Amst. Dec. 1918
My Dear Sir: 201 45480-1

Adverting to the last communications of the Duke, and my own, under date of the 7th ult., I have now received His Royal Highness's directions, to enclose to you the different copies of letters and packets, received this day from which you will perceive that the Newspaper of December the 4th and Gazette of November the 28th via Breslau, was a letter of Dec.
4th with a Newspaper of the 3rd via Ostend, and a letter dated November 2nd together with a Newspaper to C. R. Broughton Esq + + + 167

L^d Col. B. Harvey to C. R. Broughton of the 1st December via Paris, have been all received here together this day, which certainly makes in favour of sending the packets to Mr. Severynt, and with injunctions to him to enclose them direct per Mail from Ostend to Mr.

 Mandeville at Frankfort: at the same time, we are aware, that at times, in the winter, the Packet Boats cannot get into Ostend, when they can get across at Calais and therefore, except in very particular instances, when intelligence may be of such importance, as to render it necessary to send it by two different Routes, in order to ensure the promptest possible communication of the one, His Royal Highness decides upon adhering to the Route of Paris, which appears to be confirmed by the opinions of Messrs.

45481
 Severynt & Mandeville, and in which Captain Conroy also concurs. I am happy to be able to inform you, that the Dutchess continues to go on well, and that both the Duke and her, are in good health.
 Between ourselves, I fear His Royal Highness is a little hurt, at the receipt to day of a letter, containing a communication from a French quarter, which shows and Water upon his project of taking 169 over the Dutchess for her acquaintance to England, but whether it will induce His Royal Highness or no to change his plans, it is impossible for me at present to say.

The Dutchess desires me to assure you of his friendly regard, and remain at all times, with sincere estimates

My Dear Sir:

Yours very faithfully

I received to day your letter of the 11th Instant, under the same cover, with yours of the 4th to the Duke of Kent; I am much obliged to you, for the kind attention, paid to the two en-sues, contained in my packet of the 18th Ultimo, which required being for-warded through the Colonial Office.

You will perceive from the Duke's communication, that he perfectly approves of the packets in future, coming as you have recommended, either through the Messenger in waiting at Paris, or the Agent of Packets at Ostend direct to the British Legation at Frankfurt, as he is quite convinced, that there

C. R. Broughton Esq

is no complaint to be laid over the Amba-sadorial Office either at Paris, or Brussels, but he considers the necessity of their passing free to Frankfurt indispensable, on account of the enormous expense, to which his postage would otherwise come, and which, were between Frankfurt and this, short as the distance is, is very considerable. I am well aware, how much you must be inconvenienced by Mr. Pitt Rivers' absence, but am glad to find, that your new Aid de Camp, is beginning to break in so well, and become so useful. I read with infinite concern, the very feeling observation made by you, at the close of your letter, with regard to our lamented Queen, and I enter cordially into your reflections on that subject, but you, who have so

so much of the world, and all that is going forward, cannot be ignorant, that not without causing all the high ministers of the late Majesty, many were vehement against her on three points, whether justly or unjustly it is not for me to say, these are her first interference in politics in the year 1788, and her subsequent one in 1810, when her overt enmity to an illustrious and fortunate female was in Italy; and lastly, her absence at Bath last year, when the Scottish Prince of Charlotte was for you so justly termed, snatched from us.
These three unfortunate points weighed I fear heavily in the scale, against those virtues, which until the year 1788, had appeared wholly unclouded.
All this, I merely mention to suggest from from having, in the course of mixing with all ranks, often heard these points complained of, perhaps by persons who were not fully acquainted with the truth; but certainly loyally disposed to the Royal family. I shall just add, in confidence, that both the Duke and Duchess, appear much amazed, at the obstacles thrown in the way of her accompaniment taking place at home, not only because they are strongly impressed with the expediency of it, but also because if she went to her place abroad, and it is not clearly understood that it does so, by superior authority, there is every reason to apprehend, that the new Parliament, which might otherwise have been disposed to make up for the passion of the last, will not entertain similar feelings.

50 201

But this is quite contrary

With every sentiment of regard and esteem

I remain ever

My Dear Broughton

I have received to day via Paris, monsieur and General Wetherall's letters of the 4th Instant, as will appear by the cover herewith returned, exactly a week later, than the packet you forwarded by way of Ostend of the same date, and at the same time, forwarded through Mr. Mandeville, but whether received by him via Paris or Ostend I know not, a letter from the Duchess of Gloucester, dated Windsor the 7th, and consequently that came by the Mail of the 8th, but Captain Courvoisier's packet of the 8th, or the Newspapers of the 5th, 7th & 8th have not made their appearance. I am therefore inclined to believe, that perhaps,

after

35 after all, in times out of time the direct conveyance from Ostend to Mr. Mandeville, will be the shortest; for, as I have before said, I am satisfied, at Frankfort, there is not the delay of a moment; and, in as my last contained the instructions to take the route of Paris, we will wait a little while, and see the time letters are coming by that conveyance, before I decide upon utilizing it. In the mean while, be assured, that I am most perfectly satisfied, not the slightest blame can attach to you, for any of the irregularities, which I have lately had to complain of, with regard to my correspondence. On the contrary, I am most fully satisfied, that both in sending my letters off from England, and conveying those to their destinations which I send there, the utmost Diligence

45488

Diligence is made use of by you.
 Captain Conroy will already have informed you, that the deficient letters eventually turned up, but inconceivably late, and I believe unquestionably, owing to neglect in the Chancery of Aix la Chapelle.
 The circumstance of some of my family letters arriving at different periods from others of the same date, is perfectly explained by what you state of some occasionally being forwarded by Mr. Rolleston. I however beg to repeat, that, although at present the route of Paris is to be the general mode adopted, for my correspondence, I shall always be happy to receive a line from you, when any thing of interest occurs, and a copy of the Courier Newspaper, with such matter contained in it, through Mr.
 Leighton direct from Ostend addressed to 37 / 53 the care of Mr. Mandeville Handwell at Frankfurt, and it may be be right to mention, that, with respect to my own family letters from here to England, I always send them, on Saturday or Wednesday, to Mr Handwell understanding, that they make up their packet on the Sunday and Tuesday and I apprehend, when there is not a casual messenger passing, they are invariably sent, through the common post, for Ostend. I shall just add that some weeks since, I felt certain of seeing you about the third week in April, I can however now, that is very doubtful, though I by no means can say, that I have altogether given up all thoughts of it. The Dutchess, is thank God, going on well, and as far as one can depend on calculation is well.

My Dear Broughton

I have only a moment to apprise you, that I received yesterday, together, six packets, the covers of which I return, from which you will perceive, that at one and the same time, I got via Paris the Newspaper of Tuesday the 8th and Friday the 11th, and via Ostend the Chronicles of the 5th 7th 9th & 10th, Gazette of the 5th 7th & 8th, and Captain Comings packet of the 11th, so that it is perfectly clear in both instances, two Mails have come together. - How to account for this, I am totally at a loss, but by referring to my last communications, I think as far as my memory serves me, you will find that the Duchess of Gloucester's letter of the 7th from Windsor reached me on the 19th or 20th, and therefore there can be no Broughton Copy

 the no reason, why every thing up to the 8th, should not have come as early; but what is now aggravating than all is, that those six packets as you will perceive by the Memoranda outside, have cost me £4 sterling, only 9/2 of which, is for the postage from Frankfurt to Amorbach, so that for the first time, I have been charged with the Continental postage. - Whether this is owing to the Messinger at Paris, and the Agent of Packets at Ostend, having scratched out Mr. Mandwill's direction which you will perceive is effaced, and that therefore they passed through Frankfurt direct there, without going to the British Legation, I of course cannot yet ascertain.
 But it is absolutely necessary, instantly to take steps to prevent the recurrence of a charge, that would amount to about £400 per Annum, were it suffered to continue,

45489 3
 continue, and therefore all things considered, I will beg, as my final resolution, that every packet for me in future, after having a Secretary of State's own seal put over it, be dropped simply thus: "on His Majesty's Service - Field Marshal, His Royal Highness, "The Duke of Kent &c &c," without address or place, and on the opposite side, under the seal, recommended to the care of Mr.
"Mandeville," should be placed under an exterior ^{addressed thus} cover to His Britannic Majesty's "Minister at Frankfurt on the Main," and forwarded to Mr. Serjeant at Ostend, with some little private marks, agreed upon between you, under the seal, such as an E, to call his attention to the packet being for me, and to ensure his forwarding it instantly by the first post to Frankfurt.
 Thus, the charge of the packet to Frankfurt must be paid by the Legation, and I know know my friend. Mandeville will take care it is sent off to me, directly. - It occurs to me, it is just possible. Mr. Temple and Mandeville, both of whom I know, were invited to a Chase by Prime Secretary may have been about from Frankfurt and that the Man at the House of the Mission, either to save himself trouble or not having cash to pay the postage, withdrew Mr. Mandeville's address, and sent it back to the post, to be charged against me. - I shall of course write, to have this cleared up for my own satisfaction, but I cannot wait for an explanation to give instructions to prevent the possibility of such a thing recurring, and I therefore beg your earliest attention to the contents of this. - With regard to the irregularity in the arrival of part of my correspondence during the time there was a British 197

Chancellerie at Aix la Chapelle, I perfectly understand it, and as that is past, we will not advert to it further. Had we continued adopting the mode of writing via Paris, I quite conceive that a little present would be well laid out, in keeping up a lively attention in the Messieurs there, but as we finally decide on the channel of our friend Serignat, that is no longer necessary. When I return to settle in England finally, I of course shall then have it in my power, and it will be my duty, to give some token of my regard to all those, who have been troubled with my commissions at home, or in the line of communication, and you may give a friendly hint to Serignat, that he will not be forgotten. Lt. Col. Harney

I this day receive your letter of the 22nd Ullo via Paris, by which route came three packets, the covers of which are herewith returned, to show you that the enormous charge of foreign postage, in the present instance amounting to two Guineas, still continues. What what surprises His Royal Highness a good deal, is that, a letter from the Dutchess of Gloucester the cover of which is also returned, and which the Duke presumes came to C. R. Broughton Esq.

by the same Mail, as it is dated Windsor 21st Dec. bears only the charge of the postage from Frankfurt, unless this is to be accounted for, by that letter having been enclosed to the Ministers at Frankfurt, instead of being directed to the care of Mr. Mandeville. - I am desired also to observe to you, that no packets is come from Captain Conway by the present Mail, although you mention that everything should be sent via Paris, and this strikes His Royal Highness the more forcibly, as they no one Mail yet, since the Duke left England, has that Officer omitted writing, and sending sending all letters and packets, received at Kensington, subsequent to the preceding foreign post day, so that unless his letter has been sent via Ostend, His Royal Highness is at a loss to account for the omission, especially as not one letter of those addressed to Kensington, have come by the present Mail. I have the satisfaction of adding, that both the Duke & Duchess are in good health, and ^{may} permit me to remind you, before I conclude, that on the meeting of Parliament, His Royal Highness' correspondence will be so highly interesting to him, that also scarcely expensive, unless day from England via Paris, and I am happy to say, that, since my last communication, the packet arrived, without any other charge, than that of the pos-will continue so, in future. Unquestionably the cause of the heavy charge I have been subjected to, during the last advantage of the feasibility, of scratching out the line, that recommended the packets thus passing them through Frankfurt, of Legation, but whether that took place at Ostend, Brussels, Paris, at the Prussian Frontier, or at the town of Frankfurt, it is as yet impossible to ascertain, although Maud will be doing all in his power to clear the matter up, which occurred for the first time, at a moment, when both himself and Mr. Temple were absent, for some days, at a Chase, with Prince Lowenstein. - At all events however, whether he will be able to clear this point up or not, the evil must be obviated, by my name appearing only in the interior cover, as I have requested, so that the packets in the first instance must be received by and charged to the postage account of the Legation. I perceive, from what you now communicate, that I was quite correct in my view, how the poor Queen's property would turn out after her demise. I always conceived, that the Jewels would prove to be something very handsome, as well as the ornamental articles of value important to her, in her different Reviews, which I find are to be equally divided with the Jewels, amongst her four youngest Daughters; but I more expected, there would be more Money found, than just what was in hand for the current Quarter. My letters from Hanover, are positive, as to the confinement of both the Dutchess, taking place there, where I apprehend their Mothers will respectively come over to attend them, and for all probability, although it will be to our great regret that it should not be in England,

55 we shall be obliged to come to the re-examination of letting the acouch-ment of my Dutchess take place have to regret hereafter, being at such a distance from all assistance, as we are at this place, which is nothing but a Village, and nearly fifty Miles from any Town of importance, but all that is in the hands of Providence, and if any misfortune should occur, which God forbid, the blame will not attach to us, but to those, who thought it right to resist our natural wish of going to England, by refusing all assistance, to carry it into effect, at a time, when it cannot but be known, that out of an Income of no more

As that I have for the next five years limited myself to alarms, respecting Spain, for, though no one merits less feeling of interest, than the present King, still the consequences to Europe, of a Revolution there, and particularly in the very precarious state of matters at Paris, would be fraught with evil, for the rest of Europe. Having nothing further of my having to pay for the Continental postage to Frankfurt.

I am much obliged to you for having sent Mr. B. to which you allude, to the care of the Packet Agent at Ostend, who, I hope, will find some means of conveying it to my friend Mr. C. at Brussels, by Messinger, and from thence by another, or a private hand to Frankfurt. I am all anxiety to learn what is decided, with respect to the charge of His Majesty's person, and whether what is to be united with the command of the Army, also what are the financial changes projected for the Establishment at at Windsor; therefore, whenever you can write, on either subject a line will be acceptable: at all events, I shall hope by the 23rd or 24th to be possessed of the Speech, which I conclude will be delivered by Lords Commissioners.

I am happy in being able to continue the same good accounts of the Dutchess, as I have been for some time past, through the recent sudden death of the Queens of Spain and Prussia have caused a painful sensation.
Having nothing more to add, I shall conclude, by repeating the sentiments of friendship.

My Dear Sir

The Duke desires me to apprise you, of his having received yesterday via Ostend, the Packet and Papers of the 8th, without any charge of postage, even from Francfort here, on those packages which came with the Junitary of States cover over them. - The others that did not, were charged with the usual postage from Francfort to this place, but what is very extraordinary, a letter from the Dutch Legation of C. R. Broughton Esq. -

Gloucester, dated Windsor the 11th, and which must have been sent by the Mail of Tuesday the 12th, arrived at the same time, unaccompanied by any other letter, or packet of the same Mail, which His Royal Highness is quite unable to account for, as it is clear they might just as well have arrived, as that letter, and to satisfy you on this subject, the Duke has torn off the date, and has allowed me to wafer it to this, and will be obliged to you, if you can account to him, how this has happened.
 Perhaps

perhaps this letter may have been forwarded by Mr. Holliston via Paris, only it appears almost impossible to the Duke, that a letter by that route, should be but eight days in coming, while by way of Rotterdam, they have been eleven.

I am happy in this opportunity of repeating the sentiments of friendship and esteem, with which I ever am

My Dear Broughton

I received this day a pair of the 11th Int, on the ninth day from England, and what is still better, without any charge whatsoever of postage, so that I have only to repeat my injunctions, strictly to adhere to it, and that very packet forwarded by you, should be placed under an exterior cover to His Majesty's Minister at Frankfurt, as it is clearly that, which secures their free postage. What you mention, respecting the error of your informant, relative to the Queen's property, Maurice fully confirms my judgment upon the subject. I wish C. R. Broughton Esq. you you may be as right, in the sanguine hopes you appear to entertain, that, after a certain event taking place, many days will not elapse, before a supplementary proper Parliament, that will enable me hereafter to make Old England, my head quarters: - I have no doubt however, if this subject be properly handled, and well managed, a feeling might be excited in Parliament, that would render them most ready to assent to the proposal; God grant, that the proper means may be taken! In the mean while, however, unless some step is adopted, to call the Prince Regent's attention to the expediency of the confinement of the different Dutches taking place in England, which actually should come from the House of Commons, so as to lead to a supply being granted, to cover the heavy expense of the journey of five with the exception of one, the Duke of Cambridge who is very rich, none will be enabled to move from their present stations, prior to those events:

It is a great pleasure to find that there is likely to be so satisfactory a report made to the public by Government, both of progressive and uninterrupted improvement in the revenue, and of reduction in the Civil list expenditure.
 I was well prepared, from the knowledge I had of the necessity of ^{first} procuring in the Members of both Houses, for the speech from the throne which it is supposed will be delivered by Lords Commissioners, for obvious reasons, not reaching this by the present Mail, but I conclude it must have been made on the 18th or 19th, and if so, I trust that the Mail of the 19th, which we expect on Tuesday, will bring it.

I am happy to add, that the Dutchesse is going on well, but if she is to move to England, it cannot possibly be delayed at least, beyond the third or fourth week of March, so that those Members of Parliament, who have a just feeling of the expediency of her confinement tra-king place at home, should not delay during their plans, so as to bring it about I remain ever with the most friendly

My Dear Sir

An opportunity having offered yesterday from Frankfurt for this place, the Mail of the 19th Instant arrived by private hand, which was in eight days from England, and I have the satisfaction of adding, that ^{since} the new plan has been acted upon, of sending the Duke of Kent's packets by Ostend, and under a Secretary of State's cover to the British Minister at Frankfurt, no charge for postage has been made, and nothing can have been more regular, so that the Duke is very much inclined to believe, that the heavy charge of postage, he had
C. R. Broughton Esq
63 / # 61

to pay for these cables at the latter end of last month, arose from neglect at the British Mission at Frankfurt, during the absence of Messrs Temple & Mandeville, on a visit to Prince Louisbourg, whose directions were probably left to the Post Office at Frankfurt, to forward His Royal Highness's letters direct here, and in executing that order, they included the charge for the whole Continental postage also, and which would have continued till the adoption of the present plan, but for the Duke hinting at the circumstances to Mr. Mandeville, after which the evil ceased, and the former charge only from Frankfurt to this place was resumed, but which has altogether ceased with those packets that had come under a double Secretary of State cover, viz. an exterior one to the Mission, and an interior interior one to His Royal Highness, so that, I trust the matter is altogether now at rest, and you may be sure the Duke, so far from wishing to increase his correspondence, would be solicitous to confine it to a very few individuals indeed, beyond the Members of his own family. We are all anxiously here, to learn the contents of the speech, which it was presumed would be delivered about the 21st by the Lords Commissioners, and which if so, we hope to see arise on the 30th or 31st. With respect to the report of the Duke of York having the charge of His Majesty's person, with an additional income of £10000 per annum for that purpose, which was the same attached to Her late Majesty for being at the head of the Council, all I shall permit myself to observe is, that certainly

Col. Harvey

Jan^y 28th 1719 to Feb^r 12th 20

certainly His Royal Highness appears to be the fittest person to have the charge, and as it is well known, not withstanding his enormous income, that this illustrious personage is in very great pursuing difficulty, this would seem to be an arrangement in every way acceptable to him, provided it does not deprive him of the command of the Army, which is understood to be worth about the same thing. I am happy in being enabled to state that Mr Duke and Ditchley are both in good health, and remain ever with much regard -

My Dear Sir:

I this day received your favor of the 26th Ult^o, being the tenth day from England. You will have learnt, from my former letters, the complete success of the mode, now adopted, of transmitting His Royal Highness's correspondence to Amorbach, under a Secretary of State's cover to His Majesty's Ministers at Frankfurt, and which the Duke therefore wishes to be continued, until he sends instructions to the contrary. You will learn, with concern, from the accompanying letter, received from your friend Mr Knight, that, through the Captain of the Packet, by whom the Box was sent, which

Captain

67 79

Captain Barry committed to you for His Royal Highness, deviating from his orders, it has slipped through Mr. Wright's fingers, and is still on the route for this, not having yet been heard of. Fortunately however we have discovered its course, and I shall endeavour to trace it out.

The Duke desires me to thank you, for your kind attention to his packet for Col. Mackay; probably from time to time.

The Duke will have some Continental letters to transmit to your care, and His Royal Highness relies on your goodness, to have them forwarded, with security.

You will probably be aware, before this, that your correspondent at Hanover, has led you into an error, with respect to the Royal Couple, who are gone to Cassel, as also with regard to the agreement that that is to take place in March, as it is the Duke & Duchess of Cambridge that went to Cassel, and Her Royal Highness's confinement is expected to take place next month. The Duke & Duchess of Clarence are remaining at Hanover, and Her Royal Highness does not expect her confinement till May. You will of course recollect, that the Duke of Cambridge married very early in May, but the Duke of Clarence not till the 11th July. I believe it to be quite settled, that Mother the Duchess now at Hanover, are to be confined there, indeed there appears less reasonable objections to the court taking place, in the Continental Dominions of the King of England, than there must be to the Duchess of Kent being confined, in a sequestered Village in the Grand Duchy Dutchy of Baden, I am therefore not without hopes, that our illustrious friend will yet come to the resolution of taking know, that nothing but an insuperable obstacle, will prevent his doing so.

The Duke desires me to assure you of his best regard, and I remain at all times, with the friendship and esteem.

Feb. 1819

The Messengers having come on with Lord Clancarty's dispatch, direct from Cottend to Frankfurt, I got your letter of the afternoon of the 5th Instant, in five days and a half, as it came to hand yesterday afternoon, between one & two, and at the same time in due course of post, I got the mail of the 2nd, so that nothing can do better than our present plan of forwarding my packets and letters, and if it is only allowed to continue, I shall have nothing to complain of. The observation made by you, with respect to the division of the Queen's fortune, between her four younger Daughters, I know proceeds from the warm attachment you bear to the Duke of Clarence, and myself, but I understand, that there is not a chance of the shares exceeding £21,000 at the most, when all fees, expenses and taxes are paid, and that it is possible they may not be more than £14,000; but if Ministers ever had the slightest intention of doing a kind act by the Duke of Clarence and myself, they certainly have lost the most favorable opportunity they could have had, in dividing, between us, what would remain of the Queen's income, after the pensions for the servants are taken off, say £30,000; eight-tenths of which they being appropriated to my Brother and twelve to me, would have made us both comfortable at once; and what naturally strikes one the more in this matter is, that Lord Castlereagh himself in his speech, admits that this sum allotted to the purpose of the Civil list, and might be disposed of by the R. just as he thought proper, but it is professed by, and it now only remains to be seen, if any Member will move as is expected, for us to be invited to bring our Duties home to lay in, or if being confirmed abroad, Parliament will, when they know of our having Children, make any allowance for them, but even that, I have much fear about, though you seem to be so sanguine relative to it. At all events, it is certain that neither of us
C. R. Broughton Esq
I L 13

can can move, unless we are assisted to do it, and if the Country have really a feeling that our Children should be born in England, it is the duty of their representatives knowing such to be the case, to take the necessary steps in Parliament, to obtain such a sum for us, as will enable us to fulfil their expectations. - Having at present further to add, I shall conclude by repeating the sentiments of regard and esteem, with which I ever am,

My Dear Mr. Brayton!

Yours faithfully
Edward.

 through the same channel now adopted, and which answers so perfectly well. In consequence of your suggestion respecting the Newsmen who supplied the Chronicle, I have written the enclosed to Messrs. Jones & Parrell, of Bay Street, St. James, and I trust it will be the means of insuring the more sure delivery of the papers to you, in future.
 When the last Mail that left this reaches England, you will perceive, that the application of the savings upon the Windsor and

and the late Queen's Establishment, had not escaped the Duke's attention, and I believe I may with great truth assert, that His Royal Highness feels much hurt, at the little feeling shown towards the younger branches of the Royal family upon that occasion.
 I believe I may add here, between ourselves, that to the 20th of next month His Royal Highness will be willing to undertake the journey to England, if the means are found there, but if not, they must come to the resolution of remaining here, as it would

My Dear Sir!

I was yesterday favored with your letter of the 18th Inst., and I have the satisfaction of assuring you, that nothing can be more complete, than the arrangement now adopted, for conveying our correspondence, and His Royal Highness is perfectly satisfied. You will recollect, from the first the Duke always calculated, that the Commander in Chief would continue to hold his situation as such, with the office of Custos, and that additional income of £10,000 per annum, which now makes his aggregate receipt from the public £25,000, would be given him, so that this circumstance has not been a subject of the least astonishment, to the Duke, but His Royal Highness is very narrow at finding, that after so liberal an out to black Members of the family, who was before so largely provided for, such unac-countable parsimony should be observed with regard to the Duke of Clarence and himself, who both married at the call of the Country, and though from different causes, have both awfully most inadequate means to to live upon. At present the only thing decided here, is that, if His Royal Highness are not sufficiently provided with the means to set out for England, at the expiration of a month, the Dutchess' confinement must necessarily take place in this registered spot, which is clearly the wish of the head of the family, as Mr Brook Taylor is already nominated to witness the birth of the Child, but if it does so end, it will be a subject of the deepest mortification to them both. You will have no doubt heard with regret, that the Duke of Clarence has had a very sharp attack ^{of his usual} Spasmodic Bowel complaints, which we have learnt by a correspondence between the two Duties. It is considered generally to His Royal Highness having got well, when he had an incipient cold upon him, but knowing his convivial habits, the Duke of Kent feared it may have been a consequence resulting from the grand dinner given by the Garrison of Harrow to General Bannerman. I have the satisfaction of stating that the Duke continues well, and having nothing further to add, I shall conclude by subscribing

125
