Dear Sir,

I have just received ^{from} of this day from Minister Castlereagh & I am give me great regret. On Friday I thought the thing much better and looking in countenance clearer than I could have expected. At that time His Majesty appeared to me to consider his com-plaint at home and thought well of himself.
But the anxiety of mind in our last efforts and masters I do not like and am therefore glad you remain on the spot to see the effect of the remedy.
The matter is far from being agreeable, I shall I am sensibly uneasy about the thing and trust in God your wills be truly made to give me and the public the comfortable intelligence concerning His Majesty.

I remain,

Dear Sir,

Yours truly

W. Mordaunt
