Dear Sir,

I am to acknowledge your Post Private and Confidential of the day and do not know me here to advise most your con-dential abilities your devoted and affectionate attachment as your perfect assurance to truth.

It is at the same time a great joy to have that His Majesty did pass a good night and that the Duke of Wellington and Lord Pembroke were made to affix the Royal signature to all the papers in the Castle also that the Duke of Cambridge did not see the Sovereign.

I trust tomorrow to have the honor and happiness
- of seeing you and being as usual excellent. I have and of conversing with you on your interesting deliberately affections and earnestly true life You have shown yourself thorough heart. This is
- a very holy reverence for the head of the College of Physicians and the sincere love for the King has already dictated your letters to
- send with the strictest strength to me with a...

Dear Sir,

Yours truly
