick

The Duke of York
10th October 1790

43936

Whitehall October 10th 1790

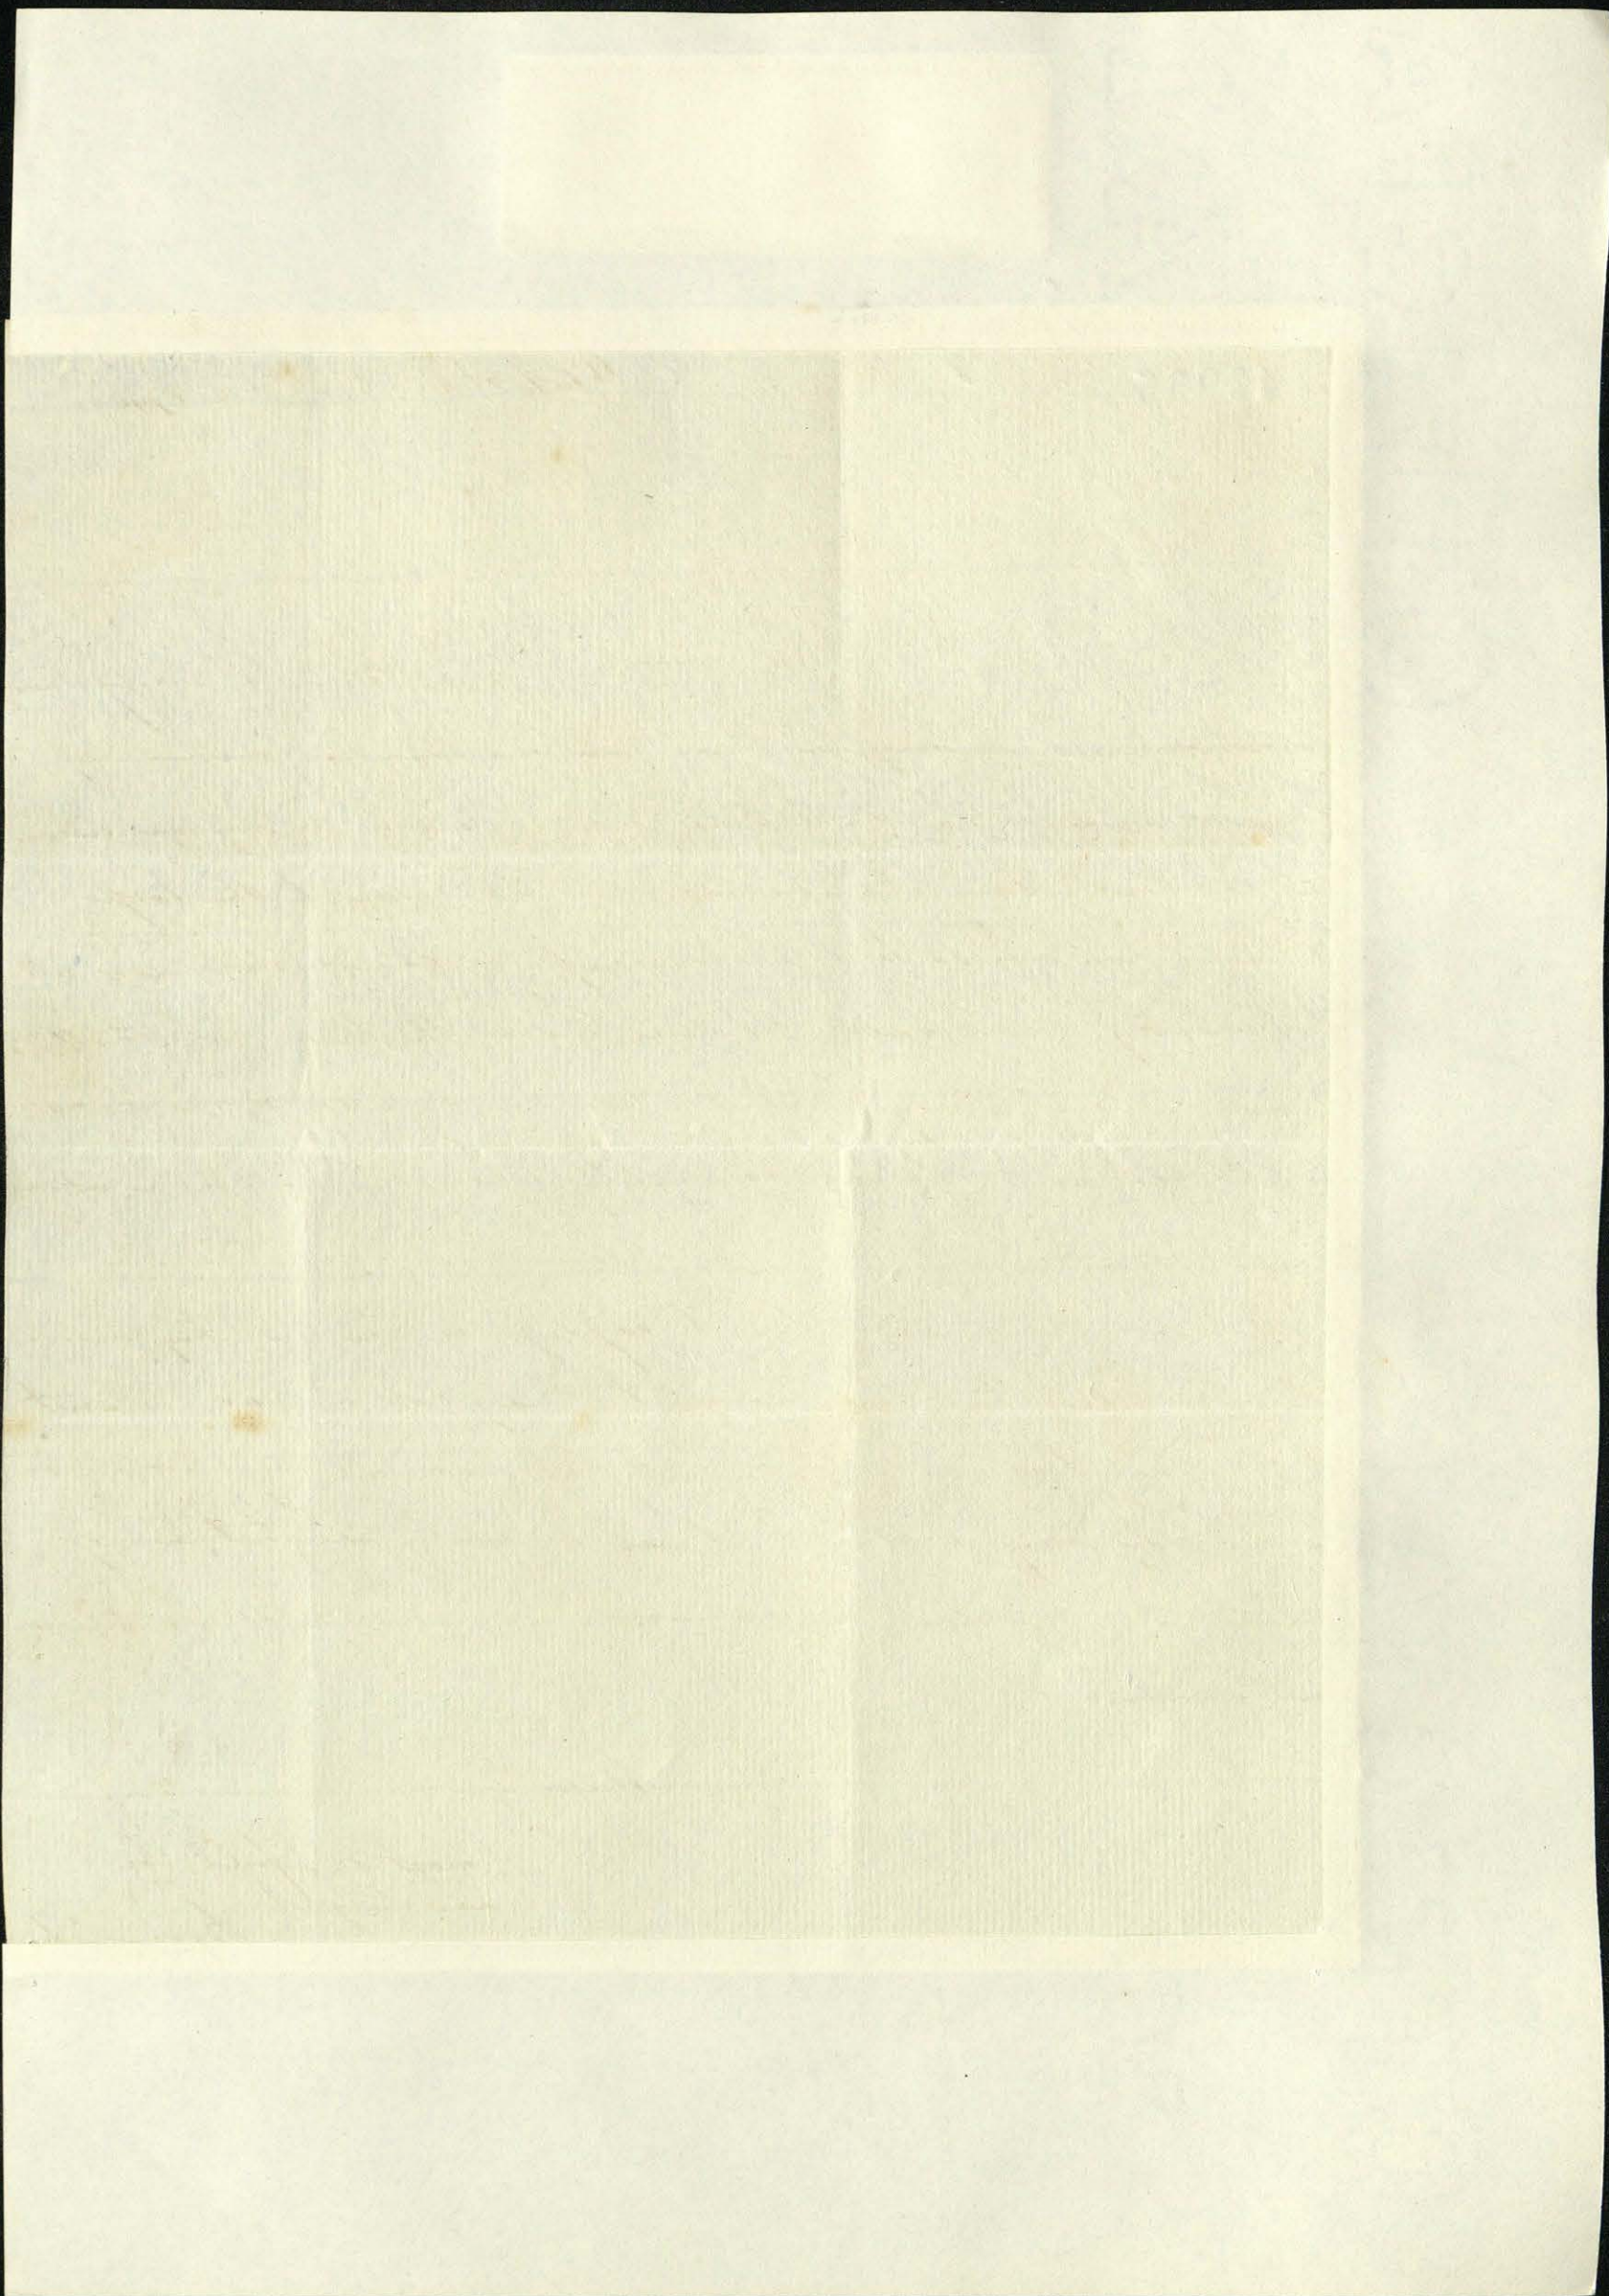

Sir

I take the earliest opportunity to return Your Majesty my most dutiful thanks for the very gracious answer You have been pleased to give to my application and for Your goodness in assuring me, that though the Corps of troops now ordered to be in readiness for foreign service, is not sufficiently considerable to send me with them, yet that should a larger Body be sent upon any occasion, I should not be left behind, Confiding thoroughly upon this, as well as upon every other promise I have ever received from Your Majesty, It only now remains for me to express to You, Sir, my most ardent Wishes, that the moment may not be far distant, that I may have an opportunity of learning my profession in the only way in which it can be truly taught, and of endeavouring to render myself usefull to Your Majesty and my Country,

I am Sir

Your Majesty's

Most dutiful slave
and subject
Frederick

The Duke of York

AA

to

The Prince of Wales

Dec. 29th 1790

43937

Whitehall December 29th 1790

Dear Brother

I had your down enclosed a letter from the Duke of Portland by which you will find that the Ankerf Loan is at last in a manner concluded and that it only waits for our signing the different papers, which it is very much wished to dispatch back to Ankerf by Tuesday's Mail. I must therefore beg you to come up either tomorrow evening or at latest before twelve o'clock on Tuesday, or otherwise we shall be obliged to wait till the next post day. I called at Burlington House, but did not find the Duke, so that I had not an opportunity of talking to him about the absolute necessity of having money to go on with immediately, but shall be by appointment at Burlington House at one o'clock tomorrow for fear that the Duke of Rutland has not expressed strong enough in the letter to you, his wish that you should come up immediately, I had the pleasure this morn to be, Mrs. de la Riviere, whom I met at Mr. Pitt's this evening, begged me to press the very hard to come up, when, believe me, I was

Yours most affectionately

Frederick

1796-91? AA
April 1791?

43938

Dear Brother

Being thoroughly persuaded of Your affection and how much You interest Yourself in every thing which concerns me, I lose no time, as the post is gone out to acquaint You, that having thoroughly considered the present situation of affairs, and of how much consequence it is for me for every reason to take the earliest opportunity which might occur to see service, I have applied to the King for leave to go aboard and serve with the Portuguese should the present appearances of war prove real, which He has been pleased to grant in the handsomest manner possible, and has ordered me to write by tomorrow's post to the King of Portugal, to ask His permission to go with the Troops, As You know that William and I are resolved in a short time to dispose our families should no ^{other} arrangement be made in ^{our} affairs, I do not think it

The Duke of York
to
The Prince of Wales

ought to take any of family with me, and should therefore, after with them leave to take a day with me, particularly as the rank in the army will make his situation with the Prussian Army much more agreeable to himself. I shall not add more at present except to assure you that sincerely I am ever, Dear Brother

Yours most affectionately

Frederick

43939

Dear Brother

I take the earliest opportunity to write the two words to inform you of our safe arrival here at four o'clock, and that we are to embark at 8 o'clock this evening. The Captain says the wind is not very fair but he thinks we shall get over to Calais during the night. In the hurry of yesterday I totally forgot to call at Monsieur's house to be the first Dear Brother to call there, and make many excuses to the Duchess for me, and wish her all health and happiness. I have not time to add more except to repeat every wish for you, remember her to William and all friends

Yours truly
 Dover May 9 1791

Yours truly & affectionately

Frederick

My Duchesse for the ^{beginning of} ~~present~~ will be a ~~Miner~~

Yours truly

Monsieur de Comte de Melin Poste restante
 - Paris

I had every card letter from the Holles's two daughters I let out to write one to Anne while you to be good as to give them my best love and inform them that if I had not been very much pressed for time I should not have failed to call upon them. I had likewise a letter from Fulk about the Bonds which I have looked at, You had better send for Anne and inform her that I had writ to you from hence to desire You would tell her that by some mistake the Letter was put up and not opened by me till I should have that the papers she wanted were safely locked up in my drawer in London, and that as soon as she could inform us that the Bishops would be shipped off I would send you over the Key in order to deliver them to her.

May 1. 1791.

The Duke of York
&
The Prince of Wales

Sir

It is with the greatest reluctance that I take the opportunity of being abroad for a few months, to address Your Majesty upon a Subject which is of the utmost importance to me, flattering myself from the affection and kindness which Your Majesty has ever been pleased to show towards me, that You will listen with attention and indulgence, to the short Statement I shall lay before You, and that You will give me, whatever relief and assistance, Your Majesty may judge most fit.

It is now near three, when the Duke of Clarence returned to England and Your Majesty granted to him the same allowance out of the Civil List as You had allowed for all the younger Branches of Your family, that I then took the liberty to inform Your Majesty from experience of the total impossibility of any of us being able to support ^{ourselves} the expense of our being able to keep up the rank and Situation in the Country, which the honor of belonging to Your Majesty's family requires. I have waited with patience and resignation from that time for the present when Your Majesty might think fit to take out a further into consideration and nothing now should have induced me to trouble Your Majesty again upon this subject but absolute necessity What I had proposed, is now come to pass and I find myself under the total impossibility of keeping up my present establishment without the assistance of Your Majesty. In what manner that assistance is to be given, or ^{from} what fund thought to come, it would be highly unbecoming me even to hint at, Alas! I have since to repeat what I had the honor to inform Your Majesty upon a former occasion, that it is the furthest from my thoughts to apply to Your Majesty for any assistance taken from the real debt, being thoroughly convinced that considering the number of persons whom Your Majesty has to provide, and who bear all a ^{equally with myself} weight with myself to them, Your Majesty's favours, it would be wholly impossible for Your Majesty out of Your present income to grant us the least addition or relief

I have so far managed my affairs

43941

the moment when I think just to no consideration
I have endured justice again upon the necessity
now come to pass and the total of my present
the appearance
at manner given, or what it would be to be held at to be repeated
of your favor
sincerely, that it
thought to apply
my own mistakes thoroughly
ing the number Majesty has to all a request
qualify with myself from your Majesty's fully impossible
of your present
and address of my affairs

that till my return what will be either in the Autumn, or at some or the Company is now I shall be able to wait with all deference
I suppose for your Majesty's determination Should I not then be so fortunate as to receive one, or should I not be favorable to my wishes, I shall find myself under the great necessity of making this request in my family, and household, which will in some measure satisfy my creditors, and convince the World of my thorough determination to do justice to every one.

I must again entreat your Majesty's pardon for this application which the necessity alone of my situation has drawn from me, trusting to your Majesty's paternal affection and indulgence to excuse me.

With every Obedience and prayer for your Majesty's health and happiness, I have the honor to be Your
L^{ty}

Your Majesty's
most dutiful son
& subject

J

The Duke of York

to

The King

Copy of a letter from the Duke of York to the King at his leaving England

Dover May 1. 1791

It is with the greatest reluctance that I take the opportunity of my going abroad for a few months, to address Your Majesty upon a subject which is of the utmost importance to me, flattering myself from the affection and kindness which Your Majesty has ever been pleased to shew towards me, that You will listen with attention and indulgence to the short statement I shall lay before You, and that You will give me, whatever relief and assistance, Your Majesty may judge most fit.

It is now two Years, when the Duke of Clarence returned to England and Your Majesty granted to Him the same allowance out of the Civil List, as You had allotted for all the younger Branches of Your family, that I then took the liberty to inform Your Majesty from experience, of the total impossibility of any of us being able to subsist much less of our being able to keep up that rank and situation in the Country, which the Honor of belonging to Your Majesty's family required. I have waited with patience and resignation from that time, for the moment when Your Majesty might think fit to take our situation into consideration, and nothing now should have induced me to trouble Your Majesty again upon this subject but absolute necessity. What I then foresaw is now come to pass, and I find myself under the total impossibility of keeping up my present establishment without the assistance of Your Majesty. In what manner that assistance is to be given, or ~~from~~ what fund sought to come, it would be highly unbecoming me ever to hint at.

Allow me however Sir to repeat, what I had the honor and indulgence upon a former occasion to assure Your Majesty, that it is the farthest from my thoughts to apply to Your Majesty for any augmentation from the Civil list, being thoroughly convinced that considering the number of sons, for whom Your Majesty has to provide, and who have all a right to share equally with myself Your Majesty's favors, it would be wholly improper for Your Majesty out of Your private income to grant us the least addition or relief.

I have so far arranged my affairs that till my return which will be in autumn or as soon as the Campaign is over

I shall be Should I not be favored accepting of
as well as World of
I have application drawn from
and indulg

Your Majesty
myself

I shall be able to wait with all deference for Your Majesty's determination Should I not then be so fortunate as to receive it, or should it be be favorable to my wishes, I shall find myself under the necessity of making that reform in my family and household, as well in some manner satisfy my creditors, and convince the world of my thorough determination to do justice to every one

I must again entreat Your Majesty's pardon for this application, which the necessity alone of my situation has drawn from me, trusting to Your Majesty's paternal affection and indulgence to excuse me

With every wish and prayer for Your Majesty's health and happiness I have the honor to subscribe myself Sir

Your Majesty's

Most Obedient Son
and Subject
Frederick

Handwritten text in cursive script, likely a letter or document, with a date stamp on the right side.

May 1991

43944

Dear Brother

I have been so much occupied since I have been here, that I was obliged to desire Mr. Leys to inform You of our arrival here, and to send You a copy of the King of Prussia's answer to me, at first I did not know well what to do, however I have resolved to go to Berlin and to speak to the King of Prussia myself. We shall therefore set off tomorrow for Brunswick where we shall dine, and then go to Berlin on Saturday evening from whence You shall hear directly from me. I find ~~that~~ two Brothers very much altered for the better they are now two very fine Lads indeed, Ernest is now two inches taller than I am. He is a good keeper of the Duke of Gloucester, so for Wolfers He is just my size, I think He is prodigiously like Henry, and one.

of the pleasant and best humoured lady I ever saw and has a great deal of sense, I have never had an instant to myself since I have been here, having had a good many old acquaintances to see, and the two young gentlemen were just King and King on both in the noon at present and desire me to give their loves to I am afraid you will hardly be able to read this because I have had an accident, ^{with my hand & suppling} and can hardly hold a pen, Give my love to William and tell him he shall hear from me as soon as I get to Berlin remember me to all friends

Believe me

Your True Son & Affectionate

Frederick

Amsterdam May 11

The Duke of York
to
The Prince of Wales

May 11. 1791

AA

43945

Rotterdam May 15 1791

Dear Brother

As You will have judged by the short letter which I wrote to You from Hannover enclosing the Copy of the King of Prussia's answer to me, that my situation must have been exceedingly unpleasant, as I could not by any means comprehend fully its meaning; I have no time is acquainting You that the moment I arrived here which was late yesterday evening every thing was cleared up in the handsomest manner towards me, I have written a full account of it to Lord Melbourn whom I have commissioned to communicate it to You, I will not therefore repeat it over again. I stopped two days at Brunswick upon my road here in order to see the Duke, who was as usual in high spirits, and full of enquiries and questions, spoke very handsomely of You, He told me he was quite opposite and reverent to the present Administration ever since the business of the Regency. The reviews begin tomorrow, and last Tuesday and Wednesday, or Wednesday evening after dinner we shall go to Berlin as nothing can be decided about peace or war till towards the middle or latter end of June, I shall accompany the King of Prussia, to the sources of the Rhine, and then return to Berlin, till something decisive is settled, should it be war, I shall of course stay as long as the campaign lasts, should it be peace I shall have the whole world open before me till September or October when I shall certainly be back in England. I am very anxious to receive some account of Newmarket, and tell Warwick to write me exactly every thing, I like Franklin and the Duke more. Remember me to all friends in England, & I will not have to add here as I am obliged to go and pay my respects to the King, You will hear from me soon again

Dear Yours most affectionately
Frederick

Frederick
to the King Prussia